MORRISSEY AFFAIR . . .

Ted Performs Agonizing Duty

By ARTHUR EDSON

Washington (AP)—Rarely has the Senate seen a more dramatic moment.

Spectators in the well-filled galleries leaned forward expectantly. Senators who often play hookey near the end of a session were, surprisingly, out in force. Even more surprisingly, they were listening.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., had the floor doing what he had to do, and what he had to do stuck in his throat.

Those amazing, hard-fighting Kennedys don't lose often, but they lost Thursday. With victory in their grasp, they chose not to grab it.

Relentless Push

Relentlessly they had pushed the appointment of their old Boston friend, Francis X. Morrissey, for a job as federal judge. They had got President Johnson to nominate him. And they had run into a torrent of opposition, with claims that Morrissey had neither the legal training nor the experience to fit him for the federal bench

A whole day had been set aside for the Senate to mull, to argue and finally to dispose of the affair Morrissey.

The Kennedy clan, closely knit and fighters all, gathered early.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., talked earnestly with first one senator, then another.

Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy, and the sister of the senatorial brothers, Mrs. Sargent Shriver, chatted together in the gallery.

There For Kill

It looked as if everyone was there for the kill, another in that long line of victories that put John F. Kennedy in the White House and his two brothers in the Senate.

Up got 33-year-old Ted Kennedy to say that, although the nomination was controversial, 60 of Morrissey's fellow Municipal Court judges in Massachusetts approved it.

"These are the people who know him best," Kennedy said, and his voice was loud and clear. ". . . They are satisfied, as the President of the United States is satisfied, as the attorney general is satisfied, and as I am satisfied—that Francis Morrissey will fulfill the high tradition of the United States District Court in Massachusetts."

Amazing Thing

Then, as he went along, an amazing thing happened.

His voice weakened, his confident tone disappeared

As he reached the part about Morrissey's humble beginnings, one of 12 children so poor "their shoes (were) held together with wooden pegs their father made," he was unable to speak at all.

Kennedy took a drink of water, regained his composure and plowed on to the totally unexpected end.

Even though a majority of the Senate appeared ready to vote to confirm Morrissey, Kennedy said that, because of the criticism, because of new evidence submitted, because of the respect he holds for the federal judiciary, he wanted the nomination sent back to the Judiciary Committee for further study.

Unhappy Face

And with that he sat down, his face a study in unhappiness, if not of agony.

Up got Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen, R-Ill., leader of the opposition, to salute Kennedy for his decision.

"He has risen to the heights," Dirksen rumbled, and he reached over to shake Kennedy's hand.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, confirmed that the Kennedys could have won it. "The votes were here to confirm Francis X. Morrissey," Mansfield said.

Why then did Ted Kennedy—at least temporarily—throw in the towel?

They'll Be Around

Well, the Kennedys will be around for a long time, maybe long enough—some people hope, some people fear—for one or both to make it to the White House.

In the long run victory can be more costly than defeat. Perhaps too many senators who said they would go along didn't have their hearts in it.

Whatever the reason, the painful decision was made. When the words of praise for it were concluded, Bob Kennedy came up, grinned wryly and side by side the two brothers left the Senate.

Even their political enemies would have to agree that in defeat they had salvaged everything possible.

LBJ, Proud Of Marines, Goes Home

Washington (AP) — President Johnson, a grinning convalescent, returned to the White House Thursday after admonishing others still in the hospital, "Now you get well."

The President, in a dark business suit, his wife beside him, left Bethesda Naval Hospital 13 days after surgery that removed his gall bladder with a gallstone and also a kidney stone.

He had entered the hospital two weeks ago Thursday night. He left it weighing less, a little under 200 pounds, and with good color, good cheer and good words for the care he got.

Mighty Proud

Just before leaving, he spent a few minutes in a neurosurgical ward to tell some Marines wounded in Viet Nam and other patients there that their families, their country and their President are mighty proud of them.

"I feel like a fellow casualty; I've been slashed up a bit . . . but I've gone through nothing like what you've gone through," he told them.

Some may feel they got a bad break, he said, but "because of what you had done, 3 billion people in the world will get a better break."

'Guys Like You'

He had special words for two wounded Marines who lay in beds in a separate room. "Guys like you have made this nation great," he told the two, Jonathan Say of New York City and Virgil Bohler of Silsabee, Tex

After the 30-minute automobile trip to the White House, the President found his two dogs and an array of staff members waiting for him at the back door. Smiling broadly, he patted beagle Him and collie Blanco and shook hands with the impromptu receiving line.

He is expected to stay at the White House for a short period and then probably go to his ranch in Texas for convalescence.

VOTE ACT RULING ASKED

Case Straight To High Court

. . . POWER RARELY USED

Washington (AP)—The government, invoking a rarely used constitutional power, asked the Supreme Court Thursday to affirm the constitutionality of the 1965 voting rights act.

The Justice Department action also asks the court to end obstruction of the voting law by Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

In those states, state courts have blocked registrars from enrolling some of the voters registered by federal examiners appointed under the 10-week-old voting law

The government—for only the 15th time in history and the first time since 1949—asked the high court to assume original jurisdiction in the case. This means the Supreme Court would accept the case directly instead of an appeal after the normal course through lower federal courts.

Article 3 of the Constitution provides that the high court may assume such jurisdiction "in all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state may be a party."

The court may agree or reject the original jurisdiction plea at its discretion.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach asked the court to agree to accept the case to provide a quick test of the constitutionality of the new law.

Tidelands

The last time the Supreme Court accepted original jurisdiction in a case was in a 1949 suit against Texas, involving title to the oil-rich offshore lands.

The Justice Department briefs to the court said full participation in primary elections next spring and summer—May in Alabama, June in Mississippi and August in Louisiana — might be denied if the controversies surrounding the new law had to be fought over in U.S. District Courts and then appealed.

The high court was asked to nullify orders of state courts in the three states as well as to block those states and their registrars from any further delay in enrolling those persons listed by federal examiners as eligible voters.

None On State Lists

The government said that by the end of September, federal examiners in 14 counties of the three states had transmitted to local registrars the names of 46,000 eligible voters—but "no person certified by the examiners has been placed on the state lists."

Along with the briefs, Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall submitted a document which says the Justice Department does not oppose a motion by South Carolina to file its own original suit against the attorney general challenging the new law's constitutionality.

In a separate motion seeking speedy handling of the case, the department suggested that Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana be required to reply to the government move by Nov. 10, with an eye to conducting oral arguments before the full court in January.

Hospital, High School Combined

. . . ORTHOPEDIC PATIENTS CHOOSE FROM 36 COURSES

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

High School students who spend a large part of their young lives in and out of hospitals now are able to receive medical care, treatment and therapy at the State Orthopedic Hospital here and still keep up with their graduating class.

In a joint venture of the State Departments of Education, Institutions, Welfare and the Lincoln Public Schools, teen-age patients, some on stretchers and in wheelchairs, are crowded into the sun porch three days a week for instruction from Mrs. Carleton Flynn.

Known as the Lincoln Orthopedic High School, the sessions include courses from students' home high schools or an Adult High School program, special remedial programs and regular discussions of current events.

Education Third

Hospital Supt. Tom Hermanson pointed out that, of necessity, education has to take third place in importance at the institution behind the effort to correct orthopedic problems so that the patient can lead "as nearly a normal life as possible."

Therefore, high school classes have to be scheduled around medical treatment in clinics and therapy sessions, he said.

Nevertheless, the hospital superintendent, school officials and department directors have reached an apparent consensus that the November 1964 move putting high school students at Orthopedic under the Adult High School and accreditation, financed by the Department of Education, has been a worthwhile change.

Receiving complaints that patients fell behind in their studies and deciding that the previous system of correspondence courses supervised by elementary teachers was inadequate, the Services for Crippled Children initiated the change for 10th, 11th and 12th graders, according to the agency's administrative assistant, Donald Hogg.

Hermanson noted that there had even been recent speculation about putting the elementary and junior high classes held in the new educational wing of the hospital in a similar arrangement under the public school system or in a special program with the University of Nebraska.

Some students continue four academic courses started at their own school, Mrs. Flynn said, and lesson plans, tests and even occasional tape-recorded lectures go through the mail. Others in the hospital for longer periods can schedule a program with the Adult High School.

Even though Mrs. Flynn can sometimes be teaching as many as 36 courses for nine students, she still finds time to use educational television and other programmed material for remedial problems, if necessary, and regular discussions for everyone on current events.

The school generally limits its subject matter to academic material, but the girls once prepared a cheesecake that didn't require an oven for home economics. And Mrs. Flynn sometimes performs simple science experiments.

Summer Activity

In the summer when the high schoolers had finished their courses, Mrs. Flynn kept them busy with hobbies and crafts. The Lincoln teacher even went to school herself to learn how to knit, so that she could teach "my girls."

They were quick to learn, she boasted. One already takes orders for extra money and another is teaching a class of nurses and other patients.

"Mrs. Flynn is a real gem in her interest and concern with those kids," Adult High Principal James Lightbody declared "She is able to establish a rapport with them that makes her job exceed just teaching"

Supt. Hermanson also complimented her "initiative to seek out school dropouts and encourage them to complete their high school education."

Dropout Success

Mrs. Flynn feels "successful" that she was able to get one dropout to return to school, attend her classes and even request that she supervise his correspondence courses after he left the hospital.

Orthopedic High School operates with a donated 400-500 volume library, Mrs. Flynn said. She brings magazines and newspapers from her home and her neighbors and gets some reclaimed from the Post Office, but Lightbody indicated that periodical subscriptions have been ordered.

Harlan Adams of the Department of Education reported that the Lincoln Schools were reimbursed $2,668.05 for the November-June 1965 period from special education project funds. Up to $4,500 is prorated annually for the high school, he said.

MOTHER, 2 CHILDREN KILLED AT CROSSING

Grafton (UPI)—A car-train crash Thursday morning took the lives of a mother of seven and two of her children and left four others hospitalized in critical condition.

One other member of the family chose to forego a ride to walk to school. She came upon the scene of the tragedy a few minutes after the collision occurred.

The mother was Mrs. Anna Mizner, 42. The children killed were Ralph, 15, and Margie, 6. All died instantly.

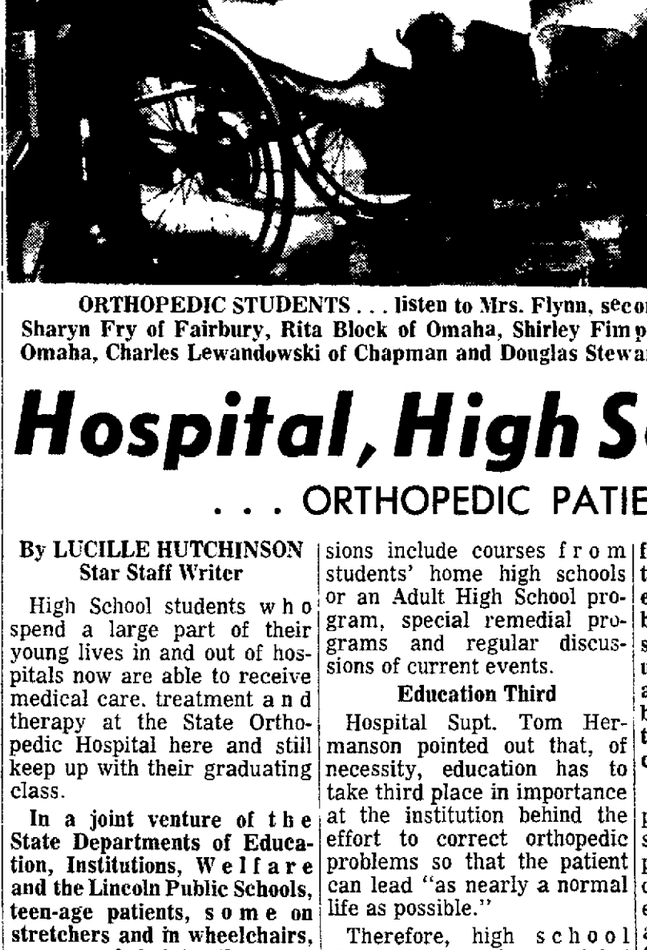

Taken in critical condition to the Fillmore County Hospital at nearby Geneva were four Mizner children, Sarah, 16; Melvin, 10; Clayton, 7; and Rosie, 2.

Investigating officers said the train carried the car more than a half mile. The bodies of Margie, Sarah and Melvin were found lying alongside the railroad tracks.

The Mizner family car was struck by an eastbound 105-car Burlington freight at a crossing near the Mizner home.

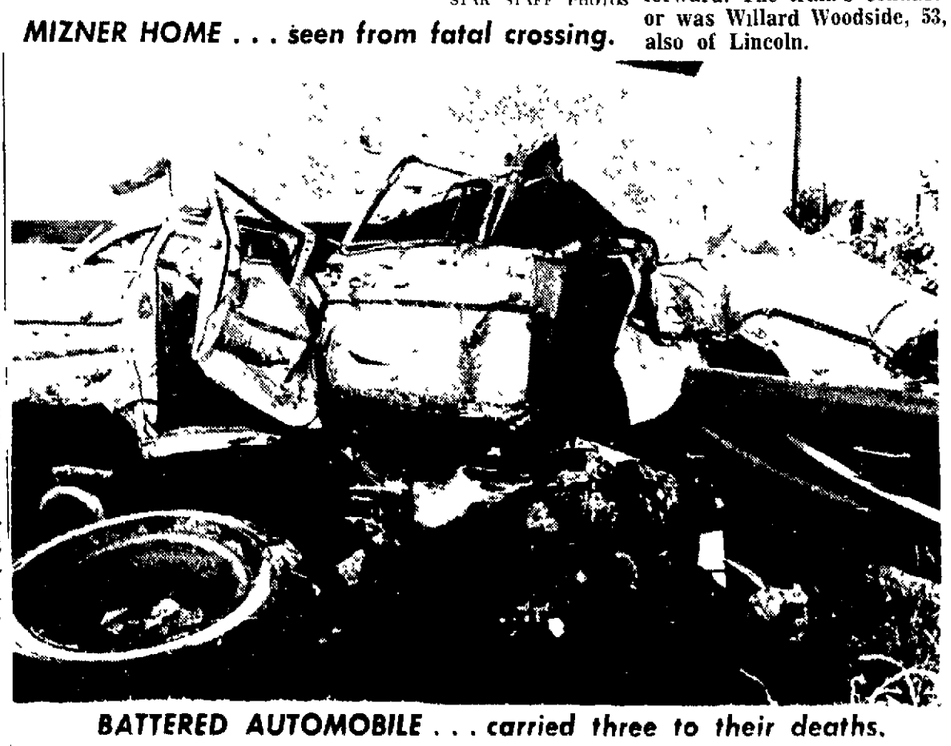

Officers said Mrs. Mizner was taking the two oldest children to high school in the neighboring town of Fairmont. The child who chose to walk to school was May, 13

According to the conductor of the train, Charles N. Baker, 43, of Lincoln, the Mizner vehicle stopped at the crossing and then moved slowly forward. The train's conductor was Willard Woodside, 53, also of Lincoln.

Future Grain Bin Space Looks Small To Mowry

The need for grain bin space to store surplus feed grains and wheat looks "mighty small" in the years ahead, according to T. Scott Mowry, director of the Bin Storage Division USDA, Washington, D.C. who addressed some 1,000 Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committeemen and office personnel here Thursday

Mowry told ASCS personnel attending their 1965 convention here that of 965 million bushels of bin space as of January 1, 1964 that 250 million bushels of this storage has been sold by the government.

In Nebraska this reduction in bin space has amounted to about 13% of total. Mowry said.

Everett Felber, director of the ASCS farm program division, USDA, Washington, D.C., told the conference that plans are being made to allow farmers to sign up earlier on the feed grains program than in past years.

"We will permit an earlier feed grain and wheat sign-up but the final date may remain about the same as previous years. You should be ready to take applications for the cropland adjustment program by December 1, 1965," said Felber.

16-Year-Old Sailor Makes Solo Voyage

Honolulu (AP)—Lee Graham, the 16-year-old sailor trying to cruise around the world alone in his 24-foot sail boat, has arrived safely in Apia, Western Samoa.

Mrs. Norma Graham of Honolulu, Lee's mother, received a radiogram Thursday advising that he reached Apia Wednesday.

The brief message said he could not go on to Pago Pago, American Samoa, because of a broken mast. It did not explain how the mast was broken.

The youth set out 37 days ago on a world tour in a 24-foot sailboat, Dove. His only company were two cats, Suzette and Juliet. He sailed from Los Angeles July 27 and from Honolulu Sept. 14.

"I wish he'd said something about whether my cats are all right," said his aunt, Mrs. Wanda Fischer in Torrance, Calif

Honolulu (AP)—Lee Graham, the 16-year-old sailor trying to cruise around the world alone in his 24-foot sail boat, has arrived safely in Apia, Western Samoa.

Mrs. Norma Graham of Honolulu, Lee's mother, received a radiogram Thursday advising that he reached Apia Wednesday.

The brief message said he could not go on to Pago Pago, American Samoa, because of a broken mast. It did not explain how the mast was broken.

The youth set out 37 days ago on a world tour in a 24-foot sailboat, Dove. His only company were two cats, Suzette and Juliet. He sailed from Los Angeles July 27 and from Honolulu Sept. 14.

"I wish he'd said something about whether my cats are all right," said his aunt, Mrs. Wanda Fischer in Torrance, Calif.

Rat, Headless Chicken Cited As Klan Tricks

Washington (AP) — Congressional investigators accused the Ku Klux Klan Thursday of plotting violence and harassment — including stuffing dead rats and headless chickens into mailboxes of their enemies.

Finishing up two days of questioning of James R. Jones, Klan grand dragon of North Carolina, staff members of the House Un-American Activities Committee brought out that a Klan officer in New Bern, N.C., pleaded guilty to a series of bombings.

Jones, as he has done all along, refused to answer any questions about the case involving Raymond Mills, who has since testified before the committee in closed session.

A letter from Jones was read in which he said Mills had been suspended but not "banished."

Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., said, "You pretend to be against violence, but you have never expelled anyone."

This exchange followed the introduction of tax returns showing that Jones' income took a hefty jump when he became North Carolina grand dragon. He declined to answer questions about that, too, citing constituitonal grounds.

Chief investigator Donald T. Appell read a long list of North Carolina cross burnings, many of them on May 28 of this year, including one on the lawn of the governor's mansion.

Willis then read from what he indicated was a Klan document entitled "Harassment."

It said, "All members should tax their minds to devise new means . . . . They should have a humorous twist in the nature of Halloween pranks."

16 Suggestions

The booklet then gave 16 suggestions, including roofing nails, sugar and molasses in gas tanks, firecrackers, snakes and lizards, stink bombs, tear gas, paint, BB guns, Roman candles and skyrockets and noisemakers.

Willis said it also mentioned throwing dead rats in front of homes or into mailboxes, chickens with their heads cut off, and dead bugs.

The discussion of Jones's income was accompanied by testimony that he enjoyed these fringe benefits as well:

—A brand new Cadillac, which Klan klaverns all over the state were assessed to pay for.

—A new Dodge station wagon they said was paid for out of Klan funds.

—A death benefit setup for widows of Klansmen with a built-in "enormous profit" for the Klan.

Rowe Again Calls Wilkins Gunman

Hayneville, Ala. (AP) — For the second time, an FBI informer pointed out young Klansman Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr. as the gunman who killed a white civil rights worker from Detroit.

Red-haired Gary Thomas Rowe, a former Birmingham bartender, told during 25 minutes of direct testimony how he and three other Klansmen followed a car in which Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, 39, was shuttling marchers back from Montgomery after the massive walk to the Alabama capital March 25. Riding with her when she was shot was a Negro youth, Leroy Moton.

Rowe was brought into the courtroom through a side entrance under heavy guard of FBI agents and state troopers.

"Eventually, we pulled up," the 35-year-old Rowe said in describing the chase of the Liuzzo car which began in Selma.

Elbow Length

"The first thing I knew, Wilkins stuck his arm out of the window, elbow length. Wilkins told Eugene Thomas to speed up. Just as he pulled up, the woman driving looked at us."

Rowe told the court that Wilkins fired two quick shots then several more, and Thomas and William O. Eaton fired several shots.

"I don't think you hit those people." Rowe said he told Wilkins.

"He smacked my right leg. He said, 'Baby brother, I don't miss. That bitch and that bastard are dead as hell."

The witness gave similar testimony at Row's first trial in May. That trial ended with a hung jury. Thomas and Eaton also are under murder indictments but their trials have not yet been set.

At FBI's Behest

On cross-examination, Rowe said he joined the Klan in 1960 at the FBI's request.

"What inducement did they offer you?" asked defense attorney Arthur J. Hanes, former mayor of Birmingham and former FBI agent.

"Merely that I would be helping the people of my country," Rowe said.

Hanes read a copy of the KKK oath which said a Klansman would die rather than reveal Klan secrets. "Did you take this oath?" the attorney asked.

"I took the oath with reservation," Rowe said.

"Since that time have you divulged the names of Klansmen?" Hanes asked.

"Yes, sir."

"Any secrets?"

"Yes, sir."

Chemistry Nobel To Harvard Prof; 3 Share Physics Prize

Stockholm (UPI)—A Harvard University professor whose research has contributed to development of medicines and anesthetics won the Nobel Prize for chemistry Thursday. The Nobel award for physics went to two Americans and a Japanese scientist.

Robert Burns Woodward, 48, of Cambridge, Mass., was awarded the 1965 Nobel chemistry prize of $56,400.

Julian Schwinger, 47, also a Harvard professor, won the physics award along with Prof. Richard P. Feynman, 47, of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, and Japanese scientist Sinichiro Tomonaga, 59. They will share the $56,400 cash award.

Better Computers

Discoveries by the physics prize winners may lead to smaller but more efficient computers and more sophisticated electronic equipment, scientists said.

Woodward was said by other leading chemists to have opened up new horizons in his field. He contributed to the discovery of penicillin.

"More than any other living chemist he has had a major influence on other scientists by establishing new and daring philosophies for organic synthesis." one colleague said.

Chlorophyll Synthesis

Woodward, who discovered in 1960 how to make in a laboratory the chlorophyll that makes grass and leaves green, was chosen by the Royal Swedish Academy of Science for "meritorious contributions to the art of organic synthesis."

He has synthesized quinine —a feat accomplished when he was only 26—as well as chlorophyll, cholesterol, cortisone, reserpine, strychnine and other substances.

The awards brought to 14 the number of Harvard professors who have won the Nobel Prizes. Tomonaga was only the second Japanese to receive a Nobel award.

Tomonaga

Feynman

The three winners of the physics prize were described as theoretical scientists whose work can be applied to the booming computer industry.

Hard Facts

The Nobel announcement said they were honored for transforming the so-called "exchange play" between elementary particles to hard mathematical facts.

The groundwork for their discoveries was laid more than 20 years ago while the United States and Japan were at war. They reached their conclusions independently without cooperation.

Prof. Erik Rudberg of the Swedish academy said the three professors were honored because of their "fundamental work in quantum electrodynamics, with deep-plowing consequences for the physics of the elementary particles."

The awards Thursday brought the total of physics prizes to the United States to 25. Britain, the runnerup, has received 13 prizes during the 65 years of the Nobel awards.

Woodward celebrated his reception of the prize by sipping champagne in his office, surrounded by his beaming colleagues.

Pencil Theoretician

His work has been carried out with paper and pencil while a staff of laboratory workers did the actual experiments.

Schwinger, whose work has been lauded for producing the most accurate existing theory about the interaction of electrons, jokingly remarked that "I never really understood algebra" when he was notified of the award.

But actually, he said, his work paved the way for "all the thinking since then in elementary particle physics."

Tomonaga's son, Atsushi, said his father was very surprised when he learned of the Nobel award.

The Japanese professor has for many years led a group of prominent theoretical physicists at Tokyo University of Education. The only Japanese Nobel winner before Thursday was Hideki Yukawa, also of Tokyo University.

Wilson Invites Self To Rhodesia Talks

London (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced Thursday he will fly to Rhodesia in a bid "to avert the tragic consequences" of seizure of independence by that African colony's prime minister, Ian Smith.

Wilson said in a hard-hitting message to Smith that he was going to Salisbury not only to talk to him, but anyone else "whose views I feel to be relevant to a solution of this grave problem."

Aides said Wilson intends to fly to Salisbury with Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley Sunday or Monday and expects to stay there several days. It will be his first trip to Africa.

Didn't Ask

It was noted that Wilson did not request Smith's approval of the visit — the normal course under British colonial procedure.

In Salisbury, Smith accepted Wilson's proposal to fly in and indicated that no obstacle will be placed in Wilson's way if he wants to talk to African nationalist leaders.

Wilson noted that Smith raised the possibility of a treaty between the two governments binding an independent Rhodesia to respect the civil rights of the African majority

Smith Didn't

"You did not raise this with me during our negotiations" earlier this month, Wilson observed.

"It was in fact raised by me at our final meeting on Oct. 11."

Wilson said he was willing to discuss the treaty question more fully.

Defense To Try To Prove Nudist, 'Girlie' Literature Has Some Value

Sioux City, Iowa (UPI) — One of the defense attorneys in the trial of four publishing firms and 11 individuals on obscenity charges said he would attempt to prove the material in question has literary value.

The material includes nudist and "girlie" magazines, paperback books and calendars.

In opening arguments before the jury, Stanley Fleischman said the magazines and books offered "a slice of life" the contents of which "appeal to the normal curiosity of the average person." Fleischman is defense counsel for Milton Luros, publisher of the four corporations, and Luros' wife, Beatrice.

Serve Purpose

"No one is nominating these books for the Pulitzer Prize, but they do serve a purpose," Fleischman said. He contended the material was muted in comparison with many best sellers.

The first witness in the trial, tabbed as the largest criminal case in northwest Iowa history, told the jurors Fleischman allegedly served in an advisory capacity to the defendants prior to final printing of some of the magazines.

Bernard Wisner, Sherman Oaks, Calif. a former officer in the firm of London Press, Inc., said that on two occasions he had participated in conversations between himself, Fleischman and Luros.

Proofs Reviewed

He testified that Fleischman would review certain proofs of magazines to determine whether material in them could be defended.

U.S. District Atty. Donald O'Brien called on Wisner to relate his duties and activities while a printing plant supervisor for London Press.

Under questioning by O'Brien, Wisner said the firm was spending about $40,000 a month for printing paper to publish the nudist magazines and "girlie" books when he left it after 3½ years. He said another $4,000 to $5,000 was spent monthly for the ink used in the printing.

The four California publishing firms charged with obscenity are Sun Era Publishing Co., London Press, Parliament News and Art Agency magazine.

Marie 'The Body' McDonald Found Dead; Often In News

Hidden Hills, Calif. (UPI) —Marie (The Body) McDonald, whose divorces, mysterious kidnap-rape and other escapades kept her in the headlines, was found dead in her home Thursday of undetermined causes.

Marie

The body of the blonde glamor girl-actress, 42, was discovered slumped at her dressing table by her husband, film producer Donald F. Taylor

The Los Angeles County coroner said an autopsy "did not reveal the cause of death."

The coroner said the examination showed "no injuries."

Six Husbands

Miss McDonald, famed for her physical endowments, was married six times.

While never a major star, Miss McDonald's motion picture assignments were spiced by her off-screen hijinks. She was in and out of the courts with all of her husbands.

Her other husbands were shoe magnate Harry Karl, sportsman Richard Allord, agent Vic Orsatti, agent Lou Bass and attorney Edward T. Callahan.

1957 Escapade

Her most spectacular escapade took place in 1957 when the sultry beauty alleged she had been kidnaped by a pair of zootsuited hoodlums who took her to the desert, raped her and stole her clothing and valuables. She told police the abductors held her for 24 hours and demanded $80,000 ransom.

She was found wandering on the desert clad only in pajama tops. She had saved a 22 carat diamond ring by secreting it in her body.

The kidnapers were never found and some police officials said the story was a hoax.

Miss McDonald had been inactive in recent years. Her latest movie was "Promises, Promises, Promises" in 1963 with Jayne Mansfield.

Milwaukee Road Opposes Merger

Omaha (UPI) — The proposed merger by the Union Pacific and Rock Island Railroads would prove very "destructive," the general solicitor of the Milwaukee Road said Thursday

The Denver & Rio Grande Western previously expressed opposition to the proposed merger.

VIET CONG DEATHS IN 1965 ESTIMATED BY U.S. AT 25,000

Washington (AP)—About 25,000 Viet Cong soldiers have been killed in Viet Nam so far this year—8,000 more than in all of 1964—U.S. officials said Thursday.

But despite these heavier losses, the number of communist regular and irregular troops has gone up over the past four months, the officials conceded.

The officials said the weekly kill rate is up 75% from a year ago, totaling an average of about 585 enemy troops slain each week by U.S. and South Vietnamese forces. Total Viet Cong deaths in the past four months were estimated at 10,000 to 12,000.

It was estimated that the communists now have from 75,000 to 80,000 hard-core regulars, 100,000 to 120,000 part-time soldiers and about 40,000 propagandists, tax collectors and other political officers in South Viet Nam

This compares with an estimate of 70,000 regulars four months ago, along with 80,000 to 100,000 irregulars and 30,000 political agents.

Mueting Ready To File Fund Shortage Charge

Norfolk, Neb. (UPI)—Madison County Atty. Richard Mueting has told the city council he is ready to file charges in connection with a shortage in Norfolk police collection funds.

However, Mueting refused to say who would be charged, what the charges will be or when they will be filed.

He said, however, that his investigation indicated more money was missing than first expected. He said that in the eight areas of police collections covered in the report, at least $8,111 was definitely missing between January 1962 and April 1965.

However, Mueting said because of a lack of accurate records, the amount may be over $10,000.

"I still haven't found out all I want to know," he said.

He told the council he has given certain information to the city attorney for further action. He also urged the council to rapidly put into effect a plan to centralize collections in city offices.

City administrator Greg Stuve said the new system would begin next month.

Police Chief Otis Knotwell resigned his post after the collection shortages were discovered. However, he disclaimed any wrongdoing.

I.O.O.F. Grand Lodge Selects New Officers

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

York—Election of officers and a discussion of the United Nations Pilgrimage highlighted the I.O.O.F. Grand Lodge annual assembly here Thursday.

Taking over from Wayne Colgrove of Odell as Grand Master is Harold Day of Ainsworth. Other officers are: Richard Henderson of Exeter, deputy grand master; Eugene Wayne Anderson of Norfolk, grand warden; C. R. Karlquist of Omaha, grand treasurer; and Virgil Carter of York, grand secretary.

The auxiliary Rebekah Assembly chose Mrs. Helen R. Neef of Omaha as president with Mrs. Jesse Dobrovolny of Atkinson, vice-president; Mrs. Eileen Simmons of Beatrice, warden; Mrs. Sophia Pascale of Omaha, secretary; and Mrs. Asa Lane of Fremont, treasurer.

Charles Worrell of Baltimore, Md., director of the U.N. Pilgrimage, and Gene J. Bianchi of Oakdale, Calif., chairman of the International Joint Youth Committee, attended Thursday's business sessions to discuss the pilgrimage and "to express our gratitude to them (the Nebraska Grand Lodge) for their support and for having the largest delegation last year."

Three buses carried 91 outstanding Nebraska high school students on the 17-day trip last summer, taking them on visits of several eastern national shrines and historic sites and a week-long observation of the United Nations.

"We do not instruct them to be for or against the U.N.," stressed Bianchi. "They go there to learn about it so they can decide for themselves."

Friday's business session will take up discussion of the $1.5 million housing project for the elderly proposed by the executive committee. The project has sparked considerable interest with 10 communities bidding for it, but no location decision will be made at this time, Colgrove noted.

NORFOLK MAN KILLED BY CAR ON HIGHWAY 35

Norfolk, Neb. (UPI)—Leonard Zastrow, 58, of rural Norfolk, was dead on arrival at a local hospital Wednesday night after being struck by a car two miles northeast of here on Highway 35.

Deputy County Atty. Milton Ellwood said Zastrow was walking north on the west side of the highway when he was hit by a car driven by Ronald Asmus, 17, Hoskins, Neb.

Asmus told authorities he swerved his car, but could not avoid hitting Zastrow. Asmus' car overturned in a ditch but he was unhurt.

Demos Invite Ted Kennedy For Address

Kearney (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts has been invited to Nebraska to speak at the Democrats' Jefferson-Jackson Day fund-raising dinner in the spring, John C. Mitchell, state Democratic chairman, said Thursday.

Mitchell, who was in Washington for a meeting, quoted Kennedy as saying he "very much desires to visit Nebraska" and is going to make every effort to be present if there is no conflict in his schedule.

Mitchell, who attended a Democratic Party meeting of state chairmen, said they were given briefings by various members of the cabinet, met with Vice President Hubert Humphrey and attended a White House reception.

Civilian Medical Carriers Studied

Omaha (UPI) — A conference for the "study of medical transportation and communications" will be presented Oct. 30-31 at the Nebraska Center in Lincoln.

This is the first conference to be held in Nebraska to study and to evaluate the everyday problems of civilian medical transportation.

It is being conducted by the department of surgery of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine. Dr. Lynn W. Thompson, an associate in anesthesia at the College of Medicine, is course coordinator.

LeMay Complains Too Little Air Power Used In Viet Nam

Washington (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, retired Air Force chief of staff, said Thursday not enough air power was being used in the Viet Nam conflict and, as a result, "There are people still getting killed who shouldn't be killed."

LeMay made the comment at a luncheon honoring him as winner of the 1965 Collier trophy, one of aviation's top honors.

"They are beginning to get around today to some of the things that should have been done two years ago," he said, "some of the things the last Republican candidate for president recommended as an Air Force officer as well as a candidate."

This apparently was a reference to bombing North Viet Nam, something proposed by former Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, 1964 Republican presidential candidate.

"There is an air war out there and we can still make a contribution," LeMay said, but didn't specify what the contribution could be except to indicate that he felt the need for more use of air power.

LeMay, a top bomber commander during World War II who created the Strategic Air Command, headquartered in Omaha, and led it for a decade, said it seemed to him that fliers had "always been fighting to make contribution to our country."

He said he had "fought with two presidents over our contribution, and since I've been retired we're still fighting, without too much success."

LeMay spoke for only a few minutes at the luncheon, devoted mainly to honoring him.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, calling LeMay "a great patriot, an intrepid airman," presented him with the Collier trophy earlier in ceremonies at the Executive Office Building.

"Gen. LeMay is respected by the Congress of the United States as few men ever have been," said Humphrey.

The Collier trophy is awarded annually by the National Aeronautic Association.

Senate Approves Father Flanagan Commemoration

Washington (UPI)—The Senate Thursday approved, and sent to President Johnson, a bill authorizing a memorial here to Father Edward J. Flanagan, founder of Boys Town in Nebraska.

The Senate acted by a routine voice vote. Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., had urged the action Wednesday.

The memorial would be erected by Father Flanagan's Boys' Home of Boys Town, Neb. It would be selected by the Secretary of Interior, with approval of the D. C. Fine Arts Commission and the National Capitol Planning Commission.

Maintenance and care of the memorial would be a responsibility for the secretary of interior.

Concordia College Educators Hear Teacher Of Year

Seward — Richard Klinck, named Teacher of the Year by Look magazine, addressed aspiring educators Thursday at Concordia Teachers College.

An advocate of field trips and instruction outside the classroom to augment standard courses of study, Klinck urged the teaching of beauty and wonder to elementary students—things it is assumed that they see, but in many cases they don't.

The Wheatridge, Colo., sixth grade instructor told a group of 45 attendants to a Nebraska College Teachers of Education meeting on the campus, that children must be brought close to nature.

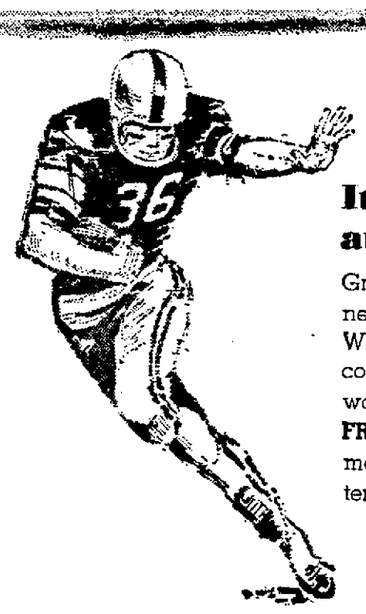

They must be made to think and taught a sense of values, he explained.

Klinck also addressed a Concordia student convocation in the evening and met with the college faculty.

Tough Hospital Task

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The grinding task of providing Lincoln with a modern, efficient system of community health care continues to move along. A member of the University of Colorado coaching staff said that Nebraska's football team used a "crunching T" offense. "They just keep crunching you," he said. You might say the same thing about the Lincoln hospital program.

The hospital job is a difficult one because it is dedicated to a unified effort, held together through the efforts of the Lincoln Community Council. This group is composed of a majority of members from the community at large and two representatives from each of the three accredited Lincoln hospitals. You don't put three hospitals in the same room together without controversy any more than you would put three insurance companies, banks, manufacturing companies, etc. Each of the three institutions is trying to have the best hospital possible at the lowest possible cost and they quite obviously are not always going to see eye to eye.

Each Looking To Own

Within the council, there has to be some give and take and that is never a simple or easy thing. This was shown in the most recent council settlement of the proposal by Lincoln General Hospital to build an additional three-story shell on their new hospital for use for long-term or chronic care purposes. The council decided in favor of the plan but not with unanimity.

St. Elizabeth's Hospital plans a new facility for which it will need $1.75 million in federal Hill-Burton funds. It also will receive the lion's share of the recent community hospital fund drive which netted an unprecedented total in excess of $2 million. It will take the cream of the drive funds in order to balance out fund allocations in the past to the other two Lincoln hospitals from various sources.

St. Elizabeth's objected to the Lincoln General plan and cast the only two votes against it in council action. The plan picked up seven votes, with two members not voting. While recognizing some validity to the plan, St. Elizabeth's expressed the fear that the proposition by Lincoln General could undermine public confidence and thereby endanger pledges still due on the fund drive and could endanger any future request for Hill-Burton funds. The first reservation is based on the fact that Lincoln General had planned to use the 17th Street wing of its existing structure as a chronic care center with some 130 beds. It would be remodeled at a cost of approximately $300,000.

In switching to the plan for three new floors in the new hospital, Lincoln General will spend some $680,000. Thus, the amount of money being spent is increased and the spending time-table advanced. The question is whether donors to the recent drive will accept this for the economy that it is or view it as broken faith. It could cause some people to believe that excessive funds were collected and the wool, therefore, pulled over their eyes. Offsetting this is the fact that the $680,000, apparently, is not really free and clear for use. The money would come from the Emily J. Moore fund which is administered by the Hospital Association, a separately incorporated arm of Lincoln General. Again presumably, this fund would eventually have to be reimbursed by someone. Thus, the $680,000 does not represent a slush fund which might have gone to reduce the amount of the fund drive.

Does it then represent an expenditure that the public should not be asked to assume in view of the load already being carried through the fund drive and city tax support of Lincoln General's building program? The public must answer that question itself but the pertinent consideration here is one of economy.

To have stuck with its plan of remodeling the old building, Lincoln General would have saddled itself with a chronic care operation that could never approach in efficiency the operation that can be achieved with incorporation of chronic care into the main hospital unit. To delay construction of the three additional floors would hike their cost at some future date to a probable $900,000. To say the issue should have been settled before the fund drive and the public so informed is to argue that when a mistake is made or an oversight committed, you should live with it forever.

The anxiety over complications in any future Hill-Burton application by St. Elizabeth's stems from the fact that chronic care beds can be turned into acute care bed bed use overnight. It could be argued by those opposed to St. Elizabeth's that the 260 chronic care beds at Lincoln General and additional such beds at Bryan Memorial be converted to acute care space, no funds be allocated to St. Elizabeth's and the acute care bed problem in Lincoln solved at an 80 percent savings in cost. This, of course, would short Lincoln on chronic care beds and Hill-Burton allocations for chronic and acute care bed facilities are made on a separate basis, not lumped together.

Institutional Differences

Any such maneuver to deny St. Elizabeth's essential Hill-Burton funds would be an obvious injustice and an absolute abortion of the much heralded community-unit plan approach to metropolitan hospital needs, but such travesties are not unknown and constitute the most serious risk in the Lincoln Hospital Council action. Such are the headaches and hard difficulties of progress. But the three Lincoln hospitals still live with the mandates of the council, regardless of how distasteful they might be on an individual institutional basis, and for that the community can be grateful.

Expanding Role For Women

The expanding role of women in today's world has been the subject of those attending the University of Nebraska Home Economics Day for Homemakers at the Center for Continuing Education. The validity of this subject can no longer be questioned. At the same time, it is a subject that has come to have wide acceptance in place of the reservations with which it was once met.

Today's woman, be she single or married, has been a vital part of the development of the life of her community. No longer is she the one who takes care of the home and watches the rest of the world go by. She still cares for the home or holds down a job in her chosen career but she is now found in many other She is a force for progress in the field of education, in safety, in politics and in a wide range of community services. Her efforts are profound in a vast number of social programs aimed at the improvement of human beings and a realization of the full potential that is within everyone.

The women of today have been greatly assisted in this by advancements in technology which have freed her from much of the time-consuming drudgery that occupied her in the past. It is greatly to the credit of these women and to the benefit of society that the opportunity afforded women has been seized so vigorously by them and turned into the kind of contribution that it has.

Legislative Weakness

Vincent Burke of Sioux City, Ia., drew $6,600 a year as a counselor in the Iowa Division of Rehabilitation.

But he obeyed the impulse to broaden his public service. So he ran for and was elected to the Iowa legislature. Then the roof fell in. His earnings as a state lawmaker were only $4,350 during 1965, and he couldn't live on it. To make out the year he took a job handling freight.

He is not running for re-election although his one term indicated that he was a good legislator.

There is nothing unusual in this relation of facts. Many men everywhere have refused to serve in legislatures for the same reason. They cannot afford such a costly avocation.

This peculiar sense of economy that is so noticeable in the pay scales of lawmakers amounts to a case of the public defeating its own democratic purpose. It limits our legislatures to a narrow band of economic eligibles. A wealthy man can afford the sacrifice. A well established farmer whose work is done by others can have a legislative career. Certain businessmen who can spare the time off without loss of income, and a few others, can be legislators. All others are restrained for economic reasons.

This is straining democratic representation through too fine a screen and tends to place our law making power in the hands of a certain elite. But what about the numerous other segments of our society which have needs and no direct representation?

Great Benefactor Dies

Dr. Ernest Hohner died the other day at the age of 79 at his home in Trossingen, Germany.

We mention this because Mr. Hohner, in his way made musical performers of an immense number of people, including almost every American at one time or other in his life. Mr. Hohner continued the family business of manufacturing harmonicas, or as we know them commonly, mouth organs.

The simple harmonicas sold for as little as a dime, holding two brass plates containing metal reeds, separated by a piece of wood so slotted that any one with lungs full of air could blow harmonic sounds that were pleasing to the ear. By constant puffing and moving the instrument from one harmonic to the other one could come forth with pleasant tunes.

This gave great pleasure to the common man who knew virtually nothing about music, the rules of harmony or the difference between chords and discords. It was four part music in one easy lesson. The lonesome cowboy was less lonesome when he had a mouth organ to blow on. Little children got a special sense of achievement by blowing watery sounds out of this 10 cent musical instrument. Many a wealthy and dignified corporation head been known to go home nights, lock the bedroom door pull the covers over his head and spend a secret hour with a mouth harp.

We don't know of anything that could be made of a little bit of brass and some cheap wood that gave humankind, everywhere such happiness.

Klan Strengthened By Outside Support

WASHINGTON —Probably there are no more than 10,000 klansmen in all the Klans throughout the United States. This is very few compared with the post-civil war days when Klan membership ran over a million, or the days immediately following World War I when the Klan became a great political force as far north as Ohio, Indiana, New Jersey, Maryland and even abolitionist Kansas.

Today the Klan would have little influence in the South were it not for three facts:

1. Its terror squads, which bomb, beat and kill by night; and whose members seem immune to jury conviction.

2. A great deal of financial support and sympathy for non-klansmen such as members of the White Citizens Councils. It's estimated that the Klan has about 100,000 supporters and sympathizers who aid it on the side without actually being members.

3. Certain high-placed politicians who give the Klan tacit support.

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, for instance, has the strong support of the Klan and has never renounced it. His predecessor, Gov. John Patterson, also had Klan support, and Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton of the United Klans was sometimes seen in the Alabama state capitol.

Even Dean Burch, chairman of the Republican National Committee during the Goldwater campaign, and Rep. William Miller of New York, candidate for vice president on the Republican ticket, stated last year that they would not refuse Klan support. The tacit okay of such high-placed politicians gives the Klan a certain amount of prestige which otherwise it would not have.

☆ ☆ ☆

On the other hand, Attorney General Richmond Flower of Alabama has been waging a campaign against the Klan; also Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia. Another Georgia governor, Ellis Arnall, was one of the first to oppose the Klan publicly.

In Louisiana the Klan is bitterly opposed to Sen. Russell Long, Democratic Senate whip, and to Rep. Hale Boggs, Democratic House whip in Washington. Boggs voted for the Negro voting rights bill. On the other hand, the Klan supports Sen. Allen Ellender of Louisiana who threatened to filibuster against this bill.

One former klansman, who has kept me posted regarding inner Klan workings, states: "The Klan has already sent word down to destroy Sen. Long and Hale Boggs politically. Some of their killers would kill both of these men if they were sure that no jury would convict them."

Election Day A Moment Of Truth

NEW YORK—Residents of New York City, rich and poor alike, rank high on any list of the most disgruntled and complaining people on earth, and with good reason. On election day, November 2, they will confront their moment of truth.

They can embrace again the party that has been in power during most of the city's lifetime and its clubhouse candidate for mayor, Controller Abraham Beame. This would amount to a cynical conclusion that city is probably ungovernable anyway, so it might as well bear with the ills it has.

Or they can choose a vigorous, young reform mayor who assures them that their dangers and discomforts can be relieved by the honest application of political intelligence. This would be an expression of faith and hope in the American political system fully as much as a personal triumph for Rep. John V. Lindsay.

Visiting firemen cannot penetrate this vast city's electoral mood any more than they can escape the constant expression on every hand of its frustrations. The polls are contradictory, the crowd enthusiasm is variable. An atmosphere of tension at both Beame and Lindsay headquarters suggests that neither is really confident of winning.

On the surface Beame seems to be holding the preponderant Democratic strength together, but it is a facade of the clubhouse types who take little pains to hide their self-interest. He cannot be sure the voters will follow after.

Lindsay entered the race with rave advance notices about his rugged handsomeness, his humor and his charm. He has them, but he is a serious man and it is coming through in a series of position papers on the city's intractable problems. Oddly, people who complain the most about the problems also complain now that he should rely more on spreading the sunshine of his personality rather than revealing his intellectual grasp of the new urban society.

But the name is Lindsay, the ancestry Scotch. He still spends wearing hours on the streets, shaking hands and invading crowds, but he is doing his duty as he sees it in setting forth his plans. The Scotch plant their feet even when the wind hurts.

Lindsay's problems are complicated by his near-unique position as a Kennedy-style moderate in a big state, which makes him potentially a valuable Republican property.

The right-wing Republican, William F. Buckley Jr., who seized the chance to cut him down, is making a considerable showing as the Conservative party candidate. His votes come from Democrats as well, but Democrats, of course, have more votes to spare.

The party line at Beame headquarters is that Lindsay is making ungentlemanly personal attacks on their fine candidate. Beame himself, an agreeable but unimpressive man, wisely plays it cool.

In the home stretch of a campaign one candidate usually has it made, even though predictions about which one is whether New Yorkers are really as incensed about their dangers and discomforts of life in this consumers' paradise as they say they are.

Rainfall Brings Unwanted Crop

By MONA B. PARKER

It is reminded the Blue Hill Leader, the time for putting up storm windows . . . repairing garden and lawn equipment . . . digging, drying and storing bulbs . . . and washing up summer clothing.

Don't bother to iron summer things, though, the Leader advises. It's a waste of time. Just tuck them away in a cedar closet. . . "and use the time to enjoy the fall colors on an outing with the family."

Harold Spence notes in the Holdrege Citizen that if he had a little more mushroom know-how, he would be able to supplement his diet with some choice bits of the delicacy. The moisture has sent them to sprouting everywhere hither and yon, including his backyard, and in a variety of sizes and shapes. Some of them he supposes are edible, but he concedes that he's not enough of a connoisseur to know which would go well with steak or hamburger, and which "might put me on a slab in the morgue after a couple of bites."

Mushrooms aren't the only thing that abundant rains have brought forth in profusion. . .

Some ranchers sorting cattle in a pasture north and west of Springview killed one rattlesnake near the windmill, soon saw another, and yet another, and discovered the entire hillside crawling with them. They went to work with shovel and rifle and before the day was done, had dispensed with 100 of the reptiles. Next day, 80 more were killed.

Taking some of the rattlers alive were representatives of the Game Commission and two snake-hunting enthusiasts from Ainsworth. Sizes ranged up to as long as 44 inches.

One Kearney father was the victim of wishful thinking, or else he was just living most blissfully in the past. When his daughter asked him for money to enter college, to defray expenses of books, tuition and clothes, he brought forth from his pocket the magnificent sum of $40. It was quite emphatically pointed out to him that such an amount would have to be drastically stretched even to prepare a five-year-old for kindergarten these days . . .

A Hastings father is certain that he'll be hearing from their son, who has gone away to college. "He took two stamped envelopes along," he explained. One for each semester, I think."

Harry Morris was circulating northwest of Odell in the interest of circulation for the Wymore Arbor State, and called upon Herman Ottersberg. The Ottersbergs and Mr. Morris, too, remember back to the 30's and they were recalling how it was in those lean years, trying to keep subscribers on the mailing list.

"I'd take about anything," Mr. Morris wrote. "I took an old battery, two hens and an old rooster that took two days to cook so the meat was tender enough for the family to eat, for a year's subscription."

The drudging housewife may be forgiven for her dreams in technicolor that encompass the ultimate. As one of them put it, "As long as you're dreaming, you might as well dream big."

Margaret Fox notes with satisfaction, in the Gretna Breeze, that there are now in production men's shirts which never need ironing. "When will they invent some which never will need washing?" she wants to know.

Editor Max Martin and his barber were both in a lather over the World Series, apparently, and on opposite betting sides. "The Yankee Clipper," the Pawnee Republican newsman calls Barber Smutz, and the price of several haircuts was the stake. There was one point in the series where Mr. Martin was glad he was merely wagering with Mr. Smutz and not patronizing him. "I'm at least thankful I wasn't getting my neck shaved when Willie Davis or Maury Wills were stealing bases. With a television to watch, I imagine the Clipper was swinging a mean razor."

MARQUIS CHILDS

LBJ's Helpers Also In Need Of Rest

WASHINGTON — Not only is President Johnson tired after his operation but his is a tired administration suffering from prolonged battle fatigue. As one of his field commanders put it: "I think the whole high command should be replaced."

The President will recuperate at his ranch, spending virtually the rest of the year there, which is well and good. And there is nothing wrong with his principal ministers that a three-or four-week vacation from all official duties would not remedy. But under the pressure perpetual crisis-psychology, they feel they are chained to their desks and imprisoned in endless squirrel-cage conferences.

For state, defense and the arms control and disarmament agency, the unsolved riddle of Germany and the authority over nuclear weapons within the Atlantic alliance hangs in the air like a Halloween spook that will not go away. The administration is deeply divided over how to solve this puzzle with the disarmers insisting that a nuclear proliferation treaty should take precedence, while the German watchers insist that a way must be found first to bring Germany within the framework of nuclear defense.

Compounding the division in Washington is the crack in the facade in West Germany. With the political pressures growing in Germany for big power status in nuclear weaponry, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard had been unable, despite his election victory, to form a government. The long delay was partly due to increasing suspicion that Washington intends to "sell Germany out" for a deal with Moscow.

Therefore, when family and kind friends suggest to overworked policy-makers that three or four weeks on a beach would be a good idea, they answer, yes, but what about Germany and Europe — and we can't get away. We have to have an agreed policy before Chancellor Erhard comes here early in December and that is only four or five weeks off.

In the administration there is some inclination to wait and see what Erhard himself brings over. Let him, so this goes, tell us what he can get by with, short of the multilateral force. For despite rather feeble official protests to the contrary, it is now evident that this quaint and entirely unworkable gimmick is an extinct as the dodo.

Equally obvious is the disarray in in the alliance over the German-nuclear issue. With one or two exceptions — in degree rather than in actual contradiction — the Atlantic allies give a treaty with the Soviet Union to try to check the spread of nuclear weapons priority over a German say-so in the use of nuclear weapons. This reflects the feeling of a last chance to head off a nuclear arms race that will see eight or nine or ten nations with nuclear weapons in a few years. Outwardly loyal to the official line, this is the conviction deeply shared by America's disarmers.

A further complication is President Charles De Gaulle's more and more outspoken antagonism toward Germany. With his former partner, Konrad Adenauer, out of power, De Gaulle in private talks makes no secret of his contempt for Erhard as an apostle of European integration and the Common Market. The Franco-German treaty, which was to cement the Europe of the two and in actual fact the Europe of the one, looks more and more like a monument to the buried past. Just off stage, still yearning for power, Adenauer breathes venom at Erhard and cultivates suspicion of the Johnson adminisration.

There are hard, tough, irrefragable issues and small wonder that the men wrestling with them for so long are weary. But this raises the question whether tired minds under the pressure of a deadline can come up with a new response. And a corollary question is whether a waiting period may not be essential to determine just how far the Germans mean to push their nuclear demand.

The policy vacuum is almost as conspicuous in Asia in the wake of the India-Pakistan war. The pre-war strategy — positioning India against China and Pakistan against the Soviet Union — is no longer valid. Urgent messages from both New Delhi and Rawalpindi ask what American policy is. Both Pakistan President Ayub Khan and Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri have hinted they would like to talk with the President and an impending visit before Congress returns would mean still another deadline. Economic aid, military aid, Kashmir — these are pieces of the tangle that must somehow be sorted out.

Bone-weary men struggling with the Hydra of world turmoil, seven days a week, eleven or twelve hours a day, must be pitied. With the President at the ranch for a long stay, including the time when the new budget must be hammered together, their tasks will be complicated, since they will commute from Washington and work in improvised offices. Rest and relaxation are important for the President but they are just as important for the hard-pressed men around him.

"J. G., old boy—I haven't seen you down at the "OVER 70 CLUB" for ages—"

Tough Hospital Task

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The grinding task of providing Lincoln with a modern, efficient system of community health care continues to move along. A member of the University of Colorado coaching staff said that Nebraska's football team used a "crunching T" offense. "They just keep crunching you," he said. You might say the same thing about the Lincoln hospital program.

The hospital job is a difficult one because it is dedicated to a unified effort, held together through the efforts of the Lincoln Community Council. This group is composed of a majority of members from the community at large and two representatives from each of the three accredited Lincoln hospitals. You don't put three hospitals in the same room together without controversy any more than you would put three insurance companies, banks, manufacturing companies, etc. Each of the three institutions is trying to have the best hospital possible at the lowest possible cost and they quite obviously are not always going to see eye to eye.

Each Looking To Own

Within the council, there has to be some give and take and that is never a simple or easy thing. This was shown in the most recent council settlement of the proposal by Lincoln General Hospital to build an additional three-story shell on their new hospital for use for long-term or chronic care purposes. The council decided in favor of the plan but not with unanimity.

St. Elizabeth's Hospital plans a new facility for which it will need $1.75 million in federal Hill-Burton funds. It also will receive the lion's share of the recent community hospital fund drive which netted an unprecedented total in excess of $2 million. It will take the cream of the drive funds in order to balance out fund allocations in the past to the other two Lincoln hospitals from various sources.

St. Elizabeth's objected to the Lincoln General plan and cast the only two votes against it in council action. The plan picked up seven votes, with two members not voting. While recognizing some validity to the plan, St. Elizabeth's expressed the fear that the proposition by Lincoln General could undermine public confidence and thereby endanger pledges still due on the fund drive and could endanger any future request for Hill-Burton funds. The first reservation is based on the fact that Lincoln General had planned to use the 17th Street wing of its existing structure as a chronic care center with some 130 beds. It would be remodeled at a cost of approximately $300,000.

In switching to the plan for three new floors in the new hospital, Lincoln General will spend some $680,000. Thus, the amount of money being spent is increased and the spending time-table advanced. The question is whether donors to the recent drive will accept this for the economy that it is or view it as broken faith. It could cause some people to believe that excessive funds were collected and the wool, therefore, pulled over their eyes. Offsetting this is the fact that the $680,000, apparently, is not really free and clear for use. The money would come from the Emily J. Thus, the $680,000 does not represent a slush fund which might have gone to reduce the amount of the fund drive.

Does it then represent an expenditure that the public should not be asked to assume in view of the load already being carried through the fund drive and city tax support of Lincoln General's building program? The public must answer that question itself but the pertinent consideration here is one of economy.

To have stuck with its plan of remodeling the old building, Lincoln General would have saddled itself with a chronic care operation that could never approach in efficiency the operation that can be achieved with incorporation of chronic care into the main hospital unit. 2. A great deal of financial support and sympathy for non-klansmen such as members of the White Citizens Councils. It's estimated that the Klan has about 100,000 supporters and sympathizers who aid it on the side without actually being members.

3. Certain high-placed politicians who give the Klan tacit support.

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, for instance, has the strong support of the Klan and has never renounced it. His predecessor, Gov. John Patterson, also had Klan support, and Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton of the United Klans was sometimes seen in the Alabama state capitol.

Even Dean Burch, chairman of the Republican National Committee during the Goldwater campaign, and Rep. William Miller of New York, candidate for vice president on the Republican ticket, stated last year that they would not refuse Klan support. The tacit okay of such high-placed politicians gives the Klan a certain amount of prestige which otherwise it would not have.

☆ ☆ ☆

On the other hand, Attorney General Richmond Flower of Alabama has been waging a campaign against the Klan; also Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia. Another Georgia governor, Ellis Arnall, was one of the first to oppose the Klan publicly.

In Louisiana the Klan is bitterly opposed to Sen. Russell Long, Democratic Senate whip, and to Rep. Hale Boggs, Democratic House whip in Washington. Boggs voted for the Negro voting rights bill. On the other hand, the Klan supports Sen. Allen Ellender of Louisiana, who threatened to filibuster against this bill.

One former klansman, who has kept me posted regarding inner Klan workings, states: "The Klan has already sent word down to destroy Sen. Long and Hale Boggs politically. Some of their killers would kill both of these men if they were sure that no jury would convict them."

Election Day A Moment Of Truth

NEW YORK—Residents of New York City, rich and poor alike, rank high on any list of the most disgruntled and complaining people on earth, and with good reason. On election day, November 2, they will confront their moment of truth.

They can embrace again the party that has been in power during most of the city's lifetime and its clubhouse candidate for mayor, Controller Abraham Beame. This would amount to a cynical conclusion that city is probably ungovernable anyway, so it might as well bear with the ills it has.

Or they can choose a vigorous, young reform mayor who assures them that their dangers and discomforts can be relieved by the honest application of political intelligence. This would be an expression of faith and hope in the American political system fully as much as a personal triumph for Rep. John V. Lindsay.

Visiting firemen cannot penetrate this vast city's electoral mood any more than they can escape the constant expression on every hand of its frustrations. The polls are contradictory, the crowd enthusiasm is variable. An atmosphere of tension at both Beame and Lindsay headquarters suggests that neither is really confident of winning.

On the surface Beame seems to be holding the preponderant Democratic strength together, but it is a facade of the clubhouse types who take little pains to hide their self-interest. He cannot be sure the voters will follow after.

Lindsay entered the race with rave advance notices about his rugged handsomeness, his humor and his charm. He has them, but he is a serious man and it is coming through in a series of position papers on the city's intractable problems. Oddly, people who complain the most about the problems also complain now that he should rely more on spreading the sunshine of his personality rather than revealing his intellectual grasp of the new urban society.

But the name is Lindsay, the ancestry Scotch. He still spends wearing hours on the streets, shaking hands and invading crowds, but he is doing his duty as he sees it in setting forth his plans. The Scotch plant their feet even when the wind hurts.

Lindsay's problems are complicated by his near-unique position as a Kennedy-style moderate in a big state, which makes him potentially a valuable Republican property.

The right-wing Republican, William F. Buckley Jr., who seized the chance to cut him down, is making a considerable showing as the Conservative party candidate. His votes come from Democrats as well, but Democrats, of course, have more votes to spare.

The party line at Beame headquarters is that Lindsay is making ungentlemanly personal attacks on their fine candidate. Beame himself, an agreeable but unimpressive man, wisely plays it cool.

In the home stretch of a campaign one candidate usually has it made, even though predictions about which one is whether New Yorkers are really as incensed about their dangers and discomforts of life in this consumers' paradise as they say they are.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Rainfall Brings Unwanted Crop

By MONA B. PARKER

It is, reminded the Blue Hill Leader, the time for putting up storm windows . . . repairing garden and lawn equipment . . . digging, drying and storing bulbs. . . and washing up summer clothing.

Don't bother to iron summer things, though, the Leader advises. It's a waste of time. Just tuck them away in a cedar closet. . . "and use the time to enjoy the fall colors on an outing with the family."

☆ ☆ ☆

Harold Spence notes in the Holdrege Citizen that if he had a little more mushroom know-how, he would be able to supplement his diet with some choice bits of the delicacy. The moisture has sent them to sprouting everywhere hither and yon, including his backyard, and in a variety of sizes and shapes. Some of them he supposes are edible, but he concedes that he's not enough of a connoisseur to know which would go well with steak or hamburger, and which "might put me on a slab in the morgue after a couple of bites."

Mushrooms aren't the only thing that abundant rains have brought forth in profusion. . .

Some ranchers sorting cattle in a pasture north and west of Springview killed one rattlesnake near the windmill, soon saw another, and yet another, and discovered the entire hillside crawling with them. They went to work with shovel and rifle and before the day was done, had dispensed with 100 of the reptiles. Next day, 80 more were killed.

Taking some of the rattlers alive were representatives of the Game Commission and two snake-hunting enthusiasts from Ainsworth. Sizes ranged up to as long as 44 inches.

One Kearney father was the victim of wishful thinking, or else he was just living most blissfully in the past. When his daughter asked him for money to enter college, to defray expenses of books, tuition and clothes, he brought forth from his pocket the magnificent sum of $40. It was quite emphatically pointed out to him that such an amount would have to be drastically stretched even to prepare a five-year-old for kindergarten these days . . .

A Hastings father is certain that he'll be hearing from their son, who has gone away to college. "He took two stamped envelopes along," he explained. One for each semester, I think."

☆ ☆ ☆

Harry Morris was circulating northwest of Odell in the interest of circulation for the Wymore Arbor State, and called upon Herman Ottersberg. The Ottersbergs and Mr. Morris, too, remember back to the 30's and they were recalling how it was in those lean years, trying to keep subscribers on the mailing list.

Editor Max Martin and his barber were both in a lather over the World Series, apparently, and on opposite betting sides. "The Yankee Clipper," the Pawnee Republican newsman calls Barber Smutz, and the price of several haircuts was the stake. There was one point in the series where Mr. Martin was glad he was merely wagering with Mr. Smutz and not patronizing him. "I'm at least thankful I wasn't getting my neck shaved when Willie Davis or Maury Wills were stealing bases. With a television to watch, I imagine the Clipper was swinging a mean razor."

"I'd take about anything," Mr. Morris wrote. "I took an old battery, two hens and an old rooster that took two days to cook so the meat was tender enough for the family to eat, for a year's subscription."

☆ ☆ ☆

The drudging housewife may be forgiven for her dreams in technicolor that encompass the ultimate. As one of them put it, "As long as you're dreaming, you might as well dream big."

Margaret Fox notes with satisfaction, in the Gretna Breeze, that there are now in production men's shirts which never need ironing. "When will they invent some which never will need washing?" she wants to know.

MARQUIS CHILDS

LBJ's Helpers Also In Need Of Rest

WASHINGTON — Not only is President Johnson tired after his operation but his is a tired administration suffering from prolonged battle fatigue. As one of his field commanders put it: "I think the whole high command should be replaced."

The President will recuperate at his ranch, spending virtually the rest of the year there, which is well and good. And there is nothing wrong with his principal ministers that a three-or four-week vacation from all official duties would not remedy. But under the pressure perpetual crisis-psychology, they feel they are chained to their desks and imprisoned in endless squirrel-cage conferences.

For state, defense and the arms control and disarmament agency, the unsolved riddle of Germany and the authority over nuclear weapons within the Atlantic alliance hangs in the air like a Halloween spook that will not go away. The administration is deeply divided over how to solve this puzzle with the disarmers insisting that a nuclear proliferation treaty should take precedence, while the German watchers insist that a way must be found first to bring Germany within the framework of nuclear defense.

Compounding the division in Washington is the crack in the facade in West Germany. With the political pressures growing in Germany for big power status in nuclear weaponry, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard had been unable, despite his election victory, to form a government. The long delay was partly due to increasing suspicion that Washington intends to "sell Germany out" for a deal with Moscow.

Therefore, when family and kind friends suggest to overworked policy-makers that three or four weeks on a beach would be a good idea, they answer, yes, but what about Germany and Europe — and we can't get away. We have to have an agreed policy before Chancellor Erhard comes here early in December and that is only four or five weeks off.

In the administration there is some inclination to wait and see what Erhard himself brings over. Let him, so this goes, tell us what he can get by with, short of the multilateral force. For despite rather feeble official protests to the contrary, it is now evident that this quaint and entirely unworkable gimmick is an extinct as the dodo.

Equally obvious is the disarray in in the alliance over the German-nuclear issue. With one or two exceptions — in degree rather than in actual contradiction — the Atlantic allies give a treaty with the Soviet Union to try to check the spread of nuclear weapons priority over a German say-so in the use of nuclear weapons. This reflects the feeling of a last chance to head off a nuclear arms race that will see eight or nine or ten nations with nuclear weapons in a few years. Outwardly loyal to the official line, this is the conviction deeply shared by America's disarmers.

A further complication is President Charles De Gaulle's more and more outspoken antagonism toward Germany. With his former partner, Konrad Adenauer, out of power, De Gaulle in private talks makes no secret of his contempt for Erhard as an apostle of European integration and the Common Market. The Franco-German treaty, which was to cement the Europe of the two and in actual fact the Europe of the one, looks more and more like a monument to the buried past. Just off stage, still yearning for power, Adenauer breathes venom at Erhard and cultivates suspicion of the Johnson adminisration.

There are hard, tough, irrefragable issues and small wonder that the men wrestling with them for so long are weary. But this raises the question whether tired minds under the pressure of a deadline can come up with a new response. And a corollary question is whether a waiting period may not be essential to determine just how far the Germans mean to push their nuclear demand.

The policy vacuum is almost as conspicuous in Asia in the wake of the India-Pakistan war. The pre-war strategy — positioning India against China and Pakistan against the Soviet Union — is no longer valid. Urgent messages from both New Delhi and Rawalpindi ask what American policy is. Both Pakistan President Ayub Khan and Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri have hinted they would like to talk with the President and an impending visit before Congress returns would mean still another deadline. Economic aid, military aid, Kashmir — these are pieces of the tangle that must somehow be sorted out.

Bone-weary men struggling with the Hydra of world turmoil, seven days a week, eleven or twelve hours a day, must be pitied. With the President at the ranch for a long stay, including the time when the new budget must be hammered together, their tasks will be complicated, since they will commute from Washington and work in improvised offices. Rest and relaxation are important for the President but they are just as important for the hard-pressed men around him.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"J. G., old boy—I haven't seen you down at the "OVER 70 CLUB" for ages—"

POSTCARD by Stan Kelley

The first winter rain came bouncing down from the Aleutians (where storms are born).

Man's home is his castle. But it is seldom weatherproof.

When rains come, we realize how frail the shelter — even though supported by a second mortgage. Little leaks develop under the shingles. Little pools of water gather by the door — inside.

Such things seem impossible. Man has been building houses for thousands of years. He has access to plastics and miracle fibers. And the miracle is that the same old rain keeps blowing in.

☆ ☆ ☆

Buttered popcorn and nuts and apples are very sustaining in winter weather.

Popcorn poppers are electric nowadays. Instant popcorn.

In my youth, they attached an instant boy to the end of the popcorn popper. The popper was made of black iron. You had to shake it like mad or it would burn.

I shook enough of this stuff to give me the arm of a wrestler to this day. I didn't get that muscle lifting champagne glasses.

☆ ☆ ☆

The perfume people sent me some information today — I had to go out in the pouring rain to get it out of the box. (But you never know, it might have been a check.)

The perfume industry would like men to wear perfume.

They cite that Diogenes (while looking for an honest man) wore perfume on his feet.

Louis XV passed a law that nobody in his court could wear the same perfume two days a row. Had to change.

In spite of this evidence, I can't bring myself even to try perfume. My grandfather would have said it was "sissy." And built-in prejudice is almost impossible to put aside.

☆ ☆ ☆

I called the airlines the other day and asked how traffic is going. It is going largely to the Caribbean this year.

Going to Jamaica and Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. The rum-and-sugar islands and the long, white beaches on the ink-blue water.

☆ ☆ ☆

We ordered firewood the other day. Had it stacked in the garage. The firewood comes ready-cut.

I was no rail splitter as a youth. But I did have to split the kindling — a chore we all had.

Winter brought a lot of activity for boys. Kindling and popcorn. Carrying in wood for a fireplace that simply ate it up.

It was a busy time. I am for modern conveniences.

Not as many babies are born in winter as in the merry month of May—the big month for babies.

But winter fathers are more apt to have pregnancy symptoms resembling their wives'. They have strange appetites and morning sickness. And one of their common complaints is toothache.

A British doctor noticed this. He wrote a paper on it. I doubt that this paper will get many readers — being in a scientific journal. It seemed worthwhile passing on. (The doctor doesn't know why either.)

Have your offspring in summer and be comfortable.

Thus the long winter approaches. "A sad tale's best for winter," said William Shakespeare.

Tough Hospital Task

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The grinding task of providing Lincoln with a modern, efficient system of community health care continues to move along. A member of the University of Colorado coaching staff said that Nebraska's football team used a "crunching T" offense. "They just keep crunching you," he said. You might say the same thing about the Lincoln hospital program.

The hospital job is a difficult one because it is dedicated to a unified effort, held together through the efforts of the Lincoln Community Council. This group is composed of a majority of members from the community at large and two representatives from each of the three accredited Lincoln hospitals. You don't put three hospitals in the same room together without controversy any more than you would put three insurance companies, banks, manufacturing companies, etc. Each of the three institutions is trying to have the best hospital possible at the lowest possible cost and they quite obviously are not always going to see eye to eye.

Each Looking To Own

Within the council, there has to be some give and take and that is never a simple or easy thing. This was shown in the most recent council settlement of the proposal by Lincoln General Hospital to build an additional three-story shell on their new hospital for use for long-term or chronic care purposes. The council decided in favor of the plan but not with unanimity.

St. Elizabeth's Hospital plans a new facility for which it will need $1.75 million in federal Hill-Burton funds. It also will receive the lion's share of the recent community hospital fund drive which netted an unprecedented total in excess of $2 million. It will take the cream of the drive funds in order to balance out fund allocations in the past to the other two Lincoln hospitals from various sources.

St. Elizabeth's objected to the Lincoln General plan and cast the only two votes against it in council action. The plan picked up seven votes, with two members not voting. While recognizing some validity to the plan, St. Elizabeth's expressed the fear that the proposition by Lincoln General could undermine public confidence and thereby endanger pledges still due on the fund drive and could endanger any future request for Hill-Burton funds. The first reservation is based on the fact that Lincoln General had planned to use the 17th Street wing of its existing structure as a chronic care center with some 130 beds. It would be remodeled at a cost of approximately $300,000.

In switching to the plan for three new floors in the new hospital, Lincoln General will spend some $680,000. Thus, the amount of money being spent is increased and the spending time-table advanced. The question is whether donors to the recent drive will accept this for the economy that it is or view it as broken faith. It could cause some people to believe that excessive funds were collected and the wool, therefore, pulled over their eyes. Offsetting this is the fact that the $680,000, apparently, is not really free and clear for use. The money would come from the Emily J. Moore fund which is administered by the Hospital Association, a separately incorporated arm of Lincoln General. Again presumably, this fund would eventually have to be reimbursed by someone. Thus, the $680,000 does not represent a slush fund which might have gone to reduce the amount of the fund drive.

Does it then represent an expenditure that the public should not be asked to assume in view of the load already being carried through the fund drive and city tax support of Lincoln General's building program? The public must answer that question itself but the pertinent consideration here is one of economy.

To have stuck with its plan of remodeling the old building, Lincoln General would have saddled itself with a chronic care operation that could never approach in efficiency the operation that can be achieved with incorporation of chronic care into the main hospital unit. To delay construction of the three additional floors would hike their cost at some future date to a probable $900,000. To say the issue should have been settled before the fund drive and the public so informed is to argue that when a mistake is made or an oversight committed, you should live with it forever.

The anxiety over complications in any future Hill-Burton application by St. Elizabeth's stems from the fact that chronic care beds can be turned into acute care bed bed use overnight. It could be argued by those opposed to St. Elizabeth's that the 260 chronic care beds af Lincoln General and additional such beds at Bryan Memorial be converted to acute care space, no funds be allocated to St. Elizabeth's and the acute care bed problem in Lincoln solved at an 80 percent savings in cost. This, of course, would short Lincoln on chronic care beds and Hill-Burton allocations for chronic and acute care bed facilities are made on a separate basis, not lumped together.

Institutional Differences

Any such maneuver to deny St. Elizabeth's essential Hill-Burton funds would be an obvious injustice and an absolute abortion of the much heralded community-unit plan approach to metropolitan hospital needs, but such travesties are not unknown and constitute the most serious risk in the Lincoln Hospital Council action. Such are the headaches and hard difficulties of progress. But the three Lincoln hospitals still live with the mandates of the council, regardless of how distasteful they might be on an individual institutional basis, and for that the community can be grateful.

Expanding Role For Women

The expanding role of women in today's world has been the subject of those attending the University of Nebraska Home Economics Day for Homemakers at the Center for Continuing Education. The validity of this subject can no longer be questioned. At the same time, it is a subject that has come to have wide acceptance in place of the reservations with which it was once met.

Today's woman, be she single or married, has been a vital part of the development of the life of her community. No longer is she the one who takes care of the home and watches the rest of the world go by. She still cares for the home or holds down a job in her chosen career but she is now found in many other She is a force for progress in the field of education, in safety, in politics and in a wide range of community services. Her efforts are profound in a vast number of social programs aimed at the improvement of human beings and a realization of the full potential that is within everyone.

The women of today have been greatly assisted in this by advancements in technology which have freed her from much of the time-consuming drudgery that occupied her in the past. It is greatly to the credit of these women and to the benefit of society that the opportunity afforded women has been seized so vigorously by them and turned into the kind of contribution that it has.

Legislative Weakness

Vincent Burke of Sioux City, Ia., drew $6.600 a year as a counselor in the Iowa Division of Rehabilitation.

But he obeyed the impulse to broaden his public service. So he ran for and was elected to the Iowa legislature. Then the roof fell in. His earnings as a state lawmaker were only $4,350 during 1965, and he couldn't live on it. To make out the year he took a job handling freight.

He is not running for re-election although his one term indicated that he was a good legislator.

There is nothing unusual in this relation of facts. Many men everywhere have refused to serve in legislatures for the same reason. They cannot afford such a costly avocation.

This peculiar sense of economy that is so noticeable in the pay scales of lawmakers amounts to a case of the public defeating its own democratic purpose. It limits our legislatures to a narrow band of economic eligibles. A wealthy man can afford the sacrifice. A well established farmer whose work is done by others can have a legislative career. Certain businessmen who can spare the time off without loss of income, and a few others, can be legislators. All others are restrained for economic reasons.

This is straining democratic representation through too fine a screen and tends to place our law making power in the hands of a certain elite. But what about the numerous other segments of our society which have needs and no direct representation?

Great Benefactor Dies

Dr. Ernest Hohner died the other day at the age of 79 at his home in Trossingen, Germany.

We mention this because Mr. Hohner, in his way made musical performers of an immense number of people, including almost every American at one time or other in his life. Mr. Hohner continued the family business of manufacturing harmonicas, or as we know them commonly, mouth organs.

The simple harmonicas sold for as little as a dime, holding two brass plates containing metal reeds, separated by a piece of wood so slotted that any one with lungs full of air could blow harmonic sounds that were pleasing to the ear. By constant puffing and moving the instrument from one harmonic to the other one could come forth with pleasant tunes.

This gave great pleasure to the common man who knew virtually nothing about music, the rules of harmony or the difference between chords and discords. It was four part music in one easy lesson. The lonesome cowboy was less lonesome when he had a mouth organ to blow on. Little children got a special sense of achievement by blowing watery sounds out of this 10 cent musical instrument. Many a wealthy and dignified corporation head been known to go home nights, lock the bedroom door pull the covers over his head and spend a secret hour with a mouth harp.

We don't know of anything that could be made of a little bit of brass and some cheap wood that gave humankind, everywhere such happiness.

Klan Strengthened By Outside Support

WASHINGTON —Probably there are no more than 10,000 klansmen in all the Klans throughout the United States. This is very few compared with the post-civil war days when Klan membership ran over a million, or the days immediately following World War I when the Klan became a great political force as far north as Ohio, Indiana, New Jersey, Maryland and even abolitionist Kansas.

Today the Klan would have little influence in the South were it not for three facts:

1. Its terror squads, which bomb, beat and kill by night; and whose members seem immune to jury conviction.

2. A great deal of financial support and sympathy for non-klansmen such as members of the White Citizens Councils. It's estimated that the Klan has about 100,000 supporters and sympathizers who aid it on the side without actually being members.

3. Certain high-placed politicians who give the Klan tacit support.

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, for instance, has the strong support of the Klan and has never renounced it. His predecessor, Gov. John Patterson, also had Klan support, and Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton of the United Klans was sometimes seen in the Alabama state capitol.

Even Dean Burch, chairman of the Republican National Committee during the Goldwater campaign, and Rep. William Miller of New York, candidate for vice president on the Republican ticket, stated last year that they would not refuse Klan support. The tacit okay of such high-placed politicians gives the Klan a certain amount of prestige which otherwise it would not have.

☆ ☆ ☆

On the other hand, Attorney General Richmond Flower of Alabama has been waging a campaign against the Klan; also Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia. Another Georgia governor, Ellis Arnall, was one of the first to oppose the Klan publicly.

In Louisiana the Klan is bitterly opposed to Sen. Russell Long, Democratic Senate whip, and to Rep. Hale Boggs, Democratic House whip in Washington. Boggs voted for the Negro voting rights bill. On the other hand, the Klan supports Sen. Allen Ellender of Louisiana, who threatened to filibuster against this bill.

One former klansman, who has kept me posted regarding inner Klan workings, states: "The Klan has already sent word down to destroy Sen. Long and Hale Boggs politically. Some of their killers would kill both of these men if they were sure that no jury would convict them."

Election Day A Moment Of Truth

NEW YORK—Residents of New York City, rich and poor alike, rank high on any list of the most disgruntled and complaining people on earth, and with good reason. On election day, November 2, they will confront their moment of truth.

They can embrace again the party that has been in power during most of the city's lifetime and its clubhouse candidate for mayor, Controller Abraham Beame. This would amount to a cynical conclusion that city is probably ungovernable anyway, so it might as well bear with the ills it has.

Or they can choose a vigorous, young reform mayor who assures them that their dangers and discomforts can be relieved by the honest application of political intelligence. This would be an expression of faith and hope in the American political system fully as much as a personal triumph for Rep. John V. Lindsay.

Visiting firemen cannot penetrate this vast city's electoral mood any more than they can escape the constant expression on every hand of its frustrations. The polls are contradictory, the crowd enthusiasm is variable. An atmosphere of tension at both Beame and Lindsay headquarters suggests that neither is really confident of winning.

On the surface Beame seems to be holding the preponderant Democratic strength together, but it is a facade of the clubhouse types who take little pains to hide their self-interest. He cannot be sure the voters will follow after.

Lindsay entered the race with rave advance notices about his rugged handsomeness, his humor and his charm. He has them, but he is a serious man and it is coming through in a series of position papers on the city's intractable problems. Oddly, people who complain the most about the problems also complain now that he should rely more on spreading the sunshine of his personality rather than revealing his intellectual grasp of the new urban society.

But the name is Lindsay, the ancestry Scotch. He still spends wearing hours on the streets, shaking hands and invading crowds, but he is doing his duty as he sees it in setting forth his plans. The Scotch plant their feet even when the wind hurts.

Lindsay's problems are complicated by his near-unique position as a Kennedy-style moderate in a big state, which makes him potentially a valuable Republican property.

The right-wing Republican, William F. Buckley Jr., who seized the chance to cut him down, is making a considerable showing as the Conservative party candidate. His votes come from Democrats as well, but Democrats, of course, have more votes to spare.

The party line at Beame headquarters is that Lindsay is making ungentlemanly personal attacks on their fine candidate. Beame himself, an agreeable but unimpressive man, wisely plays it cool.

In the home stretch of a campaign one candidate usually has it made, even though predictions about which one is whether New Yorkers are really as incensed about their dangers and discomforts of life in this consumers' paradise as they say they are.

Rainfall Brings Unwanted Crop

By MONA B. PARKER

It is reminded the Blue Hill Leader, the time for putting up storm windows . . . repairing garden and lawn equipment . . . digging, drying and storing bulbs. . . and washing up summer clothing.

Don't bother to iron summer things, though, the Leader advises. It's a waste of time. Just tuck them away in a cedar closet. . . "and use the time to enjoy the fall colors on an outing with the family."

Harold Spence notes in the Holdrege Citizen that if he had a little more mushroom know-how, he would be able to supplement his diet with some choice bits of the delicacy. The moisture has sent them to sprouting everywhere hither and yon, including his backyard, and in a variety of sizes and shapes. Some of them he supposes are edible, but he concedes that he's not enough of a connoisseur to know which would go well with steak or hamburger, and which "might put me on a slab in the morgue after a couple of bites."

Mushrooms aren't the only thing that abundant rains have brought forth in profusion. . .

Some ranchers sorting cattle in a pasture north and west of Springview killed one rattlesnake near the windmill, soon saw another, and yet another, and discovered the entire hillside crawling with them. They went to work with shovel and rifle and before the day was done, had dispensed with 100 of the reptiles. Next day, 80 more were killed.

Taking some of the rattlers alive were representatives of the Game Commission and two snake-hunting enthusiasts from Ainsworth. Sizes ranged up to as long as 44 inches.

One Kearney father was the victim of wishful thinking, or else he was just living most blissfully in the past. When his daughter asked him for money to enter college, to defray expenses of books, tuition and clothes, he brought forth from his pocket the magnificent sum of $40. It was quite emphatically pointed out to him that such an amount would have to be drastically stretched even to prepare a five-year-old for kindergarten these days . . .

A Hastings father is certain that he'll be hearing from their son, who has gone away to college. "He took two stamped envelopes along," he explained. One for each semester, I think."

Harry Morris was circulating northwest of Odell in the interest of circulation for the Wymore Arbor State, and called upon Herman Ottersberg. The Ottersbergs and Mr. Morris, too, remember back to the 30's and they were recalling how it was in those lean years, trying to keep subscribers on the mailing list.

"I'd take about anything," Mr. Morris wrote. "I took an old battery, two hens and an old rooster that took two days to cook so the meat was tender enough for the family to eat, for a year's subscription."

Editor Max Martin and his barber were both in a lather over the World Series, apparently, and on opposite betting sides. "The Yankee Clipper," the Pawnee Republican newsman calls Barber Smutz, and the price of several haircuts was the stake. There was one point in the series where Mr. Martin was glad he was merely wagering with Mr. Smutz and not patronizing him. "I'm at least thankful I wasn't getting my neck shaved when Willie Davis or Maury Wills were stealing bases. With a television to watch, I imagine the Clipper was swinging a mean razor."

MARQUIS CHILDS

LBJ's Helpers Also In Need Of Rest

WASHINGTON — Not only is President Johnson tired after his operation but his is a tired administration suffering from prolonged battle fatigue. As one of his field commanders put it: "I think the whole high command should be replaced."

The President will recuperate at his ranch, spending virtually the rest of the year there, which is well and good. And there is nothing wrong with his principal ministers that a three-or four-week vacation from all official duties would not remedy. But under the pressure perpetual crisis-psychology, they feel they are chained to their desks and imprisoned in endless squirrel-cage conferences.

For state, defense and the arms control and disarmament agency, the unsolved riddle of Germany and the authority over nuclear weapons within the Atlantic alliance hangs in the air like a Halloween spook that will not go away. The administration is deeply divided over how to solve this puzzle with the disarmers insisting that a nuclear proliferation treaty should take precedence, while the German watchers insist that a way must be found first to bring Germany within the framework of nuclear defense.

Compounding the division in Washington is the crack in the facade in West Germany. With the political pressures growing in Germany for big power status in nuclear weaponry, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard had been unable, despite his election victory, to form a government. The long delay was partly due to increasing suspicion that Washington intends to "sell Germany out" for a deal with Moscow.

Therefore, when family and kind friends suggest to overworked policy-makers that three or four weeks on a beach would be a good idea, they answer, yes, but what about Germany and Europe — and we can't get away. We have to have an agreed policy before Chancellor Erhard comes here early in December and that is only four or five weeks off.

In the administration there is some inclination to wait and see what Erhard himself brings over. Let him, so this goes, tell us what he can get by with, short of the multilateral force. For despite rather feeble official protests to the contrary, it is now evident that this quaint and entirely unworkable gimmick is an extinct as the dodo.

Equally obvious is the disarray in in the alliance over the German-nuclear issue. With one or two exceptions — in degree rather than in actual contradiction — the Atlantic allies give a treaty with the Soviet Union to try to check the spread of nuclear weapons priority over a German say-so in the use of nuclear weapons. This reflects the feeling of a last chance to head off a nuclear arms race that will see eight or nine or ten nations with nuclear weapons in a few years. Outwardly loyal to the official line, this is the conviction deeply shared by America's disarmers.

A further complication is President Charles De Gaulle's more and more outspoken antagonism toward Germany. With his former partner, Konrad Adenauer, out of power, De Gaulle in private talks makes no secret of his contempt for Erhard as an apostle of European integration and the Common Market. The Franco-German treaty, which was to cement the Europe of the two and in actual fact the Europe of the one, looks more and more like a monument to the buried past. Just off stage, still yearning for power, Adenauer breathes venom at Erhard and cultivates suspicion of the Johnson adminisration.

There are hard, tough, irrefragable issues and small wonder that the men wrestling with them for so long are weary. But this raises the question whether tired minds under the pressure of a deadline can come up with a new response. And a corollary question is whether a waiting period may not be essential to determine just how far the Germans mean to push their nuclear demand.

The policy vacuum is almost as conspicuous in Asia in the wake of the India-Pakistan war. The pre-war strategy — positioning India against China and Pakistan against the Soviet Union — is no longer valid. Urgent messages from both New Delhi and Rawalpindi ask what American policy is. Both Pakistan President Ayub Khan and Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri have hinted they would like to talk with the President and an impending visit before Congress returns would mean still another deadline. Economic aid, military aid, Kashmir — these are pieces of the tangle that must somehow be sorted out.

Bone-weary men struggling with the Hydra of world turmoil, seven days a week, eleven or twelve hours a day, must be pitied. With the President at the ranch for a long stay, including the time when the new budget must be hammered together, their tasks will be complicated, since they will commute from Washington and work in improvised offices. Rest and relaxation are important for the President but they are just as important for the hard-pressed men around him.

City Ponders Firm's Base Study Offer

DECISION SET FOR NEXT WEEK

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

City officials said Thursday that a decision will be made next week whether to accept a $75,000 proposal by Frederic Harris, Inc., to proceed with the second phase of a re-use plan for Lincoln Air Force Base facilities.

Richard Forster, vice president of the New York consulting firm, submitted the phase two proposal at a meeting attended by Mayor Dean Petersen, members of the City Council and Lincoln Airport Authority and the advisory committee of the Lincoln Opportunity Team.

Forster said the second step would involve testing for feasibility the long-term and interim re-uses already suggested, as well as checking out new proposals.

He said the Harris firm would also suggest an organizational structure for base reuse programs and would help to get new tenants as far as professionally possible.

Six Months

It is estimated that phase two work would take about six months once it is approved.

Phase one, a $20,000 study finished last month, included a detailed engineering evaluation of base facilities and material, a study of the economic impact of the base closing on the Lincoln community and a suggested allotment of space for proposed re-uses.

Mayor Petersen and advisory committee member Chauncey Barney supported retaining the Harris firm. "We need what they have to offer", the mayor said.

The council and the airport authority will meet the first of the week to study the proposal further and to discuss how to finance the project.

Airport authority funds are now committed and nothing was specifically appropriated in the city budget for such an expenditure.

Time Essential

Forster warned that "time is essential". He also added that a determination must soon be made on what agency will be responsible for the portion of the base not used for aviation purposes.

He recommended hiring a "chief custodian", or properties manager, who would be responsible for the maintenance of base facilities after deactivation.

"You must be prepared for continuing expense for some time", Forster said.

Other highlights of the meeting:

—There appears to be no federal funds available to help pay for re-use planning.

—The Defense Department is being asked to "freeze" materials and equipment not necessary for military use that can be used by future tenants at the base.

Lincoln Poverty War Progress Is Reported

By JOHN DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

A panel of local poverty war officials reported on their progress in the Lincoln area to about 30 Lincolnites Thursday night.

Representatives of the Neighborhood Job Corps, Operation Head start, Womens' Job Corps and the Manpower Training program told of millions of dollars to be poured into Lincoln to train and educate needy people.

The largest of the programs locally, Manpower Training, has $900,000 already budgeted for current local projects, according to Manpower Director Chester Gausman.

Manpower

Nearly one thousand Lincoln people—aged 17 to 54 — have received training through the Manpower Training program. Education has covered such fields as practical nursing, agriculture and business schooling, business management, dental assistant training, nursing refresher courses and similar things.

During the training period, Gausman said, students receive subsistance allowances which equal approximately $10 more than they would be receiving under unemployment compensation.

Gausman said the theory behind the program is that through the training, the students will be put into the ranks of the employed thereby taking them off of the relief and unemployment compensation rolls. Thus far, he said, this hope is being realized.

Few Drop Outs

Eighty-five percent of those completing the training—persons formerly unemployed who were a burden to the state—are now employed. The drop out rate in the training has been held to a mere 15% —far less than any comparable college drop out rate.

About 180 Lincoln youth can testify to the advantages of the Neighborhood Youth Corps. Robert Buckner, director of the program, said that is the number of youth, ages 16 to 21, who are currently being employed on a part time basis during the school year thru the program.

With a minimum salary of $1.25 per hour, Buckner estimates the needy youths pick up an extra $500 during the school year and learn a great deal about job responsibility.

Another program under the Education Opportunity Act, the Womens' Job Corps, enables the training away from home of selected women, ages 16 to 21, who are in need of jobs but lack the skill to get a job. This program is expected to be expanded as time goes on.

Operation Head Start is well-known to about 400 preschool, Lincoln children as the program which prepared them for school in just about every way. Medical examinations, hearing tests, speech defect analysis and a nursery school training were conducted for these children last summer under the auspices of the poverty program.

Panel members at the meeting held at the Unitarian Church, 63rd and A, included Buckner, Mrs. Shirley Seever, a representative from the Operation Head Start program; Ron Jensen, State Educational Opportunity Act director; Gausman, and Mrs. Fred Nevel, who dealt with the Women's Job Corps.

Hastings Hosts Journalism Meet

Hastings, Neb. (UPI) — About 300 high school journalism students and advisers were taking part in the third annual Hastings college journalism conference.

Bishop Copeland Will Speak To Family Meet

Nebraska Methodist Bishop Kenneth W. Copeland will be the speaker at a Saturday night banquet of the Lincoln District Family Life Conference sponsored by 62 Methodist Churches.

The two-day conference will be held at Trinity Methodist Church in Lincoln. Bishop and and Mrs. Copeland will both address the conference Sunday afternoon. Following will be a panel discussion moderated by Dr. Beverly Fowler of Lincoln.

City Senior Citizens Are Interviewed

The interviewing portion of the city's survey of senior citizens has been under way for more than a week and is expected to be completed by the end of October, Mayor Dean Petersen said Thursday.

The purpose of the survey is to obtain factual information relating to the living conditions, health and financial ability of persons over 65.

The information "will be invaluable to the mayor's office and the City Council as we work together to meet the present and future needs of our senior citizens", Petersen said.

He said the data would be provided to as many community groups as possible, such as churches and service agencies, who are interested in helping older people.

"Interviewers report that the people of the city have been cooperating very well when they are asked to provide information", the mayor said.

About 30 interviewers are working under the direction of Joe B. Williams, Lincoln research consultant.

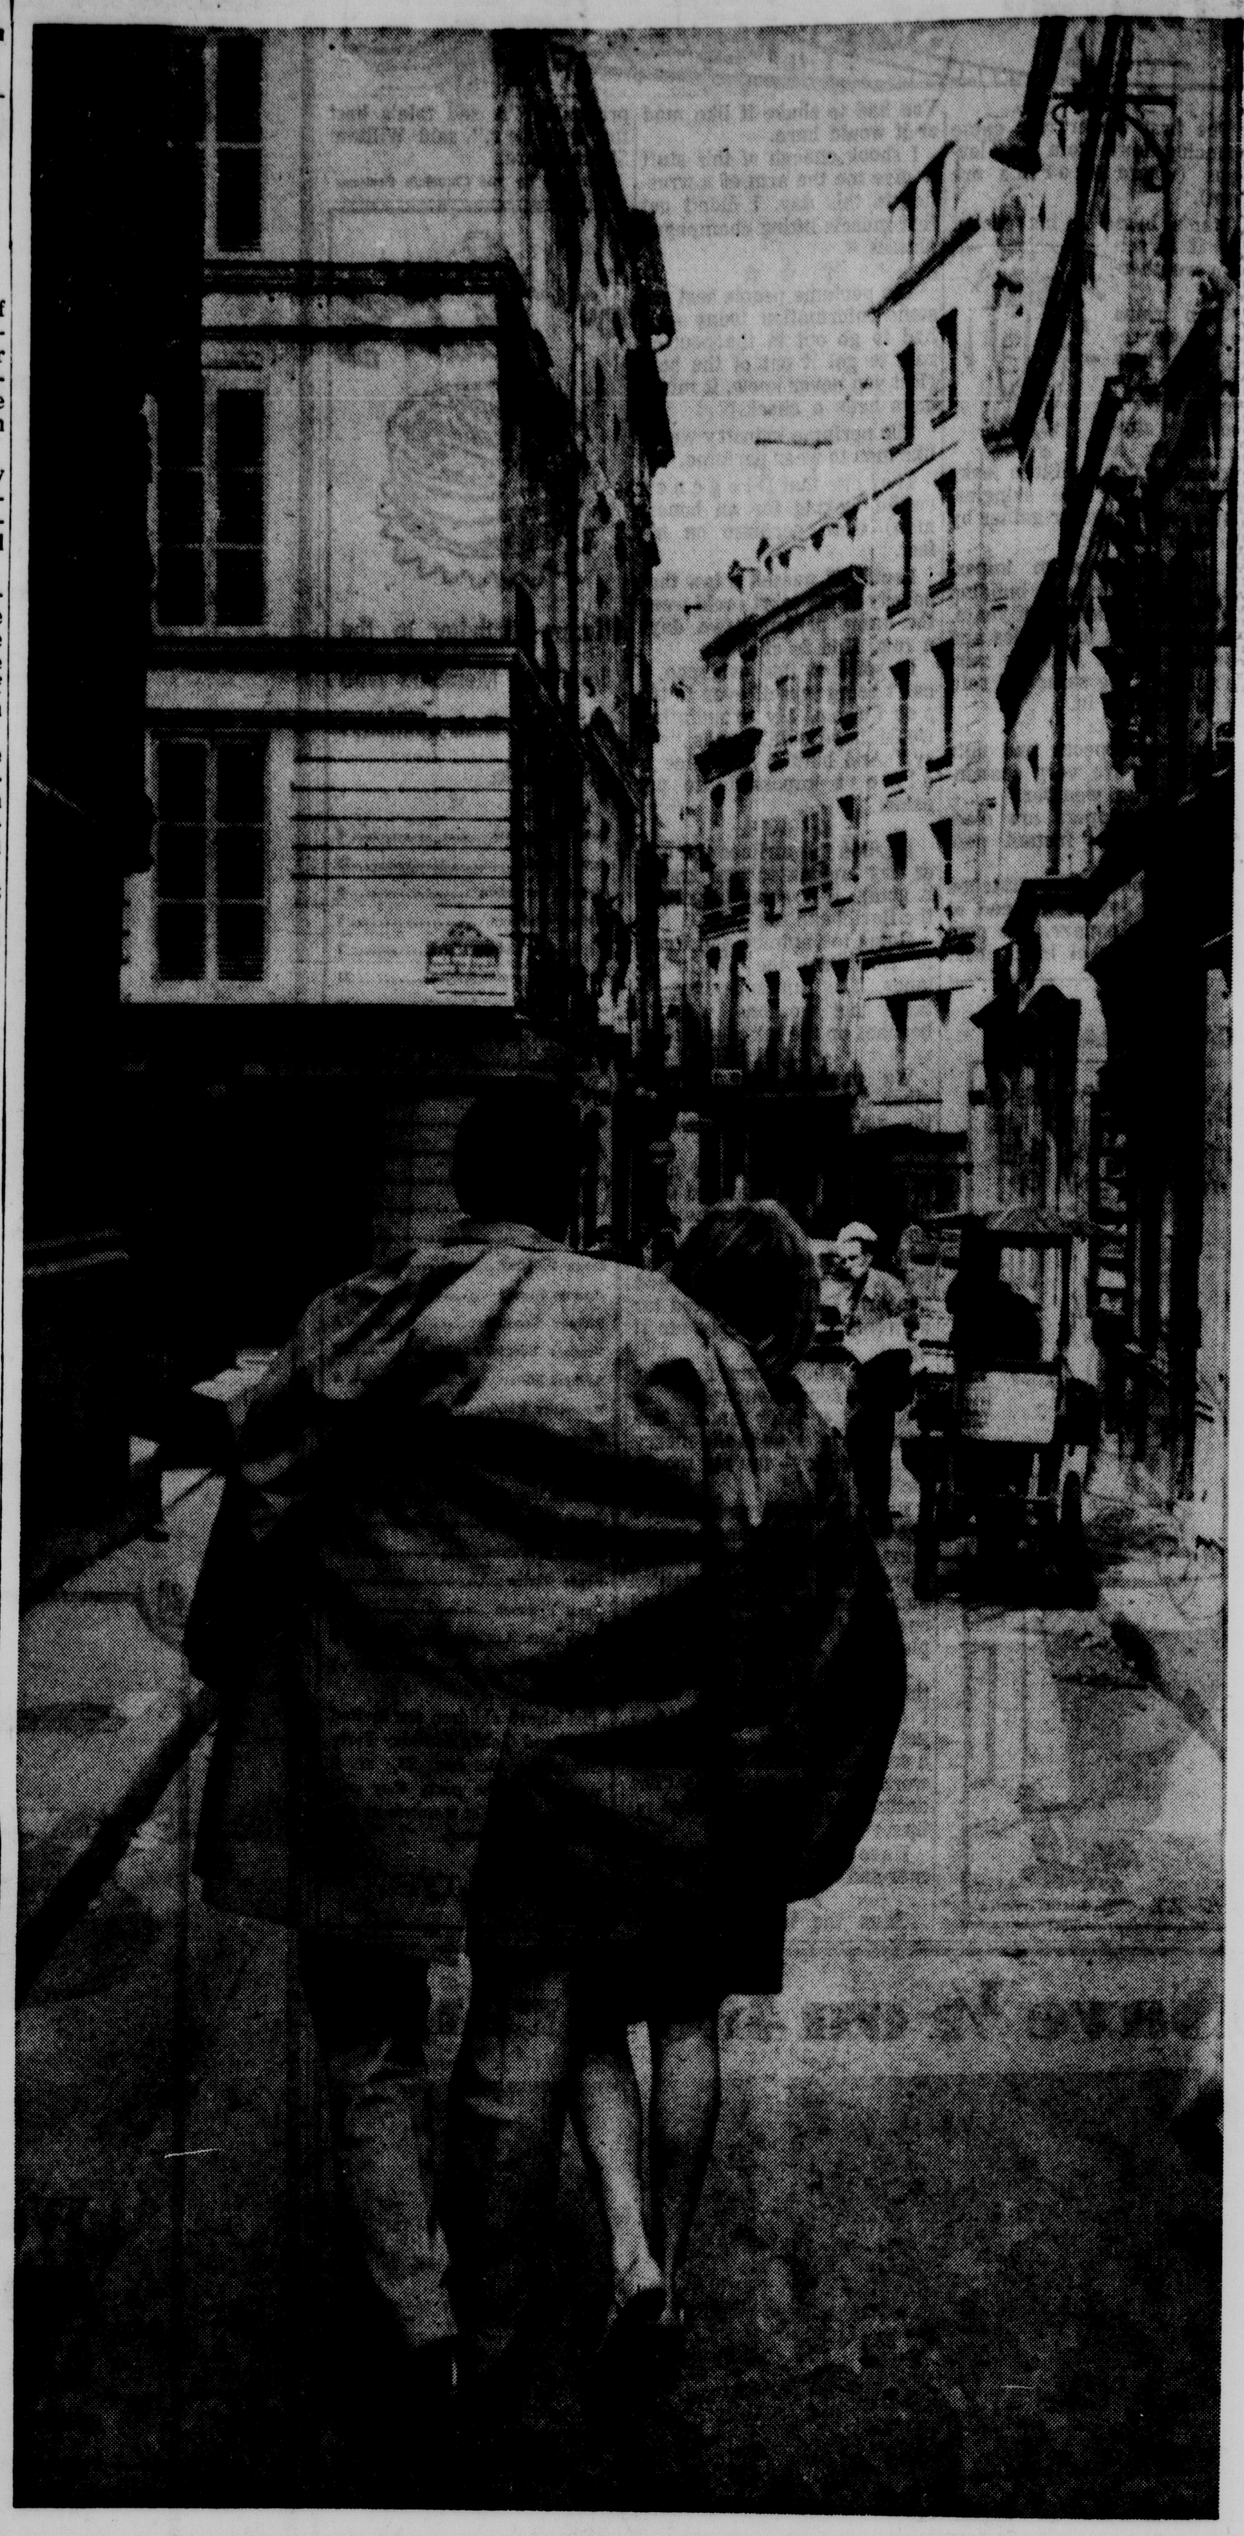

Woods Honored By Hall Of Fame

The late Frank H. Woods, founder of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co., was one of 16 telephone pioneers elected the first members of the newly-formed Independent Telephone Hall of Fame.

Mr. Woods was cited by the U.S. Independent Telephone Pioneer Association for his service as President and Chairman of LT&T from 1904-1946. He was the chairman of an Independent Telephone Association (ITA) committee which negotiated with the Bell System to eliminate duplicating telephone facilities.

Mr. Woods received a bachelor of law and a bachelor of literature degree from the University of Nebraska, which also honored him as an honorary doctor of law. He was the first president of the ITA in 1910.

Tough Hospital Task

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The grinding task of providing Lincoln with a modern, efficient system of community health care continues to move along. A member of the University of Colorado coaching staff said that Nebraska's football team used a "crunching T" offense. "They just keep crunching you," he said. You might say the same thing about the Lincoln hospital program.

The hospital job is a difficult one because it is dedicated to a unified effort, held together through the efforts of the Lincoln Community Council. This group is composed of a majority of members from the community at large and two representatives from each of the three accredited Lincoln hospitals. You don't put three hospitals in the same room together without controversy any more than you would put three insurance companies, banks, manufacturing companies, etc. Each of the three institutions is trying to have the best hospital possible at the lowest possible cost and they quite obviously are not always going to see eye to eye.

Each Looking To Own

Within the council, there has to be some give and take and that is never a simple or easy thing. This was shown in the most recent council settlement of the proposal by Lincoln General Hospital to build an additional three-story shell on their new hospital for use for long-term or chronic care purposes. The council decided in favor of the plan but not with unanimity.

St. Elizabeth's Hospital plans a new facility for which it will need $1.75 million in federal Hill-Burton funds. It also will receive the lion's share of the recent community hospital fund drive which netted an unprecedented total in excess of $2 million. It will take the cream of the drive funds in order to balance out fund allocations in the past to the other two Lincoln hospitals from various sources.

St. Elizabeth's objected to the Lincoln General plan and cast the only two votes against it in council action. The plan picked up seven votes, with two members not voting. While recognizing some validity to the plan, St. Elizabeth's expressed the fear that the proposition by Lincoln General could undermine public confidence and thereby endanger pledges still due on the fund drive and could endanger any future request for Hill-Burton funds. The first reservation is based on the fact that Lincoln General had planned to use the 17th Street wing of its existing structure as a chronic care center with some 130 beds. It would be remodeled at a cost of approximately $300,000.

In switching to the plan for three new floors in the new hospital, Lincoln General will spend some $680,000. Thus, the amount of money being spent is increased and the spending time-table advanced. The question is whether donors to the recent drive will accept this for the economy that it is or view it as broken faith. It could cause some people to believe that excessive funds were collected and the wool, therefore, pulled over their eyes. Offsetting this is the fact that the $680,000, apparently, is not really free and clear for use. The money would come from the Emily J. Moore fund which is administered by the Hospital Association, a separately incorporated arm of Lincoln General. Again presumably, this fund would eventually have to be reimbursed by someone. Thus, the $680,000 does not represent a slush fund which might have gone to reduce the amount of the fund drive.

Does it then represent an expenditure that the public should not be asked to assume in view of the load already being carried through the fund drive and city tax support of Lincoln General's building program? The public must answer that question itself but the pertinent consideration here is one of economy.

To have stuck with its plan of remodeling the old building, Lincoln General would have saddled itself with a chronic care operation that could never approach in efficiency the operation that can be achieved with incorporation of chronic care into the main hospital unit. To delay construction of the three additional floors would hike their cost at some future date to a probable $900,000. To say the issue should have been settled before the fund drive and the public so informed is to argue that when a mistake is made or an oversight committed, you should live with it forever.

The anxiety over complications in any future Hill-Burton application by St. Elizabeth's stems from the fact that chronic care beds can be turned into acute care bed bed use overnight. It could be argued by those opposed to St. Elizabeth's that the 260 chronic care beds at Lincoln General and additional such beds at Bryan Memorial be converted to acute care space, no funds be allocated to St. Elizabeth's and the acute care bed problem in Lincoln solved at an 80 percent savings in cost. This, of course, would short Lincoln on chronic care beds and Hill-Burton allocations for chronic and acute care bed facilities are made on a separate basis, not lumped together.

Institutional Differences

Any such maneuver to deny St. Elizabeth's essential Hill-Burton funds would be an obvious injustice and an absolute abortion of the much heralded community-unit plan approach to metropolitan hospital needs, but such travesties are not unknown and constitute the most serious risk in the Lincoln Hospital Council action. Such are the headaches and hard difficulties of progress. But the three Lincoln hospitals still live with the mandates of the council, regardless of how distasteful they might be on an individual institutional basis, and for that the community can be grateful.

Klan Strengthened By Outside Support

WASHINGTON —Probably there are no more than 10,000 klansmen in all the Klans throughout the United States. In Louisiana the Klan is bitterly opposed to Sen. Russell Long, Democratic Senate whip, and to Rep. Hale Boggs, Democratic House whip in Washington. Boggs voted for the Negro voting rights bill. On the other hand, the Klan supports Sen. Allen Ellender of Louisiana, who threatened to filibuster against this bill.

One former klansman, who has kept me posted regarding inner Klan workings, states: "The Klan has already sent word down to destroy Sen. Long and Hale Boggs politically. Some of their killers would kill both of these men if they were sure that no jury would convict them."

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Rainfall Brings Unwanted Crop

By MONA B. PARKER

It is, reminded the Blue Hill Leader, the time for putting up storm windows . . . repairing garden and lawn equipment . . . digging, drying and storing bulbs. . . and washing up summer clothing.

Don't bother to iron summer things, though, the Leader advises. It's a waste of time. Just tuck them away in a cedar closet. . . "and use the time to enjoy the fall colors on an outing with the family."

Harold Spence notes in the Holdrege Citizen that if he had a little more mushroom know-how, he would be able to supplement his diet with some choice bits of the delicacy. The moisture has sent them to sprouting everywhere hither and yon, including his backyard, and in a variety of sizes and shapes. Some of them he supposes are edible, but he concedes that he's not enough of a connoisseur to know which would go well with steak or hamburger, and which "might put me on a slab in the morgue after a couple of bites."

Mushrooms aren't the only thing that abundant rains have brought forth in profusion. . .

Some ranchers sorting cattle in a pasture north and west of Springview killed one rattlesnake near the windmill, soon saw another, and yet another, and discovered the entire hillside crawling with them. They went to work with shovel and rifle and before the day was done, had dispensed with 100 of the reptiles. Next day, 80 more were killed.

Taking some of the rattlers alive were representatives of the Game Commission and two snake-hunting enthusiasts from Ainsworth. Sizes ranged up to as long as 44 inches.

Honors for "Typo of the Week" go to the Shelton Clipper, for its reference to "drunken, wreckless driving at 100 miles per hour."

One Kearney father was the victim of wishful thinking, or else he was just living most blissfully in the past. When his daughter asked him for money to enter college, to defray expenses of books, tuition and clothes, he brought forth from his pocket the magnificent sum of $40. It was quite emphatically pointed out to him that such an amount would have to be drastically stretched even to prepare a five-year-old for kindergarten these days . . .

A Hastings father is certain that he'll be hearing from their son, who has gone away to college. "He took two stamped envelopes along," he explained. One for each semester, I think."

Harry Morris was circulating northwest of Odell in the interest of circulation for the Wymore Arbor State, and called upon Herman Ottersberg. The Ottersbergs and Mr. Morris, too, remember back to the 30's and they were recalling how it was in those lean years, trying to keep subscribers on the mailing list.

Editor Max Martin and his barber were both in a lather over the World Series, apparently, and on opposite betting sides. "The Yankee Clipper," the Pawnee Republican newsman calls Barber Smutz, and the price of several haircuts was the stake. There was one point in the series where Mr. Martin was glad he was merely wagering with Mr. Smutz and not patronizing him. "I'm at least thankful I wasn't getting my neck shaved when Willie Davis or Maury Wills were stealing bases. With a television to watch, I imagine the Clipper was swinging a mean razor."

"I'd take about anything," Mr. Morris wrote. "I took an old battery, two hens and an old rooster that took two days to cook so the meat was tender enough for the family to eat, for a year's subscription."

☆ ☆ ☆

The drudging housewife may be forgiven for her dreams in technicolor that encompass the ultimate. As one of them put it, "As long as you're dreaming, you might as well dream big."

Margaret Fox notes with satisfaction, in the Gretna Breeze, that there are now in production men's shirts which never need ironing. "When will they invent some which never will need washing?" she wants to know.

Expanding Role For Women

The expanding role of women in today's world has been the subject of those attending the University of Nebraska Home Economics Day for Homemakers at the Center for Continuing Education. The validity of this subject can no longer be questioned. At the same time, it is a subject that has come to have wide acceptance in place of the reservations with which it was once met.

Today's woman, be she single or married, has been a vital part of the development of the life of her community. No longer is she the one who takes care of the home and watches the rest of the world go by. She still cares for the home or holds down a job in her chosen career but she is now found in many other She is a force for progress in the field of education, in safety, in politics and in a wide range of community services. Her efforts are profound in a vast number of social programs aimed at the improvement of human beings and a realization of the full potential that is within everyone.

The women of today have been greatly assisted in this by advancements in technology which have freed her from much of the time-consuming drudgery that occupied her in the past. It is greatly to the credit of these women and to the benefit of society that the opportunity afforded women has been seized so vigorously by them and turned into the kind of contribution that it has.

Legislative Weakness

Vincent Burke of Sioux City, Ia., drew $6,600 a year as a counselor in the Iowa Division of Rehabilitation.

But he obeyed the impulse to broaden his public service. So he ran for and was elected to the Iowa legislature. Then the roof fell in. His earnings as a state lawmaker were only $4,350 during 1965, and he couldn't live on it. To make out the year he took a job handling freight.

He is not running for re-election although his one term indicated that he was a good legislator.

There is nothing unusual in this relation of facts. Many men everywhere have refused to serve in legislatures for the same reason. They cannot afford such a costly avocation.

This peculiar sense of economy that is so noticeable in the pay scales of lawmakers amounts to a case of the public defeating its own democratic purpose. It limits our legislatures to a narrow band of economic eligibles. A wealthy man can afford the sacrifice. A well established farmer whose work is done by others can have a legislative career. Certain businessmen who can spare the time off without loss of income, and a few others, can be legislators. All others are restrained for economic reasons.

This is straining democratic representation through too fine a screen and tends to place our law making power in the hands of a certain elite. But what about the numerous other segments of our society which have needs and no direct representation?

Great Benefactor Dies

Dr. Ernest Hohner died the other day at the age of 79 at his home in Trossingen, Germany.

We mention this because Mr. Hohner, in his way made musical performers of an immense number of people, including almost every American at one time or other in his life. Mr. Hohner continued the family business of manufacturing harmonicas, or as we know them commonly, mouth organs.

The simple harmonicas sold for as little as a dime, holding two brass plates containing metal reeds, separated by a piece of wood so slotted that any one with lungs full of air could blow harmonic sounds that were pleasing to the ear. By constant puffing and moving the instrument from one harmonic to the other one could come forth with pleasant tunes.

This gave great pleasure to the common man who knew virtually nothing about music, the rules of harmony or the difference between chords and discords. It was four part music in one easy lesson. The lonesome cowboy was less lonesome when he had a mouth organ to blow on. Little children got a special sense of achievement by blowing watery sounds out of this 10 cent musical instrument. Many a wealthy and dignified corporation head been known to go home nights, lock the bedroom door pull the covers over his head and spend a secret hour with a mouth harp

We don't know of anything that could be made of a little bit of brass and some cheap wood that gave humankind, everywhere such happiness.

LBJ's Helpers Also In Need Of Rest

WASHINGTON — Not only is President Johnson tired after his operation but his is a tired administration suffering from prolonged battle fatigue. As one of his field commanders put it: "I think the whole high command should be replaced."

The President will recuperate at his ranch, spending virtually the rest of the year there, which is well and good. And there is nothing wrong with his principal ministers that a three-or four-week vacation from all official duties would not remedy. But under the pressure perpetual crisis-psychology, they feel they are chained to their desks and imprisoned in endless squirrel-cage conferences.

For state, defense and the arms control and disarmament agency, the unsolved riddle of Germany and the authority over nuclear weapons within the Atlantic alliance hangs in the air like a Halloween spook that will not go away. The administration is deeply divided over how to solve this puzzle with the disarmers insisting that a nuclear proliferation treaty should take precedence, while the German watchers insist that a way must be found first to bring Germany within the framework of nuclear defense.

Compounding the division in Washington is the crack in the facade in West Germany. With the political pressures growing in Germany for big power status in nuclear weaponry, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard had been unable, despite his election victory, to form a government. The long delay was partly due to increasing suspicion that Washington intends to "sell Germany out" for a deal with Moscow.

Therefore, when family and kind friends suggest to overworked policy-makers that three or four weeks on a beach would be a good idea, they answer, yes, but what about Germany and Europe — and we can't get away. We have to have an agreed policy before Chancellor Erhard comes here early in December and that is only four or five weeks off.

In the administration there is some inclination to wait and see what Erhard himself brings over. Let him, so this goes, tell us what he can get by with, short of the multilateral force. For despite rather feeble official protests to the contrary, it is now evident that this quaint and entirely unworkable gimmick is an extinct as the dodo.

Equally obvious is the disarray in in the alliance over the German-nuclear issue. With one or two exceptions — in degree rather than in actual contradiction — the Atlantic allies give a treaty with the Soviet Union to try to check the spread of nuclear weapons priority over a German say-so in the use of nuclear weapons. This reflects the feeling of a last chance to head off a nuclear arms race that will see eight or nine or ten nations with nuclear weapons in a few years. Outwardly loyal to the official line, this is the conviction deeply shared by America's disarmers.

A further complication is President Charles De Gaulle's more and more outspoken antagonism toward Germany. With his former partner, Konrad Adenauer, out of power, De Gaulle in private talks makes no secret of his contempt for Erhard as an apostle of European integration and the Common Market. The Franco-German treaty, which was to cement the Europe of the two and in actual fact the Europe of the one, looks more and more like a monument to the buried past. Just off stage, still yearning for power, Adenauer breathes venom at Erhard and cultivates suspicion of the Johnson administration.

There are hard, tough, irrefragable issues and small wonder that the men wrestling with them for so long are weary. But this raises the question whether tired minds under the pressure of a deadline can come up with a new response. And a corollary question is whether a waiting period may not be essential to determine just how far the Germans mean to push their nuclear demand.

The policy vacuum is almost as conspicuous in Asia in the wake of the India-Pakistan war. The pre-war strategy — positioning India against China and Pakistan against the Soviet Union — is no longer valid. Urgent messages from both New Delhi and Rawalpindi ask what American policy is. Both Pakistan President Ayub Khan and Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri have hinted they would like to talk with the President and an impending visit before Congress returns would mean still another deadline. Economic aid, military aid, Kashmir — these are pieces of the tangle that must somehow be sorted out.

Bone-weary men struggling with the Hydra of world turmoil, seven days a week, eleven or twelve hours a day, must be pitied. With the President at the ranch for a long stay, including the time when the new budget must be hammered together, their tasks will be complicated, since they will commute from Washington and work in improvised offices. Rest and relaxation are important for the President but they are just as important for the hard-pressed men around him.

DORIS FLEESON

Election Day A Moment Of Truth

NEW YORK—Residents of New York City, rich and poor alike, rank high on any list of the most disgruntled and complaining people on earth, and with good reason. On election day, November 2, they will confront their moment of truth.

They can embrace again the party that has been in power during most of the city's lifetime and its clubhouse candidate for mayor, Controller Abraham Beame. This would amount to a cynical conclusion that city is probably ungovernable anyway, so it might as well bear with the ills it has.

Or they can choose a vigorous, young reform mayor who assures them that their dangers and discomforts can be relieved by the honest application of political intelligence. This would be an expression of faith and hope in the American political system fully as much as a personal triumph for Rep. John V. Lindsay

Visiting firemen cannot penetrate this vast city's electoral mood any more than they can escape the constant expression on every hand of its frustrations. The polls are contradictory, the crowd enthusiasm is variable. An atmosphere of tension at both Beame and Lindsay headquarters suggests that neither is really confident of winning.

On the surface Beame seems to be holding the preponderant Democratic strength together, but it is a facade of the clubhouse types who take little pains to hide their self-interest. He cannot be sure the voters will follow after

Lindsay entered the race with rave advance notices about his rugged handsomeness, his humor and his charm. He has them, but he is a serious man and it is coming through in a series of position papers on the city's intractable problems. Oddly, people who complain the most about the problems also complain now that he should rely more on spreading the sunshine of his personality rather than revealing his intellectual grasp of the new urban society.

But the name is Lindsay, the ancestry Scotch. He still spends wearing hours on the streets, shaking hands and invading crowds, but he is doing his duty as he sees it in setting forth his plans. The Scotch plant their feet even when the wind hurts.

Lindsay's problems are complicated by his near-unique position as a Kennedy-style moderate in a big state, which makes him potentially a valuable Republican property.

The right-wing Republican, William F. Buckley Jr., who seized the chance to cut him down, is making a considerable showing as the Conservative party candidate. His votes come from Democrats as well, but Democrats, of course, have more votes to spare.

The party line at Beame headquarters is that Lindsay is making ungentlemanly personal attacks on their fine candidate. Beame himself, an agreeable but unimpressive man, wisely plays it cool.

In the home stretch of a campaign one candidate usually has it made, even though predictions about which one is whether New Yorkers are really as incensed about their dangers and discomforts of life in this consumers' paradise as they say they are

Board Must OK School Land Sale

A sale of state school land is not final until the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds has approved the transaction, the State Justice Department held Thursday.

The department said the 1965 legislation which authorized sale of the 1.6 million acres of state school lands provided that a representative of the state board will conduct the sales but in no way bind the board.

The board alone has the authority to approve the offer of the highest bidder the Justice Department noted. In approving or rejecting a bid, the state board must consider the beneficiaries of the trust, the department said.

The department also said the board's official appraised value of the tracts of land can be altered any time prior to the opening of the land sale auction. The appraised value then will be the starting bid price and cannot be changed once the auction has begun.

The land sale bill, passed by the last Legislature, requires that tracts be sold as leases expire. Leases on 294 tracts covering 69,000 acres are scheduled to expire Dec. 31.

The Justice Department opinion was written by Assistant Atty. Gen. Bernard L. Packett and approved by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer for H. L. Blackledge of Kearney, chairman of the state board.

Four Reformatory Inmates Paroled

The State Parole Board Thursday granted paroles to four Nebraska Men's Reformatory inmates, including two Omahans serving one-to-three year terms for burglary.

Albert Snoddy, 20, and Lawyer Waller Jr., 18, were sentenced Sept. 29 of last year on charges they burglarized an Omaha grocery store.

Also paroled were Dennis K. Babcock, 22, of Omaha, and Clark Gamron, 24, of Grand Island.

Babcock was sentenced to a two-to-four year term on Feb. 26 of last year on a forged check charge in Douglas County, and Gamron was serving a term of one and a half years to three years on a June 25, 1964, Hall County charge of assault to do great bodily harm.

Pictures On Sale

Full color prints and murals of Nebraska scenes will be put on sale by the Nebraska Game Commission.

Photographs used in the commission's Nebraskaland magazine will be used for the prints and murals.

POSTCARD by Stan Kalabaleme

The first winter rain came bouncing down from the Aleutians (where storms are born).

Man's home is his castle. But it is seldom weatherproof.

When rains come, we realize how frail the shelter — even though supported by a second mortgage. Little leaks develop under the shingles. Little pools of water gather by the door — inside.

Such things seem impossible. Man has been building houses for thousands of years. He has access to plastics and miracle fibers. And the miracle is that the same old rain keeps blowing in.

☆ ☆ ☆

Buttered popcorn and nuts and apples are very sustaining in winter weather.

Popcorn poppers are electric nowadays. Instant popcorn.

In my youth, they attached an instant boy to the end of the popcorn popper. The popper was made of black iron. You had to shake it like mad or it would burn.

I shook enough of this stuff to give me the arm of a wrestler to this day. I didn't get that muscle lifting champagne glasses.

☆ ☆ ☆

The perfume people sent me some information today — I had to go out in the pouring rain to get it out of the box. (But you never know, it might have been a check.)

The perfume industry would like men to wear perfume.

They cite that Diogenes (while looking for an honest man) wore perfume on his feet.

Louis XV passed a law that nobody in his court could wear the same perfume two days a row. Had to change.

In spite of this evidence, I can't bring myself even to try perfume. My grandfather would have said it was "sissy." And built-in prejudice is almost impossible to put aside.

☆ ☆ ☆

I called the airlines the other day and asked how traffic is going. It is going largely to the Caribbean this year.

Going to Jamaica and Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. The rum-and-sugar islands and the long, white beaches on the ink-blue water.

☆ ☆ ☆

We ordered firewood the other day. Had it stacked in the garage. The firewood comes ready-cut.

I was no rail splitter as a youth. But I did have to split the kindling — a chore we all had.

Winter brought a lot of activity for boys. Kindling and popcorn. Carrying in wood for a fireplace that simply ate it up.

It was a busy time. I am for modern conveniences.

Not as many babies are born in winter as in the merry month of May—the big month for babies.

But winter fathers are more apt to have pregnancy symptoms resembling their wives'. They have strange appetites and morning sickness. And one of their common complaints is toothache.

A British doctor noticed this. He wrote a paper on it. I doubt that this paper will get many readers — being in a scientific journal. It seemed worthwhile passing on. (The doctor doesn't know why either.)

Have your offspring in summer and be comfortable.

☆ ☆ ☆

Faster Night Speed Being Posted Early

The new nighttime speed limit of 60 miles per hour is being posted on Nebraska highways, but it actually doesn't become legal until Nov. 18.

State Safety Engineer Robert Meyer said Thursday that sign crews have been sticking the new 60 mph lettering over the old 55 mph limit for about a month.

"Speed limit signs can't be changed overnight," he explained. "We had to start early to have the change-over complete by Nov. 18."

Meyer said that law enforcement officers are permitting, as practical matter, the new 60 night limit where it is posted.

A special pressure-sensitive sticker is being used for the sign modification.

"It's the fastest and most economical method we've found," Meyer said.

Only other change in the state's speed laws made by the 1965 Legislature permits travel trailers of less than 23-foot lengths to be towed at the speed permitted the towing vehicle.

Larger house trailers are limited to a tow speed of 50 miles per hour.

Nebraska's speed limits include 65 day and 60 night (beginning Nov. 18) for passenger cars on hard-surfaced state highways, 60 day and 50 night for trucks over five tons. The limit on gravel or dirt roads not a part of state highway system is 50 for all vehicles.

Interstate Highway speed limits are 75 for passenger vehicles and 65 for trucks. Minimum speed is 40.

State Air Conditioning Job Ahead Of Schedule

The contractor on the air conditioning work in the State Capitol expects to finish up four months ahead of schedule, a Department of Roads architect said Thursday.

Architect Ken Johnson said Natkin and Company have indicated the installation will be virtually complete by Christmas with only some clean-up items remaining.

Johnson said approximately $25,000 worth of change orders have been authorized in the $1,174,237 project.

"The old 1922 plans of the building showed some wall space of greater width than found when workmen cut into them to run pipe," he said. "In a few instances, piping had to be re-routed."

Johnson said this first major mechanical installation since the building was constructed produced few surprises.

"A couple of walled-up rooms, or better described as closet-like spaces, were found, but there were no unknown passages or storage areas discovered," he said.

Johnson said a few deviations from Bertrand Goodhue's original 1922 master plan were found.

Several plan revisions for the West Senate Chamber were found. Nothing radical, but changes were made as it was built.

Release Plan For Voc Ed School At Hastings Depot

A plan for utilization of facilities at the Hastings naval ammunition depot near Hastings to establish a central Nebraska vocational technical school was released by the State Education Department Thursday.

The plan, compiled by Hastings school officials, calls for the beginning of classes at the trade school as early as the fall of 1966. The base will be deactivated next June 30.

The school would be established under a bill approved by the last Legislature providing for the establishment of area trade schools with local, state and federal financing.

The plan calls for the central Nebraska school campus to cover 400 acres and include 15 buildings at the depot. The land and facilities are available free of charge from the federal government.

The facilities include an administration building, visitor center, photography shop, transportation building for automobile mechanics classes, machine and carpenter shops, two classroom buildings, cafeteria, dispensary, fire station, diesel locomotive shop and three giant warehouses.

Since the buildings are of steel and brick construction, "maintenance of the area would be small compared to the operation of the state supported trade schools" at Milford and Sidney, according to the plan.

Bids Opened For I-480 Approaches

The State Roads Department Thursday opened bids on western approaches to the Interstate 480 bridge linking downtown Omaha with Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Estimated cost of the project is $1 million. Apparent low bidders will be announced Friday.

State Engineer John Hossack said construction of the approaches will begin next spring if favorable bids are received. The project is slated to be completed next fall.

Work on the bridge itself has begun. The Nebraska and Iowa highway departments are financing 10% of the cost, and the federal government 90%.

The approaches project was one of 13 contained in Thursday's bid opening. Together, their estimated cost is $3.2 million.

Bauer Considers U.S. Senate Seat

State Sen. Hal W. Bauer said Thursday he's considering running for a U.S. Senate seat from Nebraska next year.

"Should Governor Morrison not be a candidate for the Senate, I would seriously consider entering that race," the Lincoln Democrat said.

Morrison, who is presently touring Europe, is considered a possible opponent for Republican Sen. Carl T. Curtis in the November, 1966, election. It also has been speculated he will run for a fourth term as governor, or be appointed to a federal judgeship.

Bauer, a freshman legislator, was the chief sponsor of the state income tax act passed by the Legislature last spring.

Guerrilla War Claimed

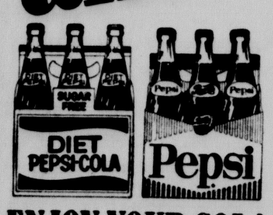

Allahabad, India (AP)—Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri contended at a mass rally here that Pakistan is giving military training to 14,000 persons for guerrilla warfare in Kashmir. He said they were planned as a "second save" following the 22-day India-Pakistan war of last month, now under an ill-kept ceasefire.

City Ponders Firm's Base Study Offer

DECISION SET FOR NEXT WEEK

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

City officials said Thursday that a decision will be made next week whether to accept a $75,000 proposal by Frederic Harris, Inc., to proceed with the second phase of a re-use plan for Lincoln Air Force Base facilities.

Richard Forster, vice president of the New York consulting firm, submitted the phase two proposal at a meeting attended by Mayor Dean Petersen, members of the City Council and Lincoln Airport Authority and the advisory committee of the Lincoln Opportunity Team.

Forster said the second step would involve testing for feasibility the long-term and interim re-uses already suggested, as well as checking out new proposals.

He said the Harris firm would also suggest an organizational structure for base reuse programs and would help to get new tenants as far as professionally possible.

Six Months

It is estimated that phase two work would take about six months once it is approved.

Phase one, a $20,000 study finished last month, included a detailed engineering evaluation of base facilities and material, a study of the economic impact of the base closing on the Lincoln community and a suggested allotment of space for proposed re-uses.

Mayor Petersen and advisory committee member Chauncey Barney supported retaining the Harris firm. "We need what they have to offer", the mayor said.

The council and the airport authority will meet the first of the week to study the proposal further and to discuss how to finance the project.

Time Essential

Forster warned that "time is essential". He also added that a determination must soon be made on what agency will be responsible for the portion of the base not used for aviation purposes.

He recommended hiring a "chief custodian", or properties manager, who would be responsible for the maintenance of base facilities after deactivation.

"You must be prepared for continuing expense for some time", Forster said.

Other highlights of the meeting:

—There appears to be no federal funds available to help pay for re-use planning.

—The Defense Department is being asked to "freeze" materials and equipment not necessary for military use that can be used by future tenants at the base.

CRYING HIS LAST 'OYEZ'

Arthur P. Snader, 81, believed to be the last town crier in the Western Hemisphere, has retired in Provincetown, Mass., on the tip of Cape Cod. Snader has held the job since 1952. He said he is just plain tired out from his duties, which consist of meeting excursion boats, walking down the town's narrow streets and announcing local news and tides. He was a blimp pilot in World War I.

Lincoln Poverty War Progress Is Reported

By JOHN DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

A panel of local poverty war officials reported on their progress in the Lincoln area to about 30 Lincolnites Thursday night.

Representatives of the Neighborhood Job Corps, Operation Head start, Womens' Job Corps and the Manpower Training program told of millions of dollars to be poured into Lincoln to train and educate needy people.

The largest of the programs locally, Manpower Training, has $900,000 already budgeted for current local projects, according to Manpower Director Chester Gausman.

Manpower

Nearly one thousand Lincoln people—aged 17 to 54 — have received training through the Manpower Training program. Education has covered such fields as practical nursing, agriculture and business schooling, business management, dental assistant training, nursing refresher courses and similar things.

During the training period, Gausman said, students receive subsistance allowances which equal approximately $10 more than they would be receiving under unemployment compensation.

Gausman said the theory behind the program is that through the training, the students will be put into the ranks of the employed thereby taking them off of the relief and unemployment compensation rolls. Thus far, he said, this hope is being realized.

Few Drop Outs

Eighty-five percent of those completing the training—persons formerly unemployed who were a burden to the state—are now employed. The drop out rate in the training has been held to a mere 15% —far less than any comparable college drop out rate.

About 180 Lincoln youth can testify to the advantages of the Neighborhood Youth Corps. Robert Buckner, director of the program,said that is the number of youth, ages 16 to 21, who are currently being employed on a part time basis during the school year thru the program.

With a minimum salary of $1.25 per hour, Buckner estimates the needy youths pick up an extra $500 during the school year and learn a great deal about job responsibility.

Another program under the Education Opportunity Act, the Womens' Job Corps, enables the training away from home of selected women, ages 16 to 21, who are in need of jobs but lack the skill to get a job. This program is expected to be expanded as time goes on.

Operation Head Start is well-known to about 400 preschool, Lincoln children as the program which prepared them for school in just about every way. Medical examinations, hearing tests, speech defect analysis and a nursery school training were conducted for these children last summer under the auspices of the poverty program.

Panel members at the meeting held at the Unitarian Church, 63rd and A, included Buckner, Mrs. Shirley Seever, a representative from the Operation Head Start program; Ron Jensen, State Educational Opportunity Act director; Gausman, and Mrs. Fred Nevel, who dealt with the Women's Job Corps.

Hastings Hosts Journalism Meet

Hastings, Neb. (UPI) — About 300 high school journalism students and advisers were taking part in the third annual Hastings college journalism conference.

Bishop Copeland Will Speak To Family Meet

Nebraska Methodist Bishop Kenneth W. Copeland will be the speaker at a Saturday night banquet of the Lincoln District Family Life Conference sponsored by 62 Methodist Churches.

The two-day conference will be held at Trinity Methodist Church in Lincoln. Bishop and and Mrs. Copeland will both address the conference Sunday afternoon. Following will be a panel discussion moderated by Dr. Beverly Fowler of Lincoln.

City Senior Citizens Are Interviewed

The interviewing portion of the city's survey of senior citizens has been under way for more than a week and is expected to be completed by the end of October, Mayor Dean Petersen said Thursday.

The purpose of the survey is to obtain factual information relating to the living conditions, health and financial ability of persons over 65.

The information "will be invaluable to the mayor's office and the City Council as we work together to meet the present and future needs of our senior citizens", Petersen said.

He said the data would be provided to as many community groups as possible, such as churches and service agencies, who are interested in helping older people.

"Interviewers report that the people of the city have been cooperating very well when they are asked to provide information", the mayor said.

About 30 interviewers are working under the direction of Joe B. Williams, Lincoln research consultant.

The late Frank H. Woods, founder of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co., was one of 16 telephone pioneers elected the first members of the newly-formed Independent Telephone Hall of Fame.

Mr. Woods was cited by the U.S. Independent Telephone Pioneer Association for his service as President and Chairman of LT&T from 1904-1946. He was the chairman of an Independent Telephone Association (ITA) committee which negotiated with the Bell System to eliminate duplicating telephone facilities.

Mr. Woods received a bachelor of law and a bachelor of literature degree from the University of Nebraska, which also honored him as an honorary doctor of law. He was the first president of the ITA in 1910.

Interstate Opening Tribute To Grange

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Beaver Crossing — The first official trip over the Interstate from the Milford corner to the Beaver Crossing Interchange was made Thursday morning in tribute to the Flowing Well Grange here that has been ranked among the top 10 Granges out of 4,500 entered nationally in the Community Progress Program.

The official ribbon cutting at the Beaver Crossing Interchange by Lt. Gov. Phil Sorensen was watched by Beaver Crossing residents and a panel of national judges who will select the winners from the top 10 Granges where the first prize is $10,000.

The significance of the interchange just north of here was associated with Flowing Well Grange efforts to help the community secure an access road to the Interstate, when first plans omitted it in 1960.

Service Project

The Beaver Crossing access road became the local Grange's No. 1 community service project and won it the sixth finish among the nation's top ten in 16 years. They won a top place five times in the old community service contest before winning this time under the successor program, communiyt progress. The program is sponsored by the National Grange and Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

"No other Grange in the nation can match the winning ways of Flowing Well Grange, and no other state has had such consistent winners," said Robert V. Mullen, director of the Youth and Rural Program for the Sears-Roebuck Foundation in Chicago.

When the top placings are announced by the judges at the 99th National Grange Session in Topeka, Kan. on Nov. 11, the first five places will be rewarded with prizes of $10,000, $5,000, $3,0000, $2,0000 and $1,500. Mrs. Elmer Krasser of Beaver Crossing, master of Flowing Well Grange, received a check for $1,000 here Thursday confirming the high local finish.

Panel Of Judges

The panel of judges visiting Flowing Well Grange were: E. Carroll Bean, high priest of Demeter, the National Grange, Winterport, Me.; Dr. Everett C. Weitzell, assistant administrator, federal extension USDA, Washington; Dr. Daniel W. Sturt, director, Rural Manpower Center, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich.; and Charles Griffin, assistant director, Boys Scouts of America, New Brunswick, N.J.

The visit here was the last on the judging tour.

Sen. Stan Matzke of Milford and Albert Ebers of Seward, state Grange master, termed the Flowing Well achievement as "a credit to the entire state."

Driver: New Vets Hospital Building Plans Ready Soon

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Veterans Administrator William J. Driver said Thursday that plans for a modernization program for Lincoln's VA Hospital should be ready "within the next couple of months."

The program, which Driver estimated will cost a minimum of $3 million, should be completed within the next three years.

Driver toured the VA facility with Congressman Clair Callan for the second time in the past six months.

First priority need, Driver said, is the acquisition of staff to fill vacant medical positions at the hospital.

Physicians and surgeons needed to fill at least four vacancies should not be reluctant to join the staff, Driver said, for the Lincoln hospital is now a "permanent" VA facility.

Driver also urged an immediate increase in patient load at the 200-bed hospital. As of Thursday, the hospital housed only 94 patients.

Callan praised the VA's decision to undertake "a modern assessment" of needs at the hospital in the wake of its revocation of earlier plans to close the Lincoln facility instead of relying on a seven-year-old modernization program drawn in 1958.

The VA is pursuing "a logical procedure" in its efforts to update the hospital, Callan said.

New Elevators

The decision to proceed immediately with a $130,000 contract to install new elevators at the facility is proof that the hospital is now a permanent VA institution, the congressman noted.

Lincoln, Driver said, was "harder hit in terms of staff losses" than other VA hospitals which had been listed for closure prior to reversal of that order.

"We want to motivate the medical community in this area to pitch in and interest itself in this problem," Driver noted.

One of the reasons the Lincoln hospital was spared, he said, was the fact that "this hospital, compared to others, had the most medical specialties represented on its staff."

The medical community here is "geared to support a hospital on a nearly comparable basis to one with a medical school," Driver pointed out.

The modernization program, he said, will encompass "a variety of architectural changes which will make it possible to provide quality care for our veterans."

Callan Predicts Boxcar Shortage Bill May Get OK

Rep. Clair Callan said Thursday that the Congress may act before adjournment on a bill designed to help alleviate the perennial boxcar shortage in the Midwest.

The bill "can be of help in meeting this problem," the First District Democrat said.

"It will not be the final answer, but at least it's a start."

The bill would give the Interstate Commerce Commission discretionary power to authorize per diem rental rates on boxcars on the basis of supply.

The ICC would thus be empowered to raise rates for cars in short supply.

Callan said he has discussed the measure with leaders in the House, and believes it has "a good chance" of passing before adjournment.

Board Must OK School Land Sale

A sale of state school land is not final until the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds has approved the transaction, the State Justice Department held Thursday.

The department said the 1965 legislation which authorized sale of the 1.6 million acres of state school lands provided that a representative of the state board will conduct the sales but in no way bind the board.

The board alone has the authority to approve the offer of the highest bidder the Justice Department noted. In approving or rejecting a bid, the state board must consider the beneficiaries of the trust, the department said.

The department also said the board's official appraised value of the tracts of land can be altered any time prior to the opening of the land sale auction. The appraised value then will be the starting bid price and cannot be changed once the auction has begun.

The land sale bill, passed by the last Legislature, requires that tracts be sold as leases expire. Leases on 294 tracts covering 69,000 acres are scheduled to expire Dec. 31.

The Justice Department opinion was written by Assistant Atty. Gen. Bernard L. Packett and approved by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer for H. L. Blackledge of Kearney, chairman of the state board.

Four Reformatory Inmates Paroled

The State Parole Board Thursday granted paroles to four Nebraska Men's Reformatory inmates, including two Omahans serving one-to-three year terms for burglary.

Albert Snoddy, 20, and Lawyer Waller Jr., 18, were sentenced Sept. 29 of last year on charges they burglarized an Omaha grocery store.

Also paroled were Dennis K. Babcock, 22, of Omaha, and Clark Gamron, 24, of Grand Island.

Babcock was sentenced to a two-to-four year term on Feb. 26 of last year on a forged check charge in Douglas County, and Gamron was serving a term of one and a half years to three years on a June 25, 1964, Hall County charge of assault to do great bodily harm.

Where can you see the '66 cars the "Big 3" should have built, but didn't?

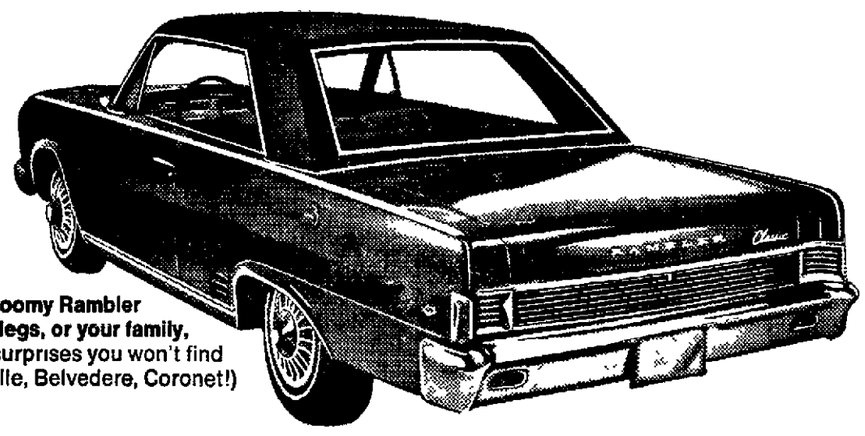

At your friendly (Authorized) Giant-Killer

Friendly crowds are flocking to friendly Giant-Killer Headquarters to see the 4 new lines of '66 cars that challenge the "Big 3" with quality built in, not added on. And they come out smiling every time.

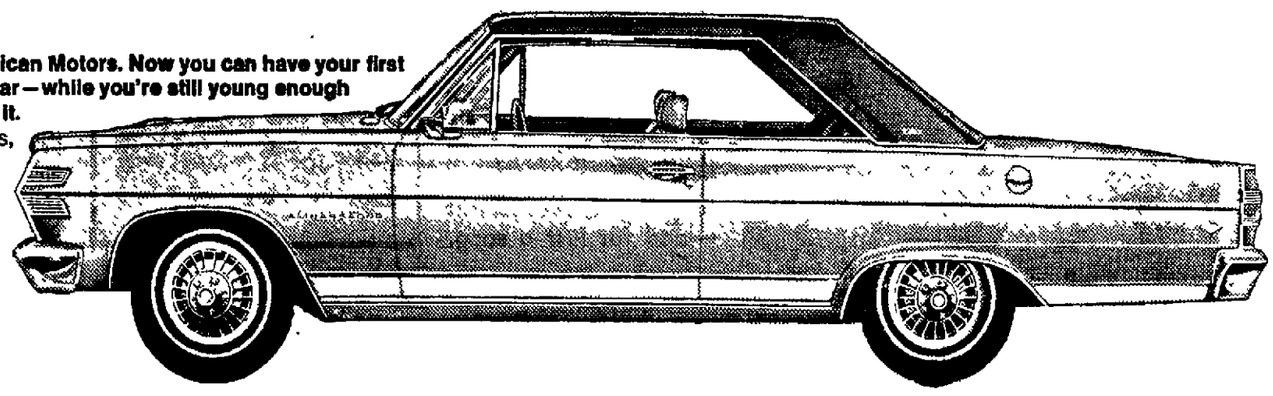

Meet the Rogue.
New razzle-dazzle Rambler (yes, Rambler!) outperforms every other car in its class.
("Do Rogues really come with rally stripes?" "No, but with the big new engine they drive that way.")
More standard horsepower than Corvair! Valiant! Falcon! And you, too, Mustang!

Big new standard Six. 199 cubes of power, torque, and thrust. (128 horses! Even GM, Chrysler, and Ford don't match that in Rogue's fighting weight and size.) Shift-Command Transmission. Sporty option on the floor (with optional 232 cu. in. Six). Two ways to handle all that power: (a) Shift gears yourself; (b) Set it on automatic. Reclining bucket seats. They're standard equipment. Try and find these sporty seats in Rogue's competitors. Make a date with the Rogue and the eight other '66 Rambler Americans today.

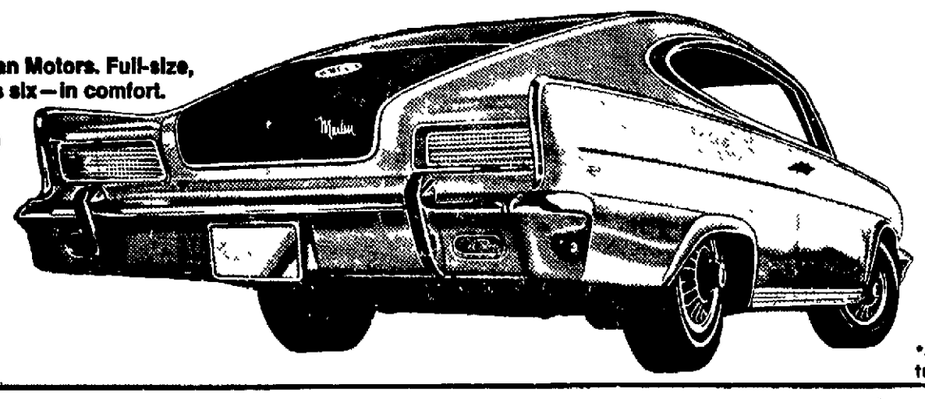

This is Rebel. New zoomy, roomy Rambler doesn't cramp your style, or your legs, or your family, or your pocketbook. (With surprises you won't find in Fairlane, Chevelle, Belvedere, Coronet!)

Three big V-8 options...two powerhouse 6's. Even our standard Six is bigger than the one in Fairlane, Chevelle, Belvedere, and Coronet. Double-Safety brake system. Only one "Big 3" car (and American Motors) make this vital safety feature standard equipment: Cadillac. Roomiest Rambler ever. More mom-room, dad-room, and kid-room than any of Rebel's "Big 3" rivals. Surprised? Wait till you see the seven other '66 Rambler Classics.

The DPL by American Motors. Now you can have your first luxury car—while you're still young enough to enjoy it.
(Coil-spring seats, like Cadillac. Double-Safety brakes, like Cadillac. Price? Like Impala, Fury, Galaxie.†)

Living room elegance. Thick cut-pile carpeting. Paneling with the hand-rubbed walnut look. Power disc brakes. Cost extra? Yes. But they're about the safest kind of stopping power even in pouring rain. Combine them with our Double-Safety brake system and you have brakes not available on Cadillac, Imperial, or Continental. Adjustable steering wheel. This convenient extra tilts to seven different (relaxing) positions. Be sure to see the DPL and the seven other Ambassadors.

Marlin '66 by American Motors. Full-size, family-size sports fastback seats six—in comfort.
(Even with bucket seats.* How? Read other side.)

Bucket seats that sit 3 in front?* Simple: our special sub-cushion between the buckets. For a 2+2, pull down front and rear armrests. (Let's see any other fastback do that.) Fastback power! If you ever need it, our optional 327 cu. in. V-8 takes you from zero to 60 in 10 seconds flat! Two super-sporty transmissions: Four-on-the-floor. And there's Shift-Command. (Stick shift for you, automatic for your wife.) Be a sport. See the Marlin quick!

Troops Lift Siege As U.S. Officer Escapes Reds

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—Airlifted troops joined the besieged garrison at Plei Me Thursday and a U.S. military spokesman said they apparently lifted the siege. The Viet Cong attack, launched Tuesday night, was reported to have ebbed quickly.

U.S. helicopters bore several Vietnamese companies to the enbattled special forces camp, in the central highlands 210 miles northeast of Saigon. The spokesman said guerrilla operations diminished in both size and ferocity.

Witnesses said the assault force, estimated up to 500 men, had suffered heavily. They reported seeing at least 90 enemy bodies in the defensive wire and on the ground beyond.

To the north, a U.S. Army officer who was senior adviser to a Vietnamese battalion based near Quang Tri city escaped from the Viet Cong after being held captive for several hours. Announcing this exploit, the spokesman identified the officer as Capt. Robert F. Hopper, 29, whose wife lives in Winter Haven, Fla. Newsmen were told:

Hopper apparently was captured when guerrillas hit a government outpost near Quan Tri, itself only 20 miles south of the frontier of Communist North Viet Nam. The raiders penetrated an artillery position and blew up an ammunition storage bunker.

Details of Hopper's escape were not learned immediately, but he apparently returned to government lines in good shape.

This incident came little more than four months after Sgt. Isaac Camacho, 28, of El Paso, Tex., got away from the guerrillas. Camacho escaped after being held captive for 18 months.

B52 jet bombers raced in again from Guam. A U.S. spokesman said they staged three attacks on Viet Cong targets in Binh Dinh province, 285 miles northeast of Saigon.

20 Missile Sites In North Viet Nam Readied For Use

Washington (AP)—More than 20 sites for Soviet-built antiaircraft missiles have been spotted in Communist North Viet Nam, informed sources said Thursday.

These sources stressed, however, that most of the sites are not operational.

It was said that the sites comprise earth work structures normally built to protect missile batteries and their associated equipment, as well as what appear to be cable installations which could be hooked up to activate radar and other gear.

Mayor Found Dead

Oyens, Iowa (UPI)—Mayor Fidelis Heissel, 58, was found dead in his home with a shotgun wound in the head. The death was ruled a suicide.

BANK ROBBED OF $108,132

Holden, Mass. (AP)—Two masked men robbed the Holden branch of Worcester County National Bank Thursday and escaped with $108,132, an audit showed.

A few minutes later, a state police roadblock picked up Edward W. Bejune, 37, of Worcester, who was charged with participating in the robbery.

Tourist Guide Planned On Assassination Spot

Dallas, Tex. (AP) — A marker to be placed where President John F. Kennedy was shot will include maps and descriptive material in bronze, park officials said Thursday.

Tourists, who come to the site by the thousands in family cars, taxicabs and by walking to the site now find nothing fixing the location of the Nov. 22, 1963, assassination.

A city block will be rebuilt as Kennedy Memorial Plaza, but it will be a block north of the site.

"After one year and a half of observing, it became quite obvious that the need for an explanation marker was absolutely essential," City Parks Director L. B. Houston said in an interview.

The historical marker will be about 200 feet from the point on the sloping Elm Street artery where Kennedy was shot.

A person viewing the bronze panels could look to his right and see the fifth floor window of the Texas School Book Depository. The Warren Commission said Lee Harvey Oswald fired his rifle at Kennedy from this window.

The exact wording on the panels will be chosen later, Houston said. The panels will be set in native red granite in a curver marker 30 feet long and 4½ feet high, with a low hedge in front.

Preliminary drawings devote one seven-foot panel to an aerial map of downtown Dallas showing Kennedy's motorcade route, another to a sketch of the book depository and the motorcade's path down Elm Street, and a third to written descriptions from the Warren Commission report.

Houston estimated the marker could be finished possibly in six months. The cost will be near $20,000, he said.

"There will be a flagstaff with the flag flying — sort of a beacon to the tourists to tell them here's where they can get the story," the park director said. The flagstaff will replace a tall obelisk.

British Unemployment Shows Slight Increase

Faster Night Speed Being Posted Early

The new nighttime speed limit of 60 miles per hour is being posted on Nebraska highways, but it actually doesn't become legal until Nov. 18.

State Safety Engineer Robert Meyer said Thursday that sign crews have been sticking the new 60 mph lettering over the old 55 mph limit for about a month.

"Speed limit signs can't be changed overnight," he explained. "We had to start early to have the change-over complete by Nov. 18."

Meyer said that law enforcement officers are permitting, as practical matter, the new 60 night limit where it is posted.

A special pressure-sensitive sticker is being used for the sign modification.

"It's the fastest and most economical method we've found," Meyer said.

Only other change in the state's speed laws made by the 1965 Legislature permits travel trailers of less than 23-foot lengths to be towed at the speed permitted the towing vehicle.

Larger house trailers are limited to a tow speed of 50 miles per hour.

Nebraska's speed limits include 65 day and 60 night (beginning Nov. 18) for passenger cars on hard-surfaced state highways, 60 day and 50 night for trucks over five tons. The limit on gravel or dirt roads not a part of state highway system is 50 for all vehicles.

Interstate Highway speed limits are 75 for passenger vehicles and 65 for trucks. Minimum speed is 40.

State Air Conditioning Job Ahead Of Schedule

The contractor on the air conditioning work in the State Capitol expects to finish up four months ahead of schedule, a Department of Roads architect said Thursday.

Architect Ken Johnson said Natkin and Company have indicated the installation will be virtually complete by Christmas with only some clean-up items remaining.

Johnson said approximately $25,000 worth of change orders have been authorized in the $1,174,237 project.

"The old 1922 plans of the building showed some wall space of greater width than found when workmen cut into them to run pipe," he said. "In a few instances, piping had to be re-routed."

Johnson said this first major mechanical installation since the building was constructed produced few surprises.

"A couple of walled-up rooms, or better described as closet-like spaces, were found, but there were no unknown passages or storage areas discovered," he said.

Johnson said a few deviations from Bertrand Goodhue's original 1922 master plan were found.

Several plan revisions for the West Senate Chamber were found. Nothing radical, but changes were made as it was built.

Release Plan For Voc Ed School At Hastings Depot

A plan for utilization of facilities at the Hastings naval ammunition depot near Hastings to establish a central Nebraska vocational technical school was released by the State Education Department Thursday.

The plan, compiled by Hastings school officials, calls for the beginning of classes at the trade school as early as the fall of 1966. The base will be deactivated next June 30.

The school would be established under a bill approved by the last Legislature providing for the establishment of area trade schools with local, state and federal financing.

The plan calls for the central Nebraska school campus to cover 400 acres and include 15 buildings at the depot. The land and facilities are available free of charge from the federal government.

The facilities include an administration building, visitor center, photography shop, transportation building for automobile mechanics classes, machine and carpenter shops, two classroom buildings, cafeteria, dispensary, fire station, diesel locomotive shop and three giant warehouses.

Since the buildings are of steel and brick construction, "maintenance of the area would be small compared to the operation of the state supported trade schools" at Milford and Sidney, according to the plan.

Bids Opened For I-480 Approaches

The State Roads Department Thursday opened bids on western approaches to the Interstate 480 bridge linking downtown Omaha with Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Estimated cost of the project is $1 million. Apparent low bidders will be announced Friday.

State Engineer John Hossack said construction of the approaches will begin next spring if favorable bids are received. The project is slated to be completed next fall.

Work on the bridge itself has begun. The Nebraska and Iowa highway departments are financing 10% of the cost, and the federal government 90%.

The approaches project was one of 13 contained in Thursday's bid opening. Together, their estimated cost is $3.2 million.

Bauer Considers U.S. Senate Seat

State Sen. Hal W. Bauer said Thursday he's considering running for a U.S. Senate seat from Nebraska next year.

"Should Governor Morrison not be a candidate for the Senate, I would seriously consider entering that race," the Lincoln Democrat said.

Morrison, who is presently touring Europe, is considered a possible opponent for Republican Sen. Carl T. Curtis in the November, 1966, election. It also has been speculated he will run for a fourth term as governor, or be appointed to a federal judgeship.

Bauer, a freshman legislator, was the chief sponsor of the state income tax act passed by the Legislature last spring.

Guerrilla War Claimed

Allahabad, India (AP)—Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri contended at a mass rally here that Pakistan is giving military training to 14,000 persons for guerrilla warfare in Kashmir. He said they were planned as a "second save" following the 22-day India-Pakistan war of last month, now under an ill-kept ceasefire.

Cuban Exodus Begins Again, Adding To Key West Camp

Key West, Fla. (AP)—More than 250 refugees—the largest number since Fidel Castro opened the exit gates of Cuba two weeks ago—crossed the choppy Florida Straits to freedom Thursday.

They brought to an emphatic end a two-day lull in the exodus from the Communist island and reported a makeshift armada of more than 250 small boats waiting behind to make the trip.

Among the new exiles was Anselmo Hernandez, a grizzled, 92-year-old fisherman who said he inspired Ernest Hemingway's novel "The Old Man and the Sea".

But the author's widow, Mary Hemingway, said in New York the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel was not about any one person, although Hemingway had indeed known Hernandez well.

Another of the new arrivals was Juvenal Montesino, who exclaimed happily: "I just made it. I'll be 14 years old in 10 days."

Youths from 14 to 27 are not being permitted to leave Cuba because of military obligations. Juvenal's father, who preceded his family into exile three years ago, had sailed back to get his wife and two sons.

Milwaukee Boycott Ends

Milwaukee, Wis. (AP) — Civil rights leaders ended a 3½-day boycott of the Milwaukee public school system Thursday with a warning to the community to expect an "escalation of protest" until "a clearly stated policy of desegregation" is implemented.

State Assemblyman Lloyd A. Barbee, chairman of the sponsoring Milwaukee United School Integration Committee, called the boycott "the longest and strongest" the nation has ever seen.

His announcement of a "temporary suspension" sent children attending 22 "freedom" schools back to public schools for afternoon classes with excuses signed by Barbee. The boycott, he said, could be resumed on a spot basis from day to day, directed against specific schools.

New State, Federal Welfare Laws Are Studied By Social Workers

New state and federal welfare legislation Thursday came under the scrutiny of some 300 public and private agency social workers when State Public Welfare Director John Gage addressed the 22nd annual Nebraska Social Work Institute here.

Briefly reviewing the Civil Rights Act, Economic Opportunity Act, Food Stamp Act and implications of each on social work, Gage reported that these laws are being implemented in Nebraska as far as possible.

"The most amazing piece of legislation to come out of Congress," Gage declared, is the group of 1965 Social Security amendments, "involving a great many new concepts that we have never had before in America."

The state director termed the medicare provision a "tremendous piece of legislation, but very confusing" with many of its policies still unestablished.

Noting that the supplementary medical insurance portion will "undoubtedly be handled by a fiscal intermediary," Gage announced. "It appears that Blue Cross-Blue Shield will perhaps be the fiscal intermediary in Nebraska."

Some details of participation in the medical assistance program under Title 19 of the Social Security amendments outlined for the social work institute, including the requirement of a broad program, maintenance of state expenditure, and provision for care of patients in mental disease hospitals.

"For the first time," Gage said, "we will have federal aid recipients in institutions," which he indicated would save county tax money.

The welfare workers participating in the two-day educational sessions studied several phases of social work Thursday, discussing development of family and child welfare resources in rural areas, implementing the economic Opportunity Act, using volunteers in welfare work, helping clients with money management and the role of the clerical worker.

Cat Is Hung From Lincoln Street Post

The dead body of a full-grown female cat, its claws frayed from trying to escape by climbing a steel pole from which it was hung, was discovered Thursday morning by a girl on her way to school, according to Lincoln police and the Humane Society.

The rope used in the hanging was strung with the traditional 13 loops of a hangman's noose, Police Detective Robert Durham said.

A sign post at the corner of 40th and St. Paul was used as a gallows.

"This is the work of someone with a warped sense of values," Durham said.

Mrs. Bernard Patton, a Humane Society spokesman, said the incident is being investigated for possible prosecution.

POWER BOARD OK'S 373 RETAIL SERVICE PACTS

Nebraska's Power Review Board, in carrying out an assigned function, has approved 373 retail service area agreements among power districts so far.

Another 13 agreements, when concluded, would round out the estimated 386 such agreements needed to complete the program.

Most of the agreements to date have been arrived at on a voluntary basis between retailers.

The service area agreements are designed to eliminate unnecessary conflict and competition among power retailers.

Cuban Exodus Begins Again, Adding To Key West Camp

Key West, Fla (AP)—More than 250 refugees—the largest number since Fidel Castro opened the exit gates of Cuba two weeks ago—crossed the choppy Florida Straits to freedom Thursday

They brought to an emphatic end a two-day lull in the exodus from the Communist island and reported a makeshift armada of more than 250 small boats waiting behind to make the trip.

Among the new exiles was Anselmo Hernandez, a grizzled, 92-year-old fisherman who said he inspired Ernest Hemingway's novel "The Old Man and the Sea"

But the author's widow, Mary Hemingway, said in New York the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel was not about any one person, although Hemingway had indeed known Hernandez well.

Another of the new arrivals was Juvenal Montesino, who exclaimed happily: "I just made it. I'll be 14 years old in 10 days."

Youths from 14 to 27 are not being permitted to leave Cuba because of military obligations. Juvenal's father, who preceded his family into exile three years ago, had sailed back to get his wife and two sons.

Congress Drives For Adjournment

Washington (AP)—Handing the Johnson program a pair of setbacks on the way, Congress stepped up its adjournment drive Thursday strengthening prospects the session will end Friday or Saturday.

The turndowns — probably only temporary—of two administration requests for money came in Conference Committee action on a supplemental appropriations bill.

Swift approval by both chambers of the $4.7-billion funding for many administration projects cleared away one of the few remaining potential roadblocks on the path to adjournment.

The House passed the money measure on a roll call of 251 to 84 while the Senate approved the bill on a voice vote.

Senate conferees agreed to House elimination of a $360,000 item from the catch-all appropriations bill to start payment of rent subsidies for low-income families. This means this administration program can't be started before next year.

The principal argument by House opponents of an immediate start was that the act as now drawn would permit persons with low salaries but high investment income to qualify for the payments.

The program would be open to those eligible for public housing. It would pay nonprofit organizations enough to make up the difference between 25% of a tenant's income and the rent agreed upon as reasonable for a given housing unit. No private landlords would be so subsidized.

Teacher Corps

Later, Senate conferees went along with the House again and eliminated funds to start a so-called teachers corps intended to boost the quality of teaching in schools in low-income areas.

Both programs remain authorized and funds probably will be voted for them in 1966.

The Conference Committee's shaping of a compromise money bill cleared away one of the few remaining potential roadblocks on the path to a quick windup.

Other developments pointing to early adjournment included:

—A dramatic Senate speech by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., asking that the nomination of Francis X. Morrissey for a place on the federal bench in Boston be returned to the Judiciary Committee. The Senate quickly agreed and this means, for practical purposes, the nomination is dead for this session.

Cooley

—Chairman Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., of the House Agriculture Committee, indicated he thinks there will be little difficulty reconciling House and Senate versions of a hotly disputed sugar-quotas bill.

—There were indications that the House would accept a Senate scaling-down of a pay raise for federal employes.

These actions prompted Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., to tell reporters he now believes the session can be wrapped up Friday night.

Senate Democratic leaders wouldn't go that far but they and House leaders indicated they feel prospects are bright for a Saturday shutdown—and without the session dragging on into late night hours.

3 Plead Innocent To Dope Case Charges

Omaha (UPI)—Three men entered innocent pleas in Federal District Court here Thursday to charges of concealing and transporting marijuana.

The men, all Cubans, were Lucio Garcia, 21, and Reinaldo Lovenzo, 32, both of New York City, and Oscar Vega, 23, of Los Angeles.

They appeared before Judge Richard E. Robinson after waiving their right to appear before a grand jury.

The trio was arrested a week ago in their rented car on U.S. 30 in Cheyenne County. They were stopped by a State Safety Patrolman after a Kimball motel operator reported linen missing from a room in which the men stayed the previous night.

A total of 140 pounds of marijuana was found in three suitcases.

Bond for the men was reduced from $10,000 to $7,500 by Judge Robinson after an interpretor requested the move.

New Clues In Hit-And-Run Case

Fremont (AP)—A Federal Bureau of Investigation report has given authorities a new description of a car wanted in a hit-and-run fatality in Fremont.

After six-year-old Tammy Kaphart was killed in front of her home Oct. 4, the death car was described as a red and white convertible.

The FBI report says, however, that paint fragments indicate the car was a 1954 to 1957 American Motors product which was yellow over a black primer.

Fremont police have offered a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the driver of the car which killed Tammy.

don't blame him—you were at fault

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have had a crush on this neighbor kid for a long time, and just lately he started to notice me. I am 13½ and he is 15. One night about two weeks ago I was over at his house babysitting with his little sisters when he came home with a bunch of boys at about 11 p.m. They started making a lot of noise, so I told him to be quiet. He kept right on making noise, so I socked him on the arm. He just laughed, so I got sore and pushed him over and punched him real hard in the stomach. I guess I knocked the wind out of him. Anyway, he quit laughing, the other boys left, and he wouldn't even listen to me when I tried to apologize to him. I have seen him several times since then and he won't even look at me. How can I get him to like me again?

SORRY

DEAR SORRY: I don't blame him. You humiliated him before his friends. Perhaps in a few years he will forget the incident, and you can both laugh about it. But for now, if you are old enough to have a crush on a boy, you are old enough to learn a lesson. Don't match physical strength with a male. You can't win. If you win, you lose.

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are East, defending against Four Spades.

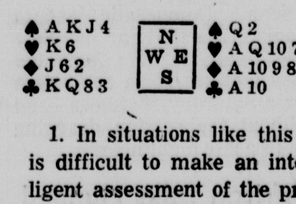

The bidding has been:

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	4 ♠

Your partner leads a low heart. You cash the A-K, declarer playing the Q-3, and lead another heart which South ruffs with the queen. He then plays a spade to the ten and a spade back to the king, West following with the 5-9. Declarer then leads the nine of clubs, which you win with the jack. What would you play now?

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Six No-trump. North leads his fourth best spade, the three. How would you play the hand?

1. In situations like this it is difficult to make an intelligent assessment of the proper return without at least trying to guess declarer's distribution. The most important knowledge you have so far about South's hand is that he started with the A-K-Q-7-4 of spades and the Q-3 of hearts.

Declarer's remaining six cards in the minor suits may be divided 3-3, 4-2, or 5-1, and the aim should be to find a return which caters to all these distributions and at the same time defeats the contract.

The proper return is a club. This play is sure to beat the contract if declarer's distribution is either 3-3 or 4-2 in the minors. In both these cases you can be certain of getting a diamond trick later.

If you led a heart or a diamond instead, South would make the contract if his hand were something like:

♠AKQ74 ♥Q3 ♦Q863 ♣98

The only time a club return would fail is when South started with five clubs. However, this possibility should not be considered seriously, because, aside from its being remote, declarer presumably would have made the standard safety play of cashing the ace instead of taking an immediate finesse.

2. Win the spade with the queen and cash three more spades, discarding the 7-8 of diamonds from dummy. Then play a diamond, finessing the nine. When South wins, he is bound to give you the twelfth trick regardless of which suit he elects to return.

PLANE LOAD

of memories--and excitement

The plane came — So did 116 Nebraska alumni.

The chartered plane from Los Angeles arrived late Thursday afternoon and on it were memories, excitement, and alumni from all sections of California.

We were expecting Roy 'Link' Lyman and four members of the 1941 Rose Bowl team to be on the plane. The Rose Bowl boys were there, here for a reunion but Mr. Lyman was in a hurry—he had arrived on an earlier afternoon plane.

In the upper picture are five members of the Rose Bowl team, beginning with George Abel of Lincoln, Mrs. Fred Meier, Mr. Meier, Santa Ana, Calif.; Clarence Herndon of San Gabriel, Calif.; Mrs. Fred Metheny, Mr. Metheny, Arcadia, Calif.; William Bryant of Norwalk, Calif. and his daughter and Ed Schwartzkopf, Lincoln. We hear Mrs. Herndon arrives today.

around the town

Things have changed since we took a look at the guest book an hour or two ago—Those blank pages have been completely filled with the names of those who are coming from here, there and everywhere for the Homecoming weekend. Then, too, we have some visitors of the non-Homecoming variety. There also are some festivities to mention—and we had best start the 'mentioning.'

* * *

For several days we have been wanting to tell that Mr. and Mrs. Louis Babst of Mill Valley, Calif., are spending two weeks in Lincoln, and that they are the house guests of their daughter, Miss Mary Louise Babst. Mr. and Mrs. Babst did not come for the Homecoming activities, but timed their visit to coincide with the 40th anniversary of the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra of which Mr. Babst was a member for many years.

* * *

And from Marshall, Minn., have come Mrs. Albert H. Enersen and Mrs. Laura Garry who are the house guests of Mrs. Enersen's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Enersen.

It was nip and tuck as to whether Mrs. L. A. Enersen would arrive home from Clarks, La., in time to greet the visitors, but she made it—on Monday—as did her guests.

In Clarks Mrs. Enersen visited her son, Philip, who is a student at St. Mary's School.

When Mrs. Enersen and Mrs. Garry return to Minnesota they will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Enersen who will go on to their son, Stephen, who is attending Carleton College, and to attend the Parents Day activities—

* * *

Fron now on it's Homecoming—

We hear that Dr. and Mrs. Arden Means are coming from Holdrege for the weekend, and that they will be a dinner host and hostess on Friday evening at the Lincoln Country Club when they honor Judge and Mrs. Robert Wenke of Long Beach, Calif. The guest list for the party will include, in addition to Judge and Mrs. Wenke, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Samuelson of Pender; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Simmons and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Milliken of Fremont; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Andersen of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Scheer and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thone.

* * *

You already know that Col. and Mrs. 'Biff' Jones will be in town for the Rose Bowl Reunion and Saturday's game, but perhaps you didn't know that they are to be the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Russell.

On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Russell will pay courtesy to their guests when they are a dinner host and hostess at the Lincoln Country Club. Also included in the guest list will be Mr. and Mrs. Ted James of Denver, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Scott of Sheridan, Wyo.

* * *

From Indianapolis, Ind., today will come Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Thad Black who will participate in the Homecoming festivities with Col. Black's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Black, whose house guests they will be.

Figures Do Lie

Mathemeticians will tell you that figures don't lie and for the most part, they are probably right. But figures, like everyone else, might just fib a little once in awhile.

An example: When you divide Nebraska's season in half which is where it is now and figure the records of teams Nebraska has played and the records of the teams remaining, you come up with two sets of numbers—7-10-3 and 8-13-3.

Now, without peeking, take a guess as to which record belongs to those played and which to those remaining. We'll bet if you were honest, you picked them wrong.

The 7-10-3 record belongs to the teams Nebraska has already played and those remaining have only an 8-13-3 mark. Figures thus would indicate that the toughest part is over.

This is where the figures fib a little. No one in the past is likely as good as Colorado will be Saturday or Missouri will be next week or Oklahoma will be on Thanksgiving Day.

On this basis, don't expect a fourth straight shutout to match the last three (44-0 over Iowa State, 37-0 over Wisconsin and 41-0 over Kansas State). This week, let's try: NEBRASKA 27, Colorado 7.

Other Big Eight Games

MISSOURI 20, Iowa State 7 . . . Cyclones are getting tougher instead of weaker as they have in the past, but they can't stop Charlie Brown.

OKLAHOMA STATE 14, Kansas 7 . . . A battle of two teams that have found winning to be a very elusive goal thus far. It's been more elusive for Kansas than for the Cowboys.

OKLAHOMA 26, Kansas State 0 . . . Oklahoma could be on the way to repeating their feats of a year ago when they didn't get rolling until conference play started.

Casper Retains Lead

Bill Blasts 2nd 5-Under-Par

. . . SETS TOURNEY RECORD

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP)—Bill Casper Jr. blasted out his second consecutive five-under par 66 Thursday for a 36-hole total of 132 and the lead at the midway mark of the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

The 34-year-old Californian shot a 34-32-66 over the 7,069-yard, par 36-35-71 Paradise Valley Country Club course.

The 36-hole score broke the tournament record of 133 set last year by R. H. Dick Sikes, who went on to win, but who will not be on hand for the third round Friday. Sikes' 72-78—150 failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

Casper increased his lead as three young darkhorses moved into the picture.

Randy Glover, 23, from Florence, S.C., fired a 34-31—65 for 135; Dale Douglass of Denver shot a 34-33—67 for 136, and Dudley Wyson, 26, of Casper, Wyo., had a 35-33—68 for 137.

Six strokes behind Casper was Jack Nicklaus, who had a 67 after a first-round 71.

Nicklaus made the trip in 35-32 and said "I played a lot better today than yesterday. The wind — or lack of it — made some difference, but I had the advantage of having played a round.

"I was unable to take a practice round before the tournament started. I don't care how many times you have played the course, you still need a practice round to get adjusted to it."

Dave Hill shot a 70 to tie with Nicklaus at 138.

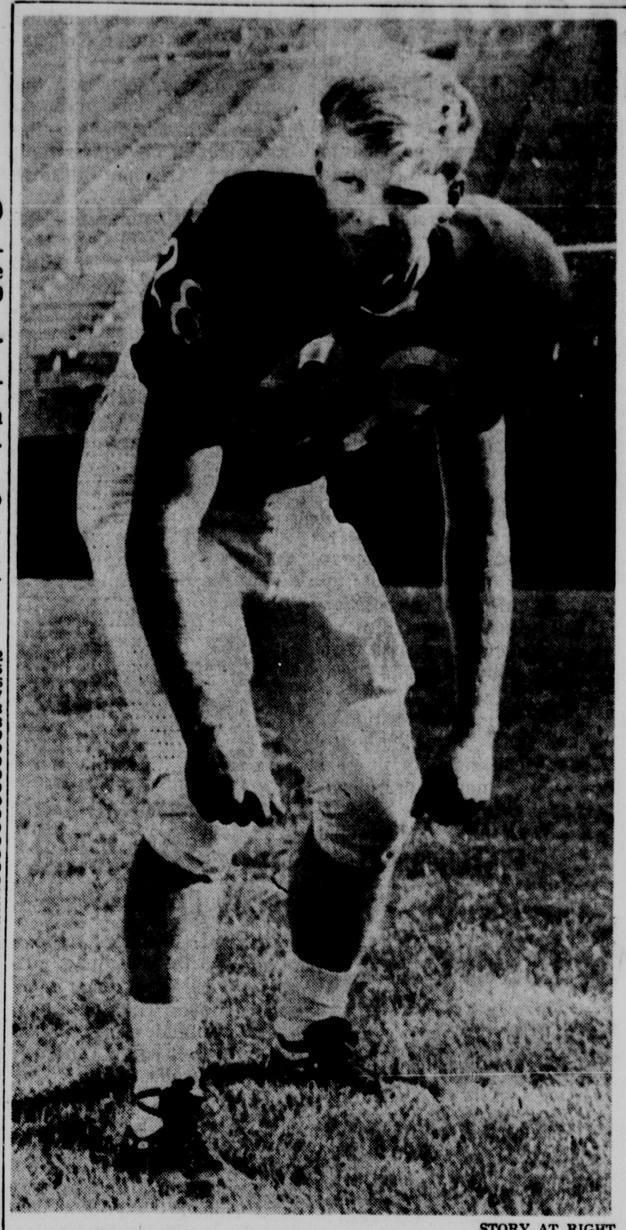

Tied at 139 were Art Wall Jr., Billy Maxwell, Bobby Nichols, Doug Sanders and Al Besselink.

The 140 bracket included Bruce Crampton, Al Geiberger, George Knudson, Fred Hawkins, Ray Floyd, Don January and Larry Mowry.

Seventy-one pros with scores of 146 or better qualified for the final 36 holes.

BILL JOHNSON . . . NU defensive back

—NEBRASKA BLACK SHIRT—

Johnson Fits 'Winner' Mold

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nearly every successful team in any sport has one.

He's a fellow who doesn't run very fast, a fellow who isn't very big and if you saw him on the corner, you'd never mistake him for an athlete.

But he's a fellow whom the coaches wouldn't trade because he's what Bear Bryant of Alabama refers to as a "winner. Someone who gets the job done."

This mold produced Bill Johnson for Nebraska's football team that is rolling along with a 5-0 record and a first place national ranking with United Press International.

While admitting that Johnson, the defensive fullback on the Husker Black Shirts, "is only average in speed," defensive backfield coach Jim Ross points out, "He is a good all-around athlete who thinks well, especially on the football field.

"He's good to work with because he gives you 100% all the time," Ross emphasizes. "He's the type you never have to worry about because he's never going to be in trouble scholastically or any other kind of trouble."

Johnson is a 5-10, 187-pounder, whose baby face and blond thatch of hair that is generally wind-blown could get him in most high school football games on a high school ticket, doesn't claim to be an athletic great.

While Johnson doesn't have the speed to be even a standout on a high school track team, nor the size to make it in the weight events or in basketball, the stocky blond has made it as a starter on one of the best college football teams in the nation.

"I wasn't much in track in high school," he admits. "I always went out for the team, but I didn't help them much. The best I ever ran the 100-yard dash in was :10.5 which isn't very fast."

Johnson also doesn't try to hide the fact that his lack of size is a factor in covering pass receivers.

"If I had to cover someone like Freeman White (who is 6-5), I'd be in trouble," he says. "And, of course, I'm a little short on speed also which doesn't help me any," he modestly admits.

"Bill is a boy who had to do it the hard way," Ross points out. "He wasn't even on a scholarship when we (coach Bob Devaney's staff) came here.

"But he always gave everything he had and he earned a scholarship."

Johnson agrees that college coaches weren't exactly beating down the door on his Stanton home when he graduated from the Class B high school, which since he left has dropped to Class C.

"The only people who talked to me were from Colorado State College and Colorado State University," he points out. "I didn't have much trouble deciding on Nebraska because I had always wanted to go to Nebraska."

When Johnson sits down at the training table with his football teammates to eat the beef that is provided by the Cornhusker Beef Club, the Stanton native is playing both ends.

His father, Walter, was in on the Beef Club when it was originated and Bill helps his father during the summers in fattening some of the cattle that eventually wind up on the NU training table.

"We aren't nearly as big in the cattle business as most of those in the Beef Club," Johnson points out, "because ours is mostly farming and we just feed cattle on the side with about 100 head."

It may be just another way Johnson has of beating opponents. He helps see that his Husker teammates are well-nourished.

Barnes Standout On Defense

Kansas City (AP)—Game after game, three senior players are around the top of the list of defensive All America candidates in the Midlands, as reported by the Associated Press regional board.

The big three are back Johnny Roland of Missouri, tackle Walt Barnes of Nebraska and linebacker Carl McAdams of Oklahoma.

The 207-pound Roland, a fourth-round future draft choice of the St. Louis Cardinals is an outstanding ball hawk and smashing tackler on defense. Board members and coaches rate him the equal of any defensive back in the land.

Roland is much more than this, however, because he gives the offense a big lift. Coach Dan Define uses him in situations near the goal. In all categories, Roland has handled the ball 39 times and gained 379 yards. Against UCLA he returned a punt 67 yards for a touchdown, then threw a two-point conversion pass for a 14-14 tie.

The 6-foot-3, 252-pound Barnes can play wherever the unbeaten Huskers need him most. Right now he's at tackle. Last season he was an All-Big Eight middle guard. If Nebraska needed an offensive tackle, he'd be the best in the league. Husker coaches say he's so quick, strong and smart he could become a great fullback with a little experience.

McAdams, 6-3 by 226, is a punishing tackler and fast enough to intercept and bat down passes. Game after game, opposing backs complain "McAdams was everywhere." He was Associated Press lineman of the week for the nation after his play against Texas.

The board rated several players close to the top three.

They are ends Sam Harris, 225, of Colorado, and Bill Matan 239, of Kansas State; tackles Bruce Van Dyke, 230, of Missouri and Hugh McCrabb, 200, of Oklahoma State; guard Charles Harper, 245, of Oklahoma State; linebackers Jim Waskiewicz, 235, of Wichita, Doug Buffone, 220, of Louisville and Dick Fugere, 215, of Cincinnati; and defensive backs Larry Wachholtz, 162, Nebraska, Ken Boston, 178, Missouri and Hale Irwin, 181, Colorado.

Seven sophomores playing defense were pegged as future All America possibilities by the Board. They are Russell Washington, 6-foot-6, 274-pound end at Missouri; tackles Frank Bosch, 245, Colorado, and Earl Edwards 265, Wichita; guards Ron Scott, 224, Colorado, end Jerry Murphy, 241, Nebraska; linebacker Kerry Mottle, 204, Colorado; and back Charles Greer, 183, Colorado.

White, Jeter Tandem Nation's 'Probable Best'

. . . ALLERS OUTSTANDING JUNIOR GUARD

Kansas City, Mo. (AP)—Tulsa's record-smashing little pass receiver, Howard Twilley, batterymate Bill Anderson and Missouri tackle Francis Peay are offensive All-America candidates in the eyes of The Associated Press regional board.

Nebraska's end combination of Freeman White and Tony Jeter is probably the best on any team in the nation, the board said, and their impressive all-round play makes them All-America candidates although they can't match Twilley's records.

White, Jeter, Peay, Twilley and Anderson are seniors. The board reported a pair of junior linemen are getting notice with their outstanding blocking. They are LaVerne Allers, 209-pound Nebraska guard, and Ed Hall, 215-pound Oklahoma tackle.

Hall was OU's best blocking lineman for three consecutive games against Navy, Texas and Kansas.

Allers didn't make it big at Nebraska until he forgot about trying to be a placekicker. He started as a fullback, but wasn't fast enough. He tried kicking, but this caused him to twist his back.

"He was always nursing a twisted back the first two years," said Carl Selmer, Nebraska assistant. "The best thing that ever happened to Allers—and to our team—was when he quit kicking the ball."

White is the defending Big Eight pass receiving champion and the current leader. Jeter is an outstanding blocker and plays strong defense in a pinch.

Anderson's passing record is one of the best ever in college ball. Twilley holds almost every national receiving record.

4 Starting Positions Still Up For Grabs

. . . NU READIES FOR BUFFS

Four starting positions on Nebraska's two platoons are still up for grabs as the Huskers approach Saturday's Homecoming Day contest with Colorado.

NU coach Bob Devaney was still undecided Thursday on his starters at middle guard, defensive right end and middle linebacker on defense and left halfback on offense.

In a position shift Thursday, sophomore right guard Wayne Maylan was being groomed at defensive middle guard and he could win the starting berth there from Jerry Murphey.

Defensive right end Langston Coleman is still hampered by a shoulder injury that has kept him out of the last two games and Devaney lists him as "very doubtful" for a starting berth. If Coleman is not ready, Ivan Zimmer will again start at right end.

Linebacker Mike Kennedy also is still slowed by a shoulder injury suffered last week at Kansas State and if he was not recovered fully, sophomore Barry Alvarez will draw the assignment.

The offensive left halfback spot is being contested for by Ron Kirkland, who has a shoulder injury, Pete Tatman and Ken Brunk.

John Strohmyer, the No. 2 defensive middle guard, missed Thursday's workout because of the flu and Lou Narish was running in his place.

Seventh In Defense

Nebraska ranks seventh nationally in total defense, according to statistics released Thursday by the NCAA Service Bureau, allowing opponents an average of 170.8 yards per game.

Vanderbilt is the leader with a 159.0 per game allowance and Colorado is 10th at 187.2.

The Huskers rank ninth in rushing defense with a 72.0 mark against opponents in a category topped by Cincinnati which has given up only 41.4 yards rushing per game.

Southeast-Beatrice Contest Could Be Top Prep Battle

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

If the old adage that opposites attract holds true Lincoln Southeast's engagement with Beatrice at Seacrest Field Friday night could develop as one of the night's top football battles.

Record-wise the two clubs are exactly opposite. Beatrice, fresh from a convincing 57-7 romp over Nebraska City, carries a 4-1-1 record into the game and Southeast is carrying a 1-4-1 mark.

The contest is a pivotal one for the Knights and coach Bill Stephenson, who have had difficulty finding a scoring punch.

A personal record of Stephenson's is in jeopardy Friday night as a loss or tie would mean a losing record for 1965.

That would be something new for the Southeast mentor, who has had at least a .500 mark in all 14 previous seasons as a head coach.

The figure is still attainable this year if the Knights can finish with wins over Beatrice, Pius X and Grand Island.

Bill would certainly much rather be 6-0 today than the present 1-4-1 but he's not disappointed. "I can't say I've been unhappy with the way we've played ball and I've been especially happy with the play of some of the boys I've had to call on to replace those who have been injured," he says.

The injury situation is looking up this week, which should be good news for the offensive platoon.

"It looks like halfbacks Bill Leinberger and Dave McEwen and guard Dick Splichal will be ready to go this week," Stephenson reports. When healthy all have contributed to the attack.

While the major concern is the offense, which has been blanked three times in six starts, the Knights were given something else to worry about when Beatrice exploded for its 57-point spree last week.

The Orangemen boast an improving young backfield with junior Al Klaus at quarterback and sophomores Lanny Graves and Jim Sederburg at halfbacks giving Beatrice a potent scoring threat.

While the Knights will be attempting to get into the victory circle for the second time Pius X plays host to Fairbury. The Thunderbolts will be anxious to atone for last week's 20-13 loss at the hands of Creighton Prep.

That setback dropped Pius X from No. 2 to a tie for No. 10 in the Class A ratings and the Thunderbolts are looking for a chance to move back up the ladder as they close against Fairbury, Southeast, Northeast and Sioux City Heelan.

Northeast, jolted 12-6 by North Platte in its only other Trans-Nebraska Conference road game, will have its guard up this week for an upset bid by Grand Island at the Third City.

The Rockets will go into the game without quarterback Jack Ketterer, sidelined with a leg injury, and will be counting on a defense which has blanked five of six foes to throttle the Islanders.

Lincoln High has an open date this week.

Tennessee Grid Team Resumes Daily Practices

Knoxville, Tenn. (AP) — Shaken by the deaths of two assistant coaches and serious injury to a third, Tennessee's football coaching staff has been reorganized for the remainder of the season.

Assistants William B. Majors, 26, and Robert T. Jones, 30, were killed Monday when a train struck a car in which they were riding. A third assistant, Charles Rash, 28, remains in grave condition in a hospital.

Heartbroken as they were by the tragedy, other coaches and players alike have returned to the practive field to prepare for Saturday's game here with the University of Houston.

Figures Do Lie

Mathemeticians will tell you that figures don't lie and for the most part, they are probably right. But figures, like everyone else, might just fib a little once in awhile.

An example: When you divide Nebraska's season in half which is where it is now and figure the records of teams Nebraska has played and the records of the teams remaining, you come up with two sets of numbers—7-10-3 and 8-13-3.

Now, without peeking, take a guess as to which record belongs to those played and which to those remaining. We'll bet if you were honest, you picked them wrong.

The 7-10-3 record belongs to the teams Nebraska has already played and those remaining have only an 8-13-3 mark. Figures thus would indicate that the toughest part is over.

This is where the figures fib a little. No one in the past is likely as good as Colorado will be Saturday or Missouri will be next week or Oklahoma will be on Thanksgiving Day.

On this basis, don't expect a fourth straight shutout to match the last three (44-0 over Iowa State, 37-0 over Wisconsin and 41-0 over Kansas State). This week, let's try: NEBRASKA 27, Colorado 7.

Casper Retains Lead

Bill Blasts 2nd 5-Under-Par

. . . SETS TOURNEY RECORD

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP)—Bill Casper Jr. blasted out his second consecutive five-under par 66 Thursday for a 36-hole total of 132 and the lead at the midway mark of the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

The 34-year-old Californian shot a 34-32-66 over the 7,069-yard, par 36-35-71 Paradise Valley Country Club course.

The 36-hole score broke the tournament record of 133 set last year by R. H. Dick Sikes, who went on to win, but who will not be on hand for the third round Friday. Sikes' 72-78—150 failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

Casper increased his lead as three young darkhorses moved into the picture.

Randy Glover, 23, from Florence, S.C., fired a 34-31—65 for 135; Dale Douglass of Denver shot a 34-33—67 for 136, and Dudley Wyson, 26, of Casper, Wyo., had a 35-33—68 for 137.

Six strokes behind Casper was Jack Nicklaus, who had a 67 after a first-round 71.

Nicklaus made the trip in 35-32 and said "I played a lot better today than yesterday. The wind — or lack of it — made some difference, but I had the advantage of having played a round.

"I was unable to take a practice round before the tournament started. I don't care how many times you have played the course, you still need a practice round to get adjusted to it."

Dave Hill shot a 70 to tie with Nicklaus at 138.

Tied at 139 were Art Wall Jr., Billy Maxwell, Bobby Nichols, Doug Sanders and Al Besselink.

The 140 bracket included Bruce Crampton, Al Geiberger, George Knudson, Fred Hawkins, Ray Floyd, Don January and Larry Mowry.

Seventy-one pros with scores of 146 or better qualified for the final 36 holes.

BILL JOHNSON . . . NU defensive back

—NEBRASKA BLACK SHIRT—

Johnson Fits 'Winner' Mold

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nearly every successful team in any sport has one.

He's a fellow who doesn't run very fast, a fellow who isn't very big and if you saw him on the corner, you'd never mistake him for an athlete.

But he's a fellow whom the coaches wouldn't trade because he's what Bear Bryant of Alabama refers to as a "winner. Someone who gets the job done."

This mold produced Bill Johnson for Nebraska's football team that is rolling along with a 5-0 record and a first place national ranking with United Press International.

While admitting that Johnson, the defensive fullback on the Husker Black Shirts, "is only average in speed," defensive backfield coach Jim Ross points out, "He is a good all-around athlete who thinks well, especially on the football field.

"He's good to work with because he gives you 100% all the time," Ross emphasizes. "He's the type you never have to worry about because he's never going to be in trouble scholastically or any other kind of trouble."

Johnson is a 5-10, 187-pounder, whose baby face and blond thatch of hair that is generally wind-blown could get him in most high school football games on a high school ticket, doesn't claim to be an athletic great.

While Johnson doesn't have the speed to be even a standout on a high school track team, nor the size to make it in the weight events or in basketball, the stocky blond has made it as a starter on one of the best college football teams in the nation

"I wasn't much in track in high school," he admits. "I always went out for the team, but I didn't help them much. The best I ever ran the 100-yard dash in was :10.5 which isn't very fast."

Johnson also doesn't try to hide the fact that his lack of size is a factor in covering pass receivers.

"If I had to cover someone like Freeman White (who is 6-5), I'd be in trouble," he says. "And, of course, I'm a little short on speed also which doesn't help me any," he modestly admits.

"Bill is a boy who had to do it the hard way," Ross points out. "He wasn't even on a scholarship when we (coach Bob Devaney's staff) came here.

"But he always gave everything he had and he earned a scholarship."

Johnson agrees that college coaches weren't exactly beating down the door on his Stanton home when he graduated from the Class B high school, which since he left has dropped to Class C.

"The only people who talked to me were from Colorado State College and Colorado State University," he points out. "I didn't have much trouble deciding on Nebraska because I had always wanted to go to Nebraska."

When Johnson sits down at the training table with his football teammates to eat the beef that is provided by the Cornhusker Beef Club, the Stanton native is playing both ends.

His father, Walter, was in on the Beef Club when it was originated and Bill helps his father during the summers in fattening some of the cattle that eventually wind up on the NU training table.

"We aren't nearly as big in the cattle business as most of those in the Beef Club," Johnson points out, "because ours is mostly farming and we just feed cattle on the side with about 100 head."

It may be just another way Johnson has of beating opponents. He helps see that his Husker teammates are well-nourished.

The Orangemen boast an improving young backfield with junior Al Klaus at quarterback and sophomores Lanny Graves and Jim Sederburg at halfbacks giving Beatrice a potent scoring threat.

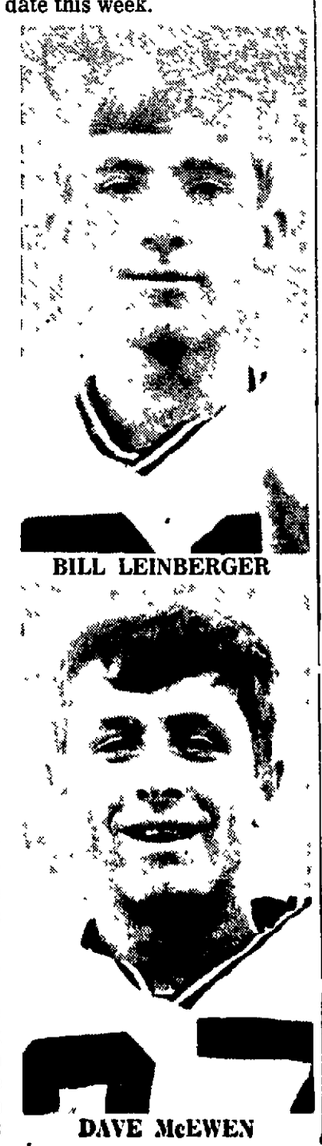

While the Knights will be attempting to get into the victory circle for the second time Pius X plays host to Fairbury. The Thunderbolts will be anxious to atone for last week's 20-13 loss at the hands of Creighton Prep.

That setback dropped Pius X from No. 2 to a tie for No. 10 in the Class A ratings and the Thunderbolts are looking for a chance to move back up the ladder as they close against Fairbury, Southeast, Northeast and Sioux City Heelan.

Northeast, jolted 12-6 by North Platte in its only other Trans-Nebraska Conference road game, will have its guard up this week for an upset bid by Grand Island at the Third City.

The Rockets will go into the game without quarterback Jack Ketterer, sidelined with a leg injury, and will be counting on a defense which has blanked five of six foes to throttle the Islanders.

Lincoln High has an open date this week.

Tennessee Grid Team Resumes Daily Practices

Knoxville, Tenn. (AP) — Shaken by the deaths of two assistant coaches and serious injury to a third, Tennessee's football coaching staff has been reorganized for the remainder of the season.

Assistants William B. Majors, 26, and Robert T. Jones, 30, were killed Monday when a train struck a car in which they were riding. A third assistant, Charles Rash, 28, remains in grave condition in a hospital.

Heartbroken as they were by the tragedy, other coaches and players alike have returned to the practive field to prepare for Saturday's game here with the University of Houston.

NWU Marching Band To Preform Friday

The Pride-of-the-Plainsman marching band makes its second home appearance Friday night at the NWU-Missouri Valley football game.

Prof. Robert L. Marshall says the band will present an "A-Go-Go" show similar to the one they will do in Chicago Oct. 31 at the Chicago Bears-Green Bay Packers professional football game.

4 Starting Positions Still Up For Grabs

. . . NU READIES FOR BUFFS

Four starting positions on Nebraska's two platoons are still up for grabs as the Huskers approach Saturday's Homecoming Day contest with Colorado.

NU coach Bob Devaney was still undecided Thursday on his starters at middle guard, defensive right end and middle linebacker on defense and left halfback on offense.

In a position shift Thursday, sophomore right guard Wayne Maylan was being groomed at defensive middle guard and he could win the starting berth there from Jerry Murphey.

Defensive right end Langston Coleman is still hampered by a shoulder injury that has kept him out of the last two games and Devaney lists him as "very doubtful" for a starting berth. If Coleman is not ready, Ivan Zimmer will again start at right end.

Linebacker Mike Kennedy also is still slowed by a shoulder injury suffered last week at Kansas State and if he was not recovered fully, sophomore Barry Alvarez will draw the assignment.

The offensive left halfback spot is being contested for by Ron Kirkland, who has a shoulder injury, Pete Tatman and Ken Brunk.

John Strohmyer, the No. 2 defensive middle guard, missed Thursday's workout because of the flu and Lou Narish was running in his place.

Seventh In Defense

Nebraska ranks seventh nationally in total defense, according to statistics released Thursday by the NCAA Service Bureau, allowing opponents an average of 170.8 yards per game.

Vanderbilt is the leader with a 159.0 per game allowance and Colorado is 10th at 187.2.

The Huskers rank ninth in rushing defense with a 72.0 mark against opponents in a category topped by Cincinnati which has given up only 41.4 yards rushing per game.

MOTORCYCLE SPEED MARK RECORDED

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah (AP) — A new 250 cc motorcycle speed record of 170.36 miles an hour was set on Thursday on these Western Utah Salt Flats by George Roeder of Monroeville, Ohio.

The speed was a two-way average over the measured mile course.

Lumir F. Splichal Smokes San Felice Now.

Splichal

Lincoln man, Lumir F. Splichal says, "I've smoked cigars for a long time and I never knew they could be so mild." Lumir's reaction comes as no surprise to San Felice. Because until now, cigars were never made to smoke as mild as the new 5¢ San Felice. Incredibly mild.

Tiger Decisions Joey Giardello

. . . UNANIMOUS CHOICE OF JUDGES

A capacity crowd of 17,064 that paid $161,964 at Madison Square Garden saw the 36-year-old African open cuts around both of Pal Joey's eyes.

Thumping a steady barrage on Giardello's body while bongo drums beat a steady accompaniment in the background, Tiger piled up points but never was able to drop the veteran who took the title from him Dec. 7, 1963 at Atlantic City.

Referee Johnny Lo Bianco scored it 9-5-1 in rounds, judge Al Berl 10-5 and judge Tony Castellano 8-6-1, all for the muscular Nigerian. The AP card had it 10-4-1 for Tiger, who was raised up on the shoulders of his handlers in mid-ring after the bout.

Although Giardeloo had won nine straight over a period of nearly three years and had beaten Tiger in two of three previous bouts, Tiger had gone into the ring as a 7-5 favorite. He had been a 3-1 choice when he lost at Atlantic City.

The big crowd included a large delegation of Giardello boosters from Philadelphia who cheered his brief stands of counter punching. But the 35-year-old battle-scarred boxer from Cherry Hill, N.J. simply could not keep the Tiger from climbing all over him.

Tiger, who weighed 158½ pounds to 160, the class limit, for the beaten champion, had waited a long time for this return bout. He started strong, carried the battle to Pal Joey, and piled up such a wide lead that he was out of reach when Giardello started a late comeback.

Giardello closed with a rally that was too late and too little. Although he scored points his punches had lost their zip. He would have needed a knockout to win it but Joey hasn't knocked out anybody since 1961.

The bout was carried on a regional television hookup, mostly into Eastern cities, but was blacked out in New York where it was heard on radio. It marked the first appearance by Giardello in the Garden since 1954.

Tiger was much sharper than in Atlantic City and slammed away to the body throughout the bout. Referee Lo Bianco did not rush in to break the boxers too quickly and the body barrage often continued for several seconds.

Giardello, a master at the head feints jab and sliding moves, was cut on the side of the left eye in the second and on the side of the right eye in the ninth. Although he was blood smeared at times, the cuts never seemed to bother him.

Tiger's best weapon is his left hook which he threw over and over again with solid effect. He crowded Joey to the ropes time after time and punished him as he switched from body to head and back to the body again.

Whe Giardello did put on his late spurt, the blows had no big punch and they bounced off Tiger's head like rain drops in a summer shower.

The big crowd rose and cheered in the 12th when Giardello, after absorbing a bad beating for two minutes, gamely fought back and stung the Nigerian and tried to slug it out with him.

It was obvious that Joey had gone to the well once too often. This was his 129th fight and his 23rd defeat to 98 wins. He fought seven draws and had one no-decision contest.

When reporters got to Giardello in his dressing room, and asked about his possible retirement, Joey pointed to his wife, Rosalie, and said: "It's up to Rosalie."

Rosalie said, "My husband's going to retire."

"You heard her," said Giardello. "But I want to fight one more time for the retarded children of Providence, R.I. Dec. 8. A guy asked me to do it and I'd like to if he still wants me."

One of Joey's four sons is retarded.

Tiger, who never has been stopped, now has a 52-14-3 record for 69 fights since he came out of Amaigbo, Orlu in Nigeria and started fighting in 1952.

He had won the title from Gene Fullmer, Oct. 23, 1962, defended it against Fullmer twice, once in Las Vegas and once in Ibadan, Nigeria, before losing to Giardello in Atlantic City.

Giardello had been guaranteed $50,000 against 40 per cent of the net, including the television and radio receipts.

In the absence of an exact breakdown, it appeared Joey would draw down a little more than his guarantee. However, $20,000 of his purse has been ordered held up pending the final disposition of a law suit against him involving a contract with Lou Duva, a Paterson, N.J. promoter.

Tiger was guaranteed $15,000 or 20 per cent of the house will get considerably more than the amount promised, perhaps as much as $35,000. Most important, he had the world championship again to take home to his native land.

Frank Honored As AL Winner

. . . COMEBACK PLAYER OF YEAR

Green Bay, Wis. (AP) — "It just goes to show what a little hard work and concentration can do for a guy," commented gentle giant Frank Howard Thursday after the Washington Senators' outfielder learned he had been named Comeback Player-of-the-Year in the American League.

"But I certainly didn't expect anything like this," said the 6-foot-7 Howard. "It's a nice honor, you know."

Howard, traded to the lowly Senators by the Los Angeles Dodgers after batting .226 in 1964, hit .289 for the Senators, slugging 21 home runs and batting in 84 tallies.

He drew 61 votes in the The Associated Press annual poll of 281 sports writers and sportscasters. Minnesota pitcher Jim Grant was second with 58 votes followed by Norm Cash, Detroit first baseman, with 24.

"You can get down on yourself awfully easy, and I was definitely down on myself," said Howard, contacted at his home in Green Bay. "Once you're down on yourself mentally you can't do anything right. Half the battle is upstairs in your head."

Howard's attitude improved when he was traded. For one thing, he got a chance to play every day for the first time since coming to the big leagues to stay in 1960.

And he had to overcome personal problems that caused him to announce his retirement from baseball prior to the 1964 season.

"In time, you're able to look back and think what mountain you made out of a molehill," said Howard of his troubles. "Then you begin to realize that you don't have any bigger problems than any other guy. I know one thing now. I've got to play baseball as long as I can now just for financial reasons."

That realization drove Howard when he reported to spring training. He brought with him a pair of weights to insert in his shoes to improve his running and spent an hour or more daily after practice doing condtioning exercises.

"I had just come off a miserable year. My mental attitude was real poor, and I wasn't in very good shape. So I had to do something to speed up," Howard said.

"It was a good break for me to go with a guy like Gil Hodges, the Washington manager. He knows what a ball player goes through. He's patient. That guy's been a tremendous help to me."

Howard, probably the strongest man in baseball, was once billed as a second Babe Ruth. Not many players since Ruth have been able to drive a ball as high and deep as Howard.

"I'm a tremendously big guy," said Howard, "and as a result everyone expects you to do things in accordance with your size. But it just doesn't work out that way. I don't have the ability to be a great ball player but just try to make people realize that.

"I try to be true to myself. I don't try to sell myself short. I think I can drive in 100 runs and hit 30 home runs a year, but I don't think I have the ability to hit 45 home runs, for example."

His major league high was 31 for the Dodgers in 1962.

His size is against him, he said. "I don't have the coordination or agility of a six-footer. Everything I get out of this game I get through effort."

College Grid Crowds Show Upward Trend

New York (AP) — College football attendance, following the pattern of the pros, is on the ascendancy.

The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau reported that 623,860 fans turned out last week to view the ten top-attended games. This compared with the previous high of 603,636 for the same week last year.

Misunderstanding Causes Midland Extra Day Wait

Fremont (AP)—There were a lot of red faces among officials of Midland and Sioux Falls colleges Thursday.

The Midland College football team left early Thursday for Sioux Falls, S. D., planning on a 3 p.m. football game. When they arrived they discovered that Sioux Falls College had no plans to play the game until 3:30 p.m. Friday. Nobody knows just how the misunderstanding occurred.

Aside from embarrassment the only effect is that the Midland team arranged to spend the night in Sioux Falls and wait for the Friday game.

Grid Scrimmage Fatally Injures 17-Year-Old Boy

Fayetteville, N.C. (AP)—Mike Welch, a 17-year-old high school football player, died Thursday of injuries received in a scrimmage at Pine Forest School near Fayetteville.

Welch collapsed during the scrimmage Wednesday and was taken to Womack Army Hospital at Ft. Bragg, where surgery was performed to relieve pressure on his brain.

He was flown to Walter Reed General Hospital at Washington Thursday, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Westrum To Be Mets Manager

New York (AP)—The Long Island Daily Press said Thursday that Wes Westrum, interim manager of the New York Mets last season, would be appointed the 1966 field leader of the National League team early next week.

Westrum, a former major league catcher, took over on July 25 when Casey Stengel suffered a broken hip while getting out of a car. The 75-year-old Stengel subsequently retired.

Jack Lang, the Press' baseball writer, said that Mrs. Charles S. Payson, the club owner, would return from a European vacation this weekend and that Westrum's appointment would be made soon after, perhaps on Monday.

Three Jockeys Out Of Action At Atokad

. . . ONE SUSPENDED, TWO SUSTAINED INJURIES

South Sioux City — Three jockeys had their season cut short at Atokad track this week.

Victor Forth was suspended Friday for seven calendar days for careless riding while jockeying I Will Not in the sixth race Wednesday.

Ron Alexander, who was thought to be hurt only slightly after being hit in the head with a clod or horse shoe Monday, may be out for the remainder of the season. Alexander is in St. Vincent Hospital where he is undergoing obsevation for the cause of numbness in one of his legs.

Kenneth Hare is also out of action with torn cartilage in his leg. Hare sustained the injury while riding Up and Up Wednesday and will be unable to compete for an indefinite time.

Tiger Decisions Joey Giardello

. . . UNANIMOUS CHOICE OF JUDGES

New York (AP)—Dick Tiger, a grim stalker from Nigeria, won back the world middleweight title he lost 22 months ago by whipping game Joey Giardello decisively on a unanious verdict Thursday night in 15 tough rounds.

A capacity crowd of 17,064 that paid $161,964 at Madison Square Garden saw the 36-year-old African open cuts around both of Pal Joey's eyes.

Thumping a steady barrage on Giardello's body while bongo drums beat a steady accompaniment in the background, Tiger piled up points but never was able to drop the veteran who took the title from him Dec. 7, 1963 at Atlantic City.

Referee Johnny Lo Bianco scored it 9-5-1 in rounds, judge Al Berl 10-5 and judge Tony Castellano 8-6-1, all for the muscular Nigerian. The AP card had it 10-4-1 for Tiger, who was raised up on the shoulders of his handlers in mid-ring after the bout.

Although Giardeloo had won nine straight over a period of nearly three years and had beaten Tiger in two of three previous bouts, Tiger had gone into the ring as a 7-5 favorite. He had been a 3-1 choice when he lost at Atlantic City.

The big crowd included a large delegation of Giardello boosters from Philadelphia who cheered his brief stands of counter punching. But the 35-year-old battle-scarred boxer from Cherry Hill, N.J. simply could not keep the Tiger from climbing all over him.

Tiger, who weighed 158½ pounds to 160, the class limit, for the beaten champion, had waited a long time for this return bout. He started strong, carried the battle to Pal Joey, and piled up such a wide lead that he was out of reach when Giardello started a late comeback.

Giardello closed with a rally that was too late and too little. Although he scored points his punches had lost their zip. He would have needed a knockout to win it but Joey hasn't knocked out anybody since 1961.

The bout was carried on a regional television hookup, mostly into Eastern cities, but was blacked out in New York where it was heard on radio. It marked the first appearance by Giardello in the Garden since 1954.

Tiger was much sharper than in Atlantic City and slammed away to the body throughout the bout. Referee Lo Bianco did not rush in to break the boxers too quickly and the body barrage often continued for several seconds.

Giardello, a master at the head feints jab and sliding moves, was cut on the side of the left eye in the second and on the side of the right eye in the ninth. Although he was blood smeared at times, the cuts never seemed to bother him.

Tiger's best weapon is his left hook which he threw over and over again with solid effect. He crowded Joey to the ropes time after time and punished him as he switched from body to head and back to the body again.

Whe Giardello did put on his late spurt, the blows had no big punch and they bounced off Tiger's head like rain drops in a summer shower.

The big crowd rose and cheered in the 12th when Giardello, after absorbing a bad beating for two minutes, gamely fought back and stung the Nigerian and tried to slug it out with him.

It was obvious that Joey had gone to the well once too often. This was his 129th fight and his 23rd defeat to 98 wins. He fought seven draws and had one no-decision contest.

When reporters got to Giardello in his dressing room, and asked about his possible retirement, Joey pointed to his wife, Rosalie, and said: "It's up to Rosalie."

Rosalie said, "My husband's going to retire."

"You heard her," said Giardello. "But I want to fight one more time for the retarded children of Providence, R.I. Dec. 8. A guy asked me to do it and I'd like to if he still wants me."

One of Joey's four sons is retarded.

Tiger, who never has been stopped, now has a 52-14-3 record for 69 fights since he came out of Amaigbo, Orlu in Nigeria and started fighting in 1952.

He had won the title from Gene Fullmer, Oct. 23, 1963, defended it against Fullmer twice, once in Las Vegas and once in Ibadan, Nigeria, before losing to Giardello in Atlantic City.

Giardello had been guaranteed $50,000 against 40 per cent of the net, including the television and radio receipts.

In the absence of an exact breakdown, it appeared Joey would draw down a little more than his guarantee. However, $20,000 of his purse has been ordered held up pending the final disposition of a law suit against him involving a contract with Lou Duva, a Paterson, N.J. promoter.

Tiger was guaranteed $15,000 or 20 per cent of the house will get considerably more than the amount promised, perhaps as much as $35,000. Most important, he had the world championship again to take home to his native land.

Frank Honored As AL Winner

. . . COMEBACK PLAYER OF YEAR

Green Bay, Wis. (AP) — "It just goes to show what a little hard work and concentration can do for a guy," commented gentle giant Frank Howard Thursday after the Washington Senators' outfielder learned he had been named Comeback Player-of-the-Year in the American League.

"But I certainly didn't expect anything like this," said the 6-foot-7 Howard. "It's a nice honor, you know."

Howard, traded to the lowly Senators by the Los Angeles Dodgers after batting .226 in 1964, hit .269 for the Senators, slugging 21 home runs and batting in 84 tallies.

He drew 61 votes in the The Associated Press annual poll of 281 sports writers and sportscasters. Minnesota pitcher Jim Grant was second with 58 votes followed by Norm Cash, Detroit first baseman, with 24.

"You can get down on yourself awfully easy, and I was definitely down on myself," said Howard, contacted at his home in Green Bay. "Once you're down on yourself mentally you can't do anything right. Half the battle is upstairs in your head."

Howard's attitude improved when he was traded. For one thing, he got a chance to play every day for the first time since coming to the big leagues to stay in 1960.

And he had to overcome personal problems that caused him to announce his retirement from baseball prior to the 1964 season.

"In time, you're able to look back and think what mountain you made out of a molehill," said Howard of his troubles. "Then you begin to realize that you don't have any bigger problems than any other guy. I know one thing now. I've got to play baseball as long as I can now just for financial reasons."

That realization drove Howard when he reported to spring training. He brought with him a pair of weights to insert in his shoes to improve his running and spent an hour or more daily after practice doing condtioning exercises.

"I had just come off a miserable year. My mental attitude was real poor, and I wasn't in very good shape. So I had to do something to speed up," Howard said.

"It was a good break for me to go with a guy like Gil Hodges, the Washington manager. He knows what a ball player goes through. He's patient. That guy's been a tremendous help to me."

Howard, probably the strongest man in baseball, was once billed as a second Babe Ruth. Not many players since Ruth have been able to drive a ball as high and deep as Howard.

"I'm a tremendously big guy," said Howard, "and as a result everyone expects you to do things in accordance with your size. But it just doesn't work out that way. I don't have the ability to be a great ball player but just try to make people realize that.

"I try to be true to myself. I don't try to sell myself short. I think I can drive in 100 runs and hit 30 home runs a year, but I don't think I have the ability to hit 45 home runs, for example."

His major league high was 31 for the Dodgers in 1962.

His size is against him, he said. "I don't have the coordination or agility of a six-footer. Everything I get out of this game I get through effort."

College Grid Crowds Show Upward Trend

New York (AP) — College football attendance, following the pattern of the pros, is on the ascendancy.

The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau reported that 623,860 fans turned out last week to view the ten top-attended games. This compared with the previous high of 603,636 for the same week last year.

Misunderstanding Causes Midland Extra Day Wait

Fremont (AP)—There were a lot of red faces among officials of Midland and Sioux Falls colleges Thursday.

The Midland College football team left early Thursday for Sioux Falls, S. D., planning on a 3 p.m. football game. When they arrived they discovered that Sioux Falls College had no plans to play the game until 3:30 p.m. Friday. Nobody knows just how the misunderstanding occurred.

Aside from embarrassment the only effect is that the Midland team arranged to spend the night in Sioux Falls and wait for the Friday game.

Grid Scrimmage Fatally Injures 17-Year-Old Boy

Fayetteville, N.C. (AP)—Mike Welch, a 17-year-old high school football player, died Thursday of injuries received in a scrimmage at Pine Forest School near Fayetteville.

Welch collapsed during the scrimmage Wednesday and was taken to Womack Army Hospital at Ft. Bragg, where surgery was performed to relieve pressure on his brain.

He was flown to Walter Reed General Hospital at Washington Thursday, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Westrum To Be Mets Manager

New York (AP)—The Long Island Daily Press said Thursday that Wes Westrum, Interim manager of the New York Mets last season, would be appointed the 1966 field leader of the National League team early next week.

Westrum, a former major league catcher, took over on July 25 when Casey Stengel suffered a broken hip while getting out of a car. The 75-year-old Stengel subsequently retired.

Jack Lang, the Press' baseball writer, said that Mrs. Charles S. Payson, the club owner, would return from a European vacation this weekend and that Westrum's appointment would be made soon after, perhaps on Monday.

Hogs' Hero Concerned With 'Man Head-Up'

Fayetteville, Ark. (AP)—"I never thought I would make it," said Bobby Crockett, the Arkansas end whose acrobatic pass catches against Texas made him The Associated Press Lineman of the Week.

Crockett's only concern—while he dazzled 42,000 fans and a national television audience last Saturday with his pass receptions—was "the man head-up on me."

Injuries Foremost On NWU Coach Ray Westover's Mind

. . . PLAINSMEN PREPARE FOR MISSOURI VALLEY

By TOM HENDERSON
Star Sports Writer

Injuries have been foremost on coach Ray Westover's mind this week as his Nebraska Wesleyan team readies itself for tonight's 7:30 encounter with Missouri Valley College of Marshall, Mo. at O.N. Magee stadium.

Last Saturday night's win against Doane produced numerous bumps and bruises among the Plainsmen, including a slight concussion to freshman defensive safety, Doug Dworak. Dworak will probably be out for the rest of the season.

Al Riley, freshman linebacker, and Mick Pierce, offensive tackle and defensive end, also suffered serious bruises but are expected to be ready for duty tonight.

Dworak joins Dwight Tietjen, senior end, tackle Bob Olson, and defensive safety Dennis Gordon on the sidelines, all with injuries.

Tietjen, a star pass-catcher on offense as well as a defensive standout, was hurt three weeks ago in the St. Mary contest, while Olson and Gordon were added to the injury list after the Colorado College fray two weeks ago.

Teitjen's injury has enabled left halfback Bill Rohrig and quarterback Dave Lebsack to pull even in the battle for scoring honors. Each scored once in the Doane encounter, giving the trio 24 points apiece for the season.

The victory over Doane was the fifth of the year for Wesleyan and seventh in a row dating back to last season.

Missouri Valley has three wins and two losses, defeating Graceland, 15-6, William Penn, 14-0, and Tarkio, 14-0. Huron and New Mexico Highlands have handed the Missouri Valley club its only setbacks.

Des Moines Man Loses Amateur Golf Standing

Des Moines, Iowa (AP) — Floren Dipaglia, 39, one of Iowa's leading amateur golfers, has been stripped of his amateur standing by the United States Golf Association for conduct detrimental to golf.

Dipaglia, an aluminum siding salesman from Des Moines, was on a business trip Thursday and not available for comment. His wife said she did not know whether he had been notified of the forfeiture of his amateur status.

Joe Dey, USGA executive director, declined to give the exact reason for the action, but he said Diplaglia appeared before the USGA's Executive Committee last month and "volunteered information on himself, golf and gambling on golf."

We can always take time to visit because there's just no hurrying the way we make Jack Daniel's

People in Jack Daniel's Hollow take their time in doing just about everything. And particularly when they're making Tennessee whiskey. That's because we still make our whiskey the slow, old-fashioned way. And that calls for Charcoal Mellowing every drop, an extra step that takes twice as long as all the other whiskey-making steps put together.

This ancient Tennessee process calls first for hard maple from high ground. It's cut in the season when the sap is down and brought to the Hollow where it's sawed up and carefully stacked in ricks.

The ricks are burned in the open air and the special charcoal that results is then ground up fine and packed tightly in vats 10 feet deep. Next, the just-made whiskey is trickled in.

What slowly seeps out, drop by drop, is only the sippin' part, ready for aging. So you see, all the time and patience we put into making our whiskey keeps us from hurrying. We are busy, but we take our time being busy.

Nebraska, K-State Freshmen To Clash

. . . 8 NEBRASKANS START ON NU OFFENSE

Manhattan, Kan.—Nebraska and Kansas State freshmen open their four-game schedules at 2:30 here this afternoon.

Twelve Nebraska natives have earned starting spots on Huskers two platoons as coach John Melton tries to stretch his unbeaten string as freshman coach to seven.

Eight offensive starters list Nebraska as their home state with only 6-7, 210-pound quarterback Frank Patrick of Derry, Pa., right end Sherwin Jarmon of Detroit and right halfback Tom Penney of Augusta, Kan., from elsewhere breaking into the offensive starting unit.

Hogs' Hero Concerned With 'Man Head-Up'

Fayetteville, Ark. (AP)—"I never thought I would make it," said Bobby Crockett, the Arkansas end whose acrobatic pass catches against Texas made him The Associated Press Lineman of the Week.

Crockett's only concern—while he dazzled 42,000 fans and a national television audience last Saturday with his pass receptions—was "the man head-up on me."

Game Of The Week To Be On Saturday

Chicago (AP) — Baseball's major leagues Game of the Week television spectaculars probably will be shown on 25 Saturdays and the nights of three holidays, Memorial Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day.

This was indicated as representatives of the American and National Leagues closed a three-day session by polishing of rough drafts of 162-game schedules for 1966.

Briton Hopes For Nuclear Treaty

United Nations, N.Y. (UPI) —Britain said Thursday it could "see no reason why" it was not possible to reconcile the draft treaties banning the spread of nuclear arms proposed by the United States and the Soviet Union.

Britain's chief disarmament negotiator Lord Chalfont held out the hope that a compromise treaty could be signed at this session of the General Assembly.

He said East and West "must strain every nerve here in this building to close the gap in thinking that separate the American and Soviet draft treaties" and then present as soon as possible "a treaty for signature."

Further Than U.S.

Lord Chalfont's statement in the General Assembly's 117-member main political committee went one step further than the United States which had said it was "encouraged" by Soviet indications it was willing to negotiate a nonproliferation treaty.

Stating a belief that the Soviet draft was not intended to exclude existing arrangements for sharing strategic responsibilities in NATO, Lord Chalfont declared ,"I believe the Soviet Union genuinely wants agreement."

U.S. disarmament expert William F. Foster, in noting the Soviet proposal, urged that the 18-nation disarmament conference be reconvened in Geneva as soon as possible to consider the East-West drafts.

Perfect Spot

Lord Chalfont said the United Nations appeared to be in the perfect spot to reach agreement on the nuclear disarmament proposal.

"If we can reconcile the main differences that exist between the two draft treaties now on the table before us—and I see no reason why we should not—then I believe it would be accepted by a large number of the countries represented around this table," he said.

He urged immediate hard bargaining, with everyone willing "to concede a little of his position and be content with compromise."

The British diplomat said, "We in the West are making a sincere effort in this direction."

However, he warned there was the possibility "that the Soviet Union (may) have put forward their draft simply as a propaganda exercise."

He said that would be the conclusion the West would have to draw fi the Soviet draft was designed to prevent any change in the defenses of the NATO alliance.

The Soviet Union has objected to a U.S. multilateral nuclear force (MLF) for NATO on the grounds it would give nuclear arms to West Germany.

Lord Chalfont backed the U.S. contention that existing arrangements for sharing NATO are "not negotiable."

He said it would be impossible to give serious consideration to the Soviet draft treaty until the Kremlin made its position on the NATO question crystal clear.

Comet Blazes Across Pacific Before Fading

Honolulu (AP)—The Ikeya-Seki Comet blazed 60 times as bright as the moon Thursday in its million-mile-an-hour loop around the sun, then faded disappointingly as it raced back toward oblivion.

A jet chase of the comet starting at dawn Thursday proved the most successful effort by the Honolulu-based NASA team. Several scientists believed they caught good photographs of the comet's tail.

They reported it emerged after looping around the sun with a tail far shorter than expected.

A few hours later Japanese astronomer Minoru Honda photographed the comet "complete with head and tail." He said it was 60 times as bright as the full moon and added: "I am sure it is one of the biggest comets we have so far witnessed in the 20th Century."

Later, as the Earth's rotation brought the sun and the nearby comet above the horizon on the United States' east coast, another jet plane streaked aloft in a vain effort to spot Ikeya-Seki.

A layer of clouds and haze obscured the view and an astronomer aboard suggested the tight and torturous swing-around may have broken the comet into pieces too small to be visible.

As sunrise broke later on the west coast, however, Lick Observatory in northern California spotted the comet again.

"It is now past the point of closest approach and is going away from the sun," a spokesman said. "The comet itself is visible but not the tail. It does not appear to be as bright as had been expected."

One of the difficulties in spotting the comet during its swing-around was its nearness to the blinding sun. Estimates placed the miss distance at 300,000 to 800,000 miles. Another problem was local weather conditions at observation points.

But Ikeya-Seki was observed enough to create several scientific puzzles, Analysis of its light showed the comet—supposedly a blob of frozen gas and dust—had a surprising amount of internal heat. It also contained iron, sodium and calcium — elements heretofore not believed present in these occasional visitors from the fringes of the Solar System.

Draft Card Burner Asks ACLU Help

Iowa City, Iowa (UPI)—A University of Iowa student who burned his draft card appealed Thursday to the American Civil Liberties Union for legal counsel.

Red-bearded Steve Smith, a 20-year-old civil rights worker, said he asked the ACLU for legal aid after several attorneys in Iowa city refused to handle his case.

The youth, who has two brothers serving in the armed forces, publicly burned his Selective Service card Wednesday at an open forum meeting on the campus. He said he took the action to protest the involvement of the United States in the Vietnamese war and said he expected to be arrested by the FBI.

A man was seen carefully picking up the charred card after the incident and placing it in an envelope. Police later confirmed a report that a FBI agent had been in the crowd attending the forum.

'KNOX' PAIR SUSPECTED OF TAKING TURKEY

Monmouth, Ill. (AP) — Thanksgiving Day is five weeks off, but somebody stole a prized turkey from Monmouth College.

It's the Bronze Turkey trophy in the ancient (from 1891) football rivalry between Knox College and Monmouth, to be renewed Saturday.

Suspected are a pair of presumed Knox students, who posed as news photographers and talked a Monmouth official into removing the turkey from a glass case in the student center for an outdoor shot.

A well-timed phone call summoned the official indoors and away went the turkey.

California Solons Redistrict Selves

Sacramento, Calif. (AP)—The California Legislature obeyed the State Supreme Court's order Thursday and voted to reapportion itself.

A month-long stalemate crumbled as the senate, and then the assembly, overwhelmingly approved the bill that gives Southern California's growing, populous counties control of both houses.

The senate, now controlled by Northern Californians, will shift to the hands of southerners as its districts—now drawn along county lines—are recreated on a population basis.

Briton Hopes For Nuclear Treaty

United Nations, N.Y. (UPI)—Britain said Thursday it could "see no reason why" it was not possible to reconcile the draft treaties banning the spread of nuclear arms proposed by the United States and the Soviet Union.

Britain's chief disarmament negotiator Lord Chalfont held out the hope that a compromise treaty could be signed at this session of the General Assembly.

He said East and West "must strain every nerve here in this building to close the gap in thinking that separate the American and Soviet draft treaties" and then present as soon as possible "a treaty for signature."

Further Than U.S.

Lord Chalfont's statement in the General Assembly's 117-member main political committee went one step further than the United States which had said it was "encouraged" by Soviet indications it was willing to negotiate a nonproliferation treaty.

Stating a belief that the Soviet draft was not intended to exclude existing arrangements for sharing strategic responsibilities in NATO, Lord Chalfont declared ,"I believe the Soviet Union genuinely wants agreement."

U.S. disarmament expert William F. Foster, in noting the Soviet proposal, urged that the 18-nation disarmament conference be reconvened in Geneva as soon as possible to consider the East-West drafts.

Perfect Spot

Lord Chalfont said the United Nations appeared to be in the perfect spot to reach agreement on the nuclear disarmament proposal.

"If we can reconcile the main differences that exist between the two draft treaties now on the table before us—and I see no reason why we should not—then I believe it would be accepted by a large number of the countries represented around this table," he said.

He urged immediate hard bargaining, with everyone willing "to concede a little of his position and be content with compromise."

The British diplomat said, "We in the West are making a sincere effort in this direction."

However, he warned there was the possibility "that the Soviet Union (may) have put forward their draft simply as a propaganda exercise."

He said that would be the conclusion the West would have to draw fi the Soviet draft was designed to prevent any change in the defenses of the NATO alliance.

The Soviet Union has objected to a U.S. multilateral nuclear force (MLF) for NATO on the grounds it would give nuclear arms to West Germany.

Lord Chalfont backed the U.S. contention that existing arrangements for sharing NATO are "not negotiable."

He said it would be impossible to give serious consideration to the Soviet draft treaty until the Kremlin made its position on the NATO question crystal clear.

Comet Blazes Across Pacific Before Fading

Honolulu (AP)—The Ikeya-Seki Comet blazed 60 times as bright as the moon Thursday in its million-mile-an-hour loop around the sun, then faded disappointingly as it raced back toward oblivion.

A jet chase of the comet starting at dawn Thursday proved the most successful effort by the Honolulu-based NASA team. Several scientists believed they caught good photographs of the comet's tail.

They reported it emerged after looping around the sun with a tail far shorter than expected.

A few hours later Japanese astronomer Minoru Honda photographed the comet "complete with head and tail." He said it was 60 times as bright as the full moon and added: "I am sure it is one of the biggest comets we have so far witnessed in the 20th Century."

Later, as the Earth's rotation brought the sun and the nearby comet above the horizon on the United States' east coast, another jet plane streaked aloft in a vain effort to spot Ikeya-Seki.

A layer of clouds and haze obscured the view and an astronomer aboard suggested the tight and torturous swing-around may have broken the comet into pieces too small to be visible.

As sunrise broke later on the west coast, however, Lick Observatory in northern California spotted the comet again.

"It is now past the point of closest approach and is going away from the sun," a spokesman said. "The comet itself is visible but not the tail. It does not appear to be as bright as had been expected."

One of the difficulties in spotting the comet during its swing-around was its nearness to the blinding sun. Estimates placed the miss distance at 300,000 to 800,000 miles. Another problem was local weather conditions at observation points.

But Ikeya-Seki was observed enough to create several scientific puzzles, Analysis of its light showed the comet—supposedly a blob of frozen gas and dust—had a surprising amount of internal heat. It also contained iron, sodium and calcium — elements heretofore not believed present in these occasional visitors from the fringes of the Solar System.

California Solons Redistrict Selves

Sacramento, Calif. (AP)—The California Legislature obeyed the State Supreme Court's order Thursday and voted to reapportion itself.

A month-long stalemate crumbled as the senate, and then the assembly, overwhelmingly approved the bill that gives Southern California's growing, populous counties control of both houses.

The senate, now controlled by Northern Californians, will shift to the hands of southerners as its districts—now drawn along county lines—are recreated on a population basis.

Stock Market Advances To Record Highs

New York (AP) — Heavy activity in low-price issues highlighted the stock market's renewed advance to record highs Thursday.

Volume was 9.18 million shares compared with 8.23 million Wednesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.81 to a record 950.25. At its height for the day, this average was up 3.68 at the end of the first hour. Late selling by traders trimmed gains.

All the popular averages were in gear. Of 1,414 issues traded, 630 rose and 531 fell. New highs for the year totaled 109 and new lows 15.

A parade of increased earnings and raised dividends provided optimism in Wall Street. In addition, President Johnson returned to the White House following his hospitalization.

The Dow Jones railroad average climbed to another record high, re-affirming the peak in the industrials. The rails were helped by some dividend increases and also by a compromise agreement between Eastern and Western roads on the splitting of coast-to-coast revenue, whereby Eastern roads would gain and Western roads lose millions in revenue annually.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.0 to a new high of 351.7 with industrials up 1.2 to a record high, rails up .8 to a high for the year and utilities up .4.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock average advanced .16 to a record 91.94.

Twelve of the most-active stocks advanced and 3 declined. Of the volume leaders, seven sold below $20 a share, a reflection of high public participation in the market, analysts said.

Lehigh Valley Industries was the most active stock up 1 at 6⅛ on 260,200 shares.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange showed an irregularly higher edge. Volume was 3.74 million shares compared with 3.4 million Wednesday.

Corporate bonds were a little stronger in moderately active trading. U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged.

Good Commercial Buying Boosts Soybean Futures

Chicago (AP)—Good commercial buying boosted soybean futures prices as much as 2 cents a bushel Thursday when offerings were scarce.

At the market's close, all commodities were higher, wheat moving into the plus ranks after selling fractionally down in the earlier part of the session.

Corn prices were the strongest in many days as exporters garnered contracts and local short traders shopped to cover their commitments.

Wheat closed ¼ to ⅝ cents a bushel higher, December $1.61⅜-½; corn ⅝-1¼ higher, December $1.14¼-⅜; oats ⅛-⅜ higher, December 66⅞ cents; rye unchanged to ⅞ higher, December $1.21¼ and soybeans ⅜-1⅝ higher, November $2.48⅜-½.

Farmer Recuping From Farm Injury

Norfolk, Neb. (UPI)—Orville Heller, 38, Pilger farmer, was recovering in Lutheran Community Hospital here from injuries received in a farm accident Tuesday night.

Heller suffered severe burns on his neck, leg, cheek and other parts of his body when a tractor power takeoff stripped off all his clothing except his shorts and boots. He had been grinding feed on the Ed Psotta farm.

His clothing became caught when he apparently stepped in mud and was thrown off balance. He called his wife, who took him to the hospital.

Stock Market Advances To Record Highs

New York (AP) — Heavy activity in low-price issues highlighted the stock market's renewed advance to record highs Thursday.

Volume was 9.18 million shares compared with 8.23 million Wednesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.81 to a record 950.25. At its height for the day, this average was up 3.68 at the end of the first hour. Late selling by traders trimmed gains.

All the popular averages were in gear. Of 1,414 issues traded, 630 rose and 531 fell. New highs for the year totaled 109 and new lows 15.

A parade of increased earnings and raised dividends provided optimism in Wall Street. In addition, President Johnson returned to the White House following his hospitalization.

The Dow Jones railroad average climbed to another record high, reaffirming the peak in the industrials. The rails were helped by some dividend increases and also by a compromise agreement between Eastern and Western roads on the splitting of coast-to-coast revenue, whereby Eastern roads would gain and Western roads lose millions in revenue annually.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.0 to a new high of 351.7 with industrials up 1.2 to a record high, rails up .8 to a high for the year and utilities up .4.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock average advanced .16 to a record 91.94.

Twelve of the most-active stocks advanced and 3 declined. Of the volume leaders, seven sold below $20 a share, a reflection of high public participation in the market, analysts said.

Lehigh Valley Industries was the most active stock up 1 at 6⅜ on 260,200 shares.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange showed an irregularly higher edge. Volume was 3.74 million shares compared with 3.4 million Wednesday.

Corporate bonds were a little stronger in moderately active trading. U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged.

Good Commercial Buying Boosts Soybean Futures

Chicago (AP)—Good commercial buying boosted soybean futures prices as much as 2 cents a bushel Thursday when offerings were scarce.

At the market's close, all commodities were higher, wheat moving into the plus ranks after selling fractionally down in the earlier part of the session.

Corn prices were the strongest in many days as exporters garnered contracts and local short traders shopped to cover their commitments.

Wheat closed ¼ to ⅜ cents a bushel higher, December $1.61⅝-½; corn ⅜-1¼ higher, December $1.14¼-¼; oats ⅛-⅜ higher, December 66⅝ cents; rye unchanged to ⅞ higher, December $1.21½ and soybeans ⅝-1⅜ higher, November $2.48⅜-½.

Farmer Recuping From Farm Injury

Norfolk, Neb. (UPI)—Orville Heller, 38, Pilger farmer, was recovering in Lutheran Community Hospital here from injuries received in a farm accident Tuesday night.

Heller suffered severe burns on his neck, leg, cheek and other parts of his body when a tractor power takeoff stripped off all his clothing except his shorts and boots. He had been grinding feed on the Ed Psotta farm.

His clothing became caught when he apparently stepped in mud and was thrown off balance. He called his wife, who took him to the hospital.

Miami (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro said Thursday night he is letting Cubans leave the island because he wants to distill Cuba's population to "true revolutionaries, true socialists, true communists."

Castro, in a surprise speech marking Cuba's first national track and field games, reiterated his "open door" policy for Cuban refugees first proclaimed Sept. 28.

"Again we say that the policy of this government is that anyone who does not wish to live here can leave," said Castro, whose speech was monitored in Miami.

"We are expelling no one, for we expel no one born in this land, but we are giving facilities to all those who do not wish to live here.

"We are doing this because we want to create a society of men and women who are true revolutionaries, true socialists, true communists."

Castro said his reason for refusing to let "young men of the age between 17 and 26" leave in the refugee exodus is that "the imperialists draft young men of military age and we are not going to give the enemy flesh for cannons."

"We are not going to allow a young man to leave, to be trained and brought back for us to have to shoot at. It is better that he do his military duty here," Castro said.
